

don't be fooled by me.
don't be fooled by the face I wear.
for I wear a thousand masks that I am afraid to take off.
and none of them are me.

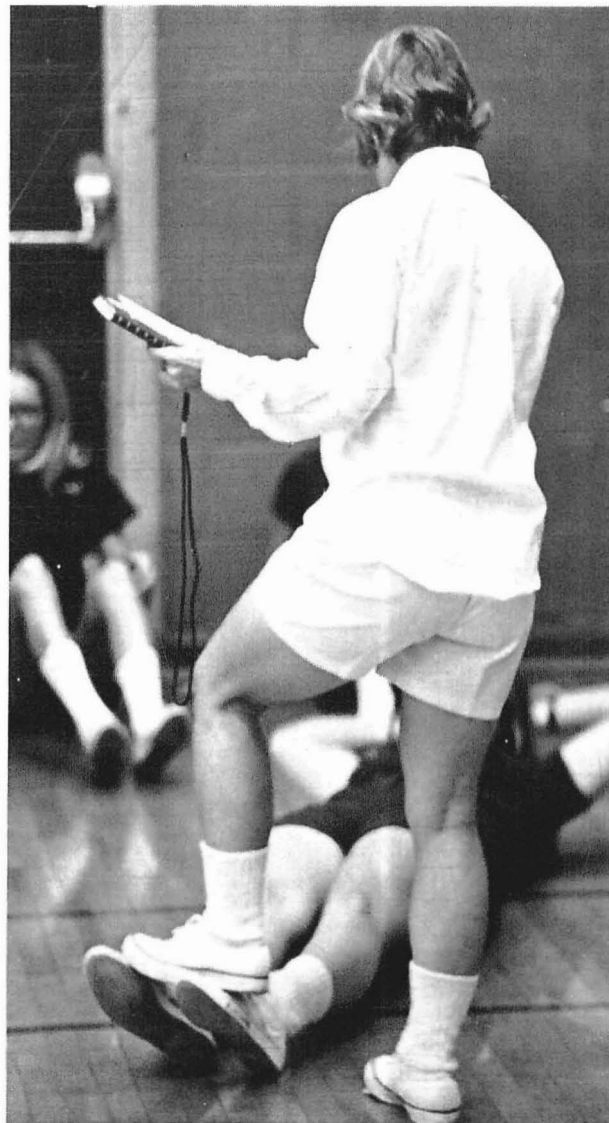

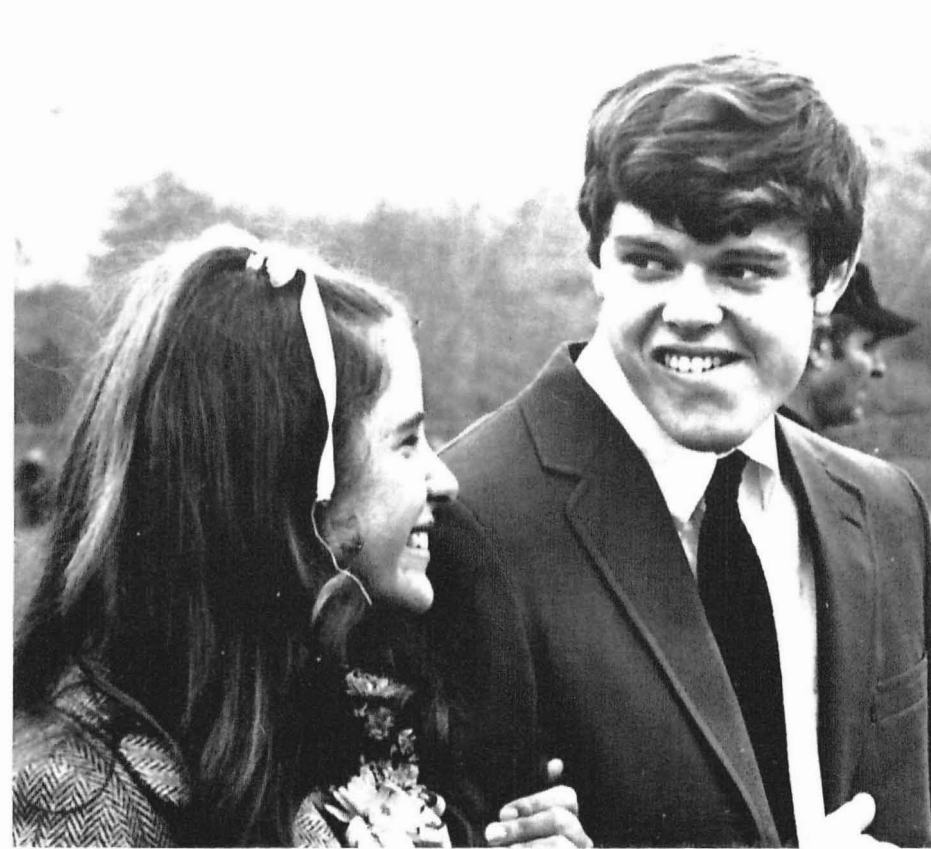

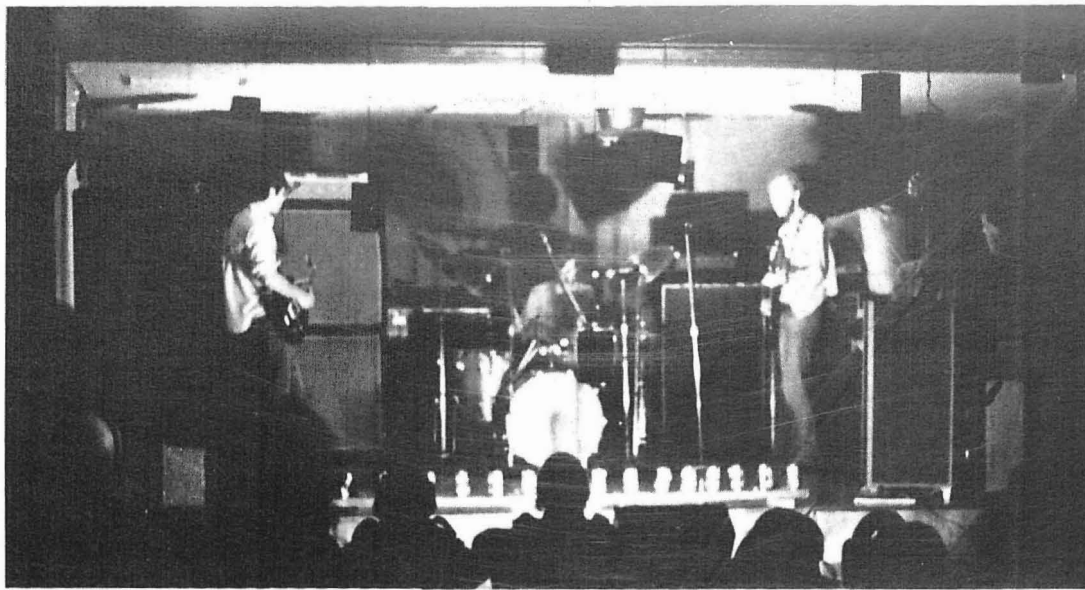

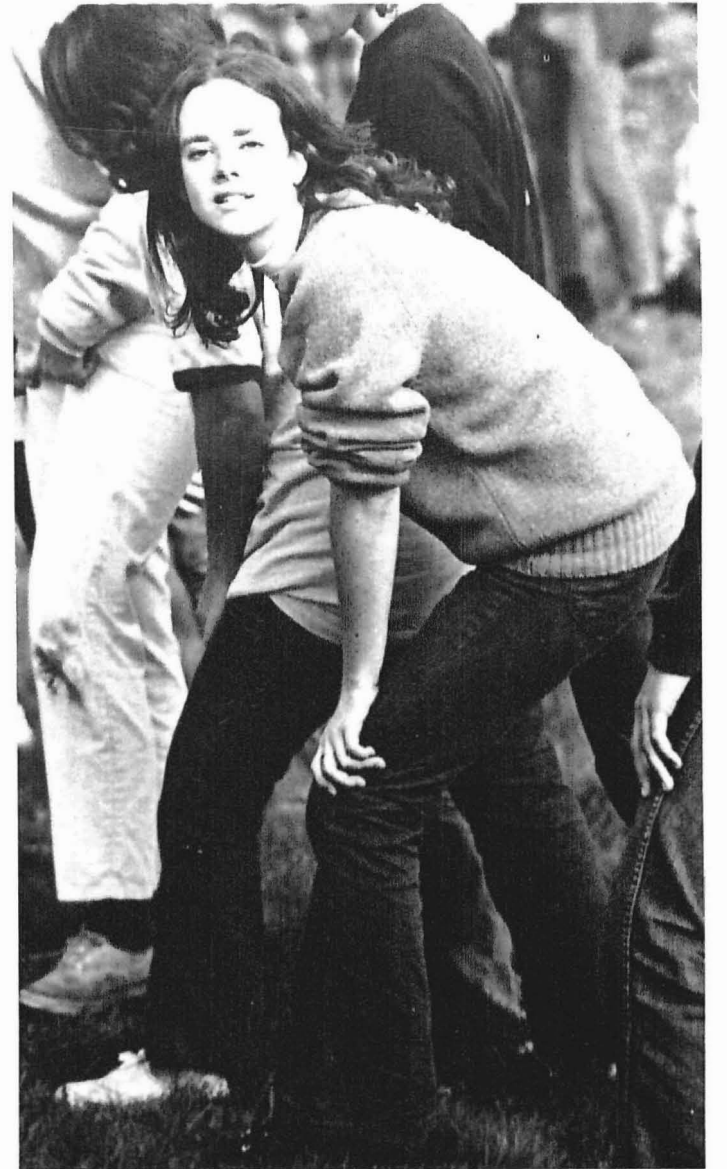

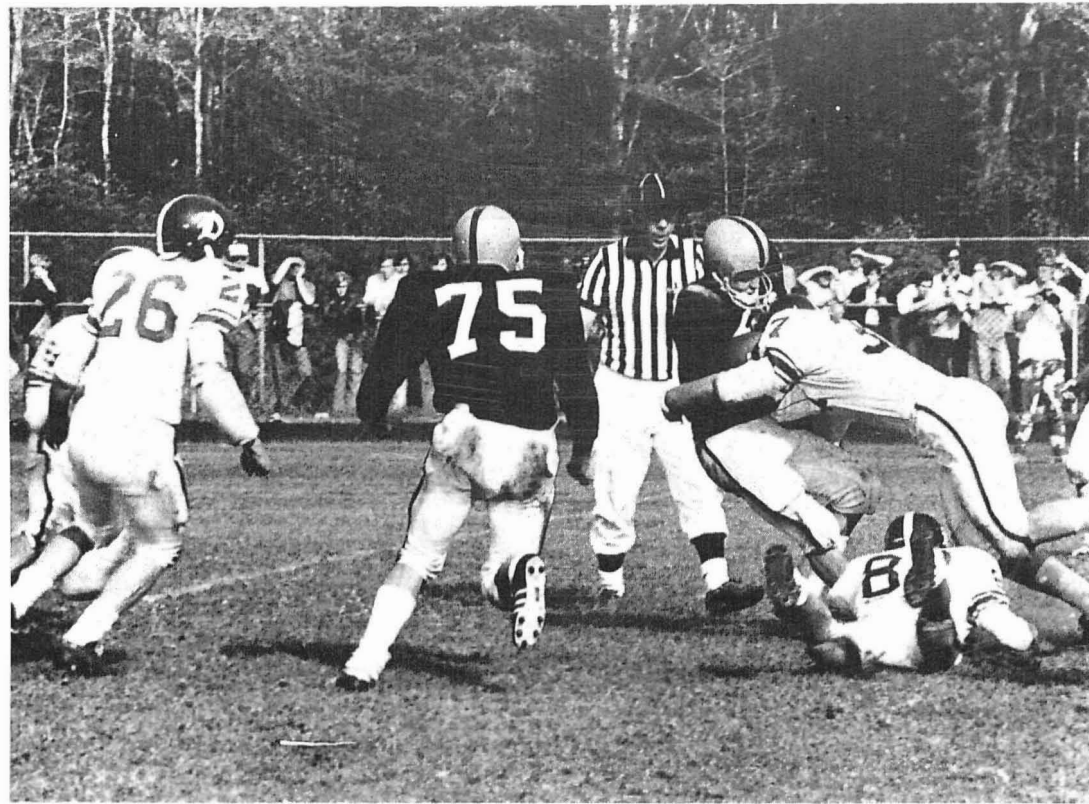

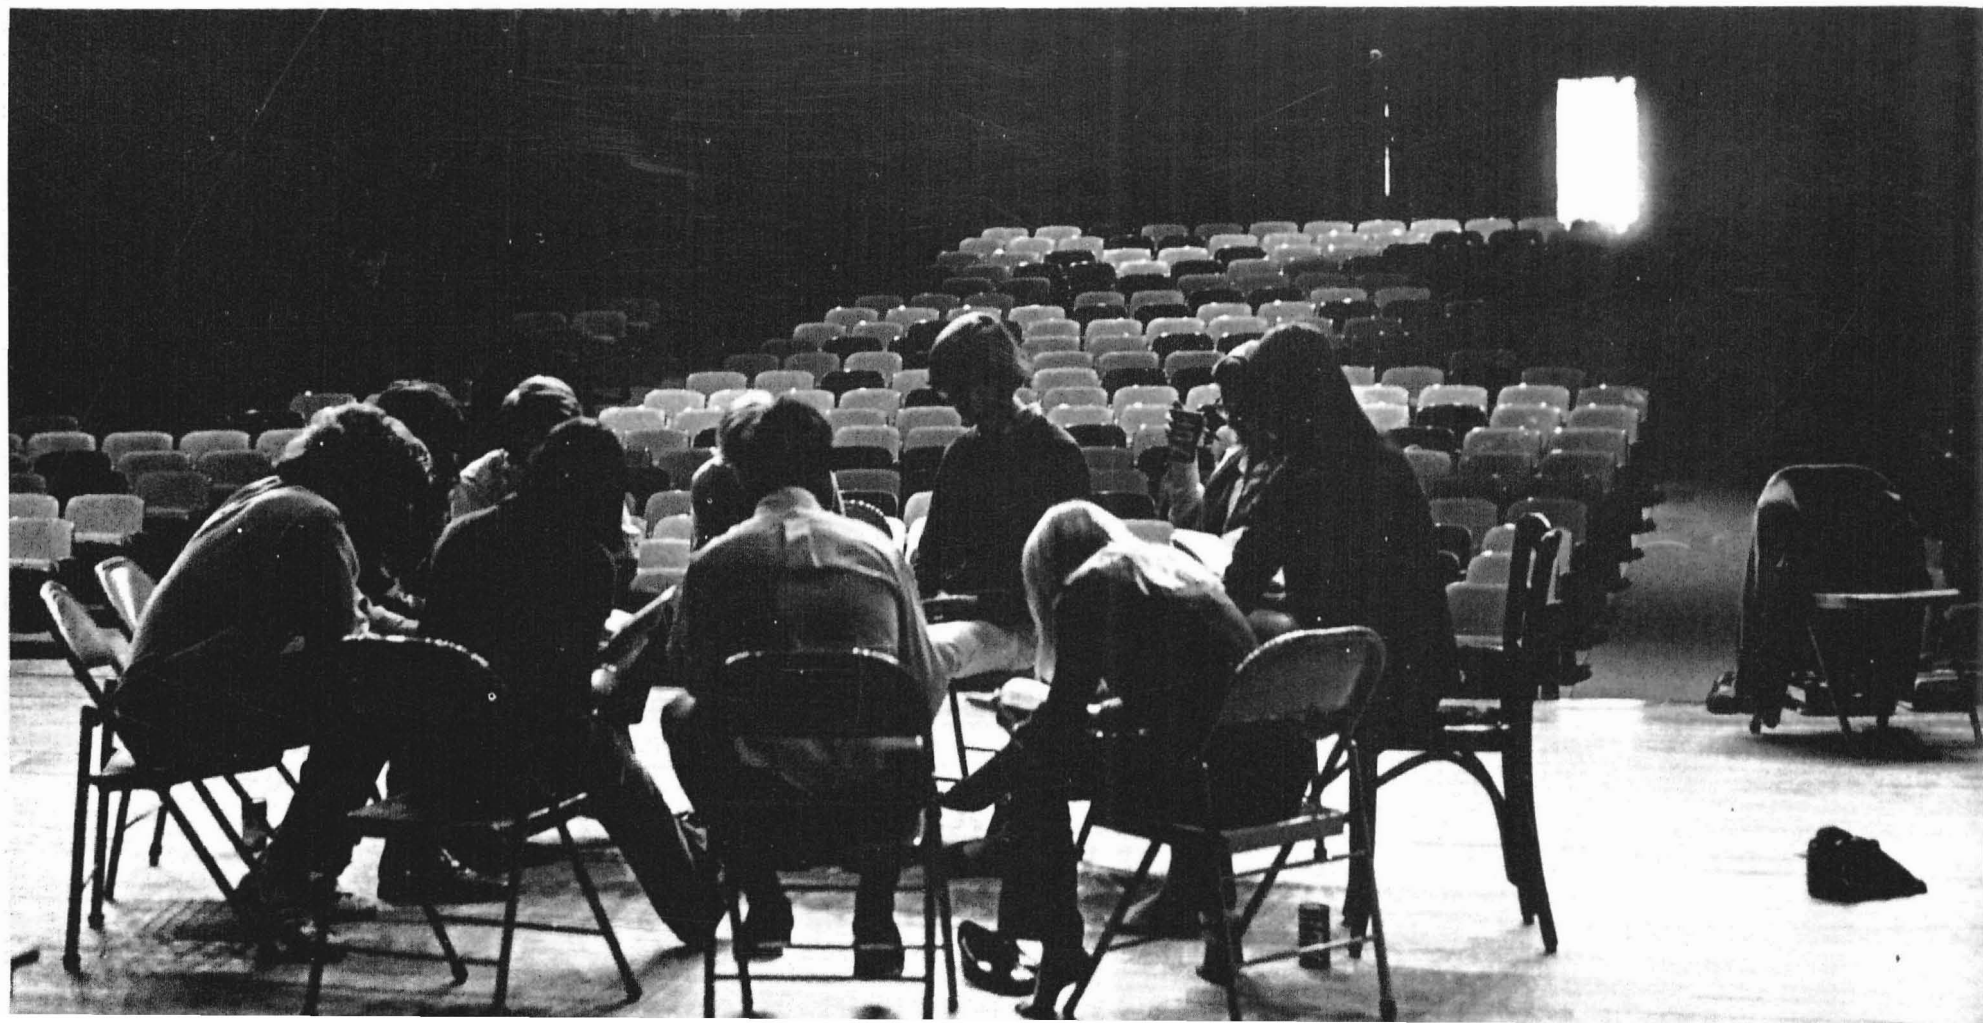

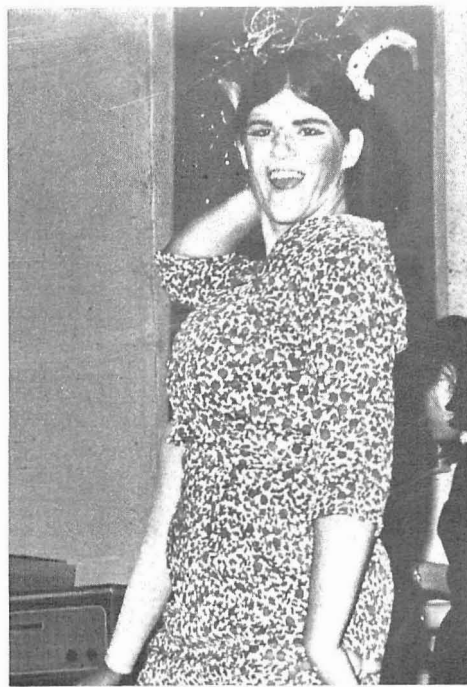

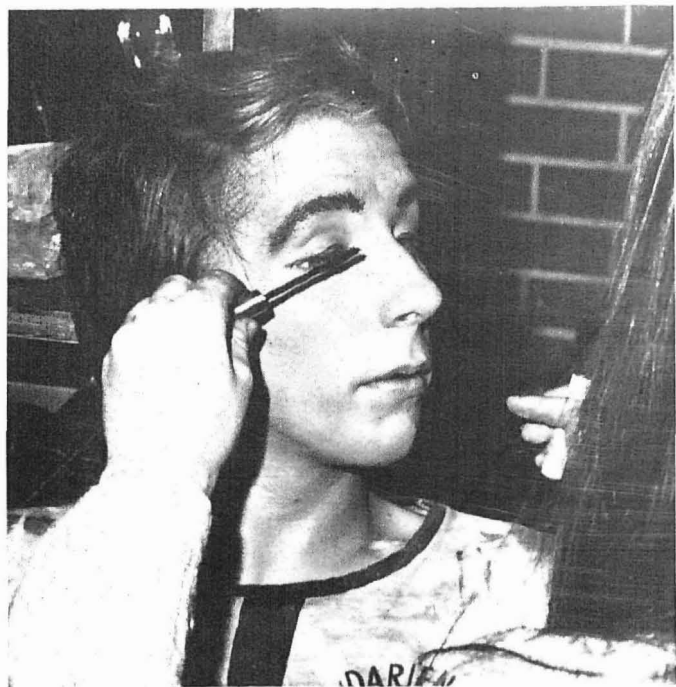

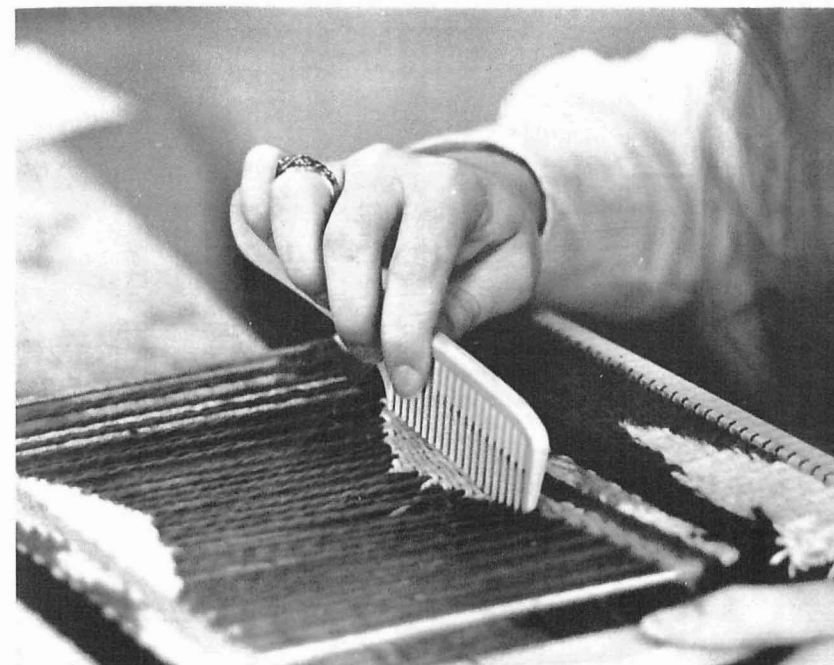

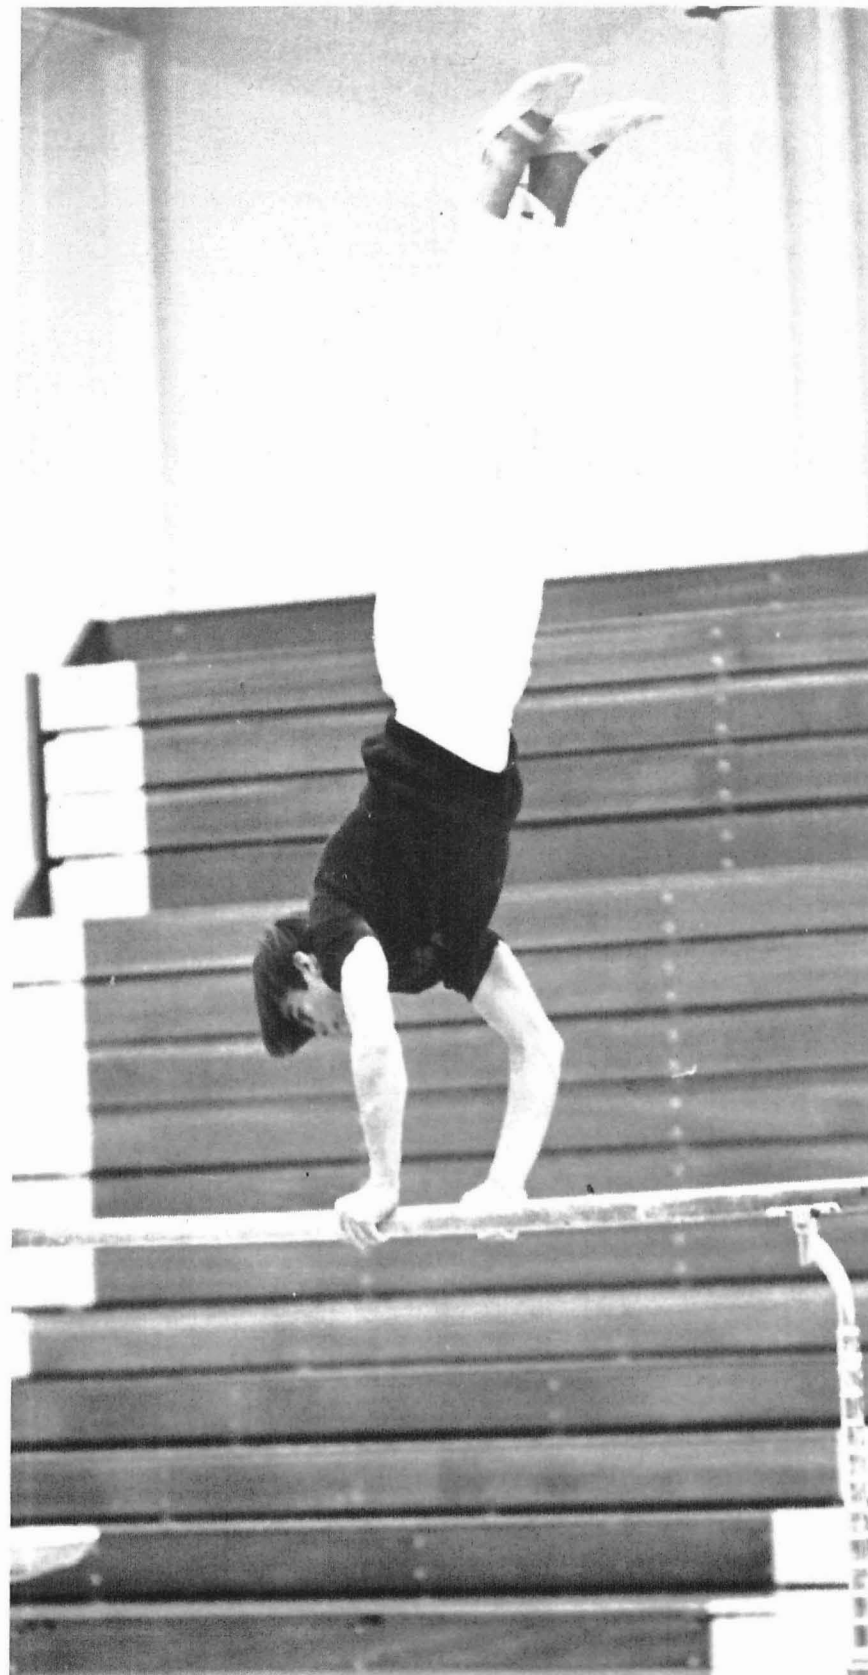

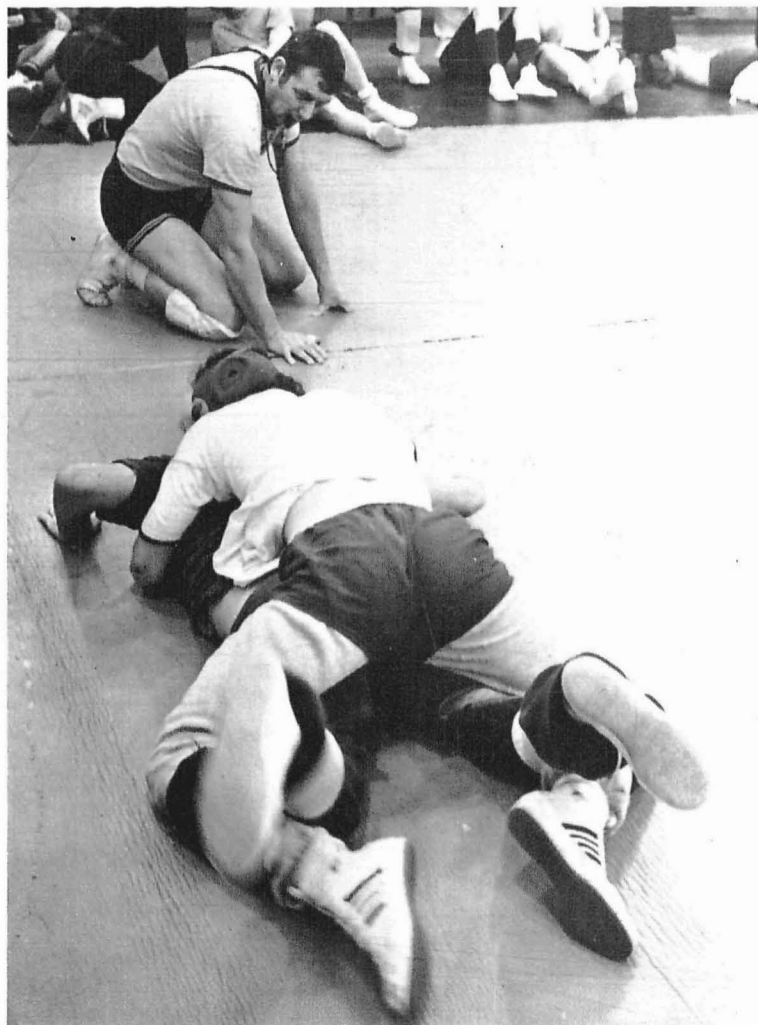

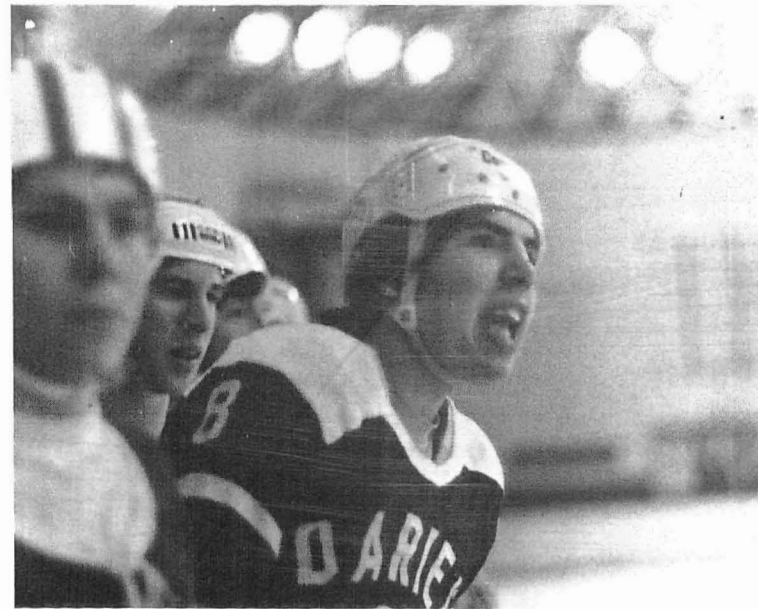

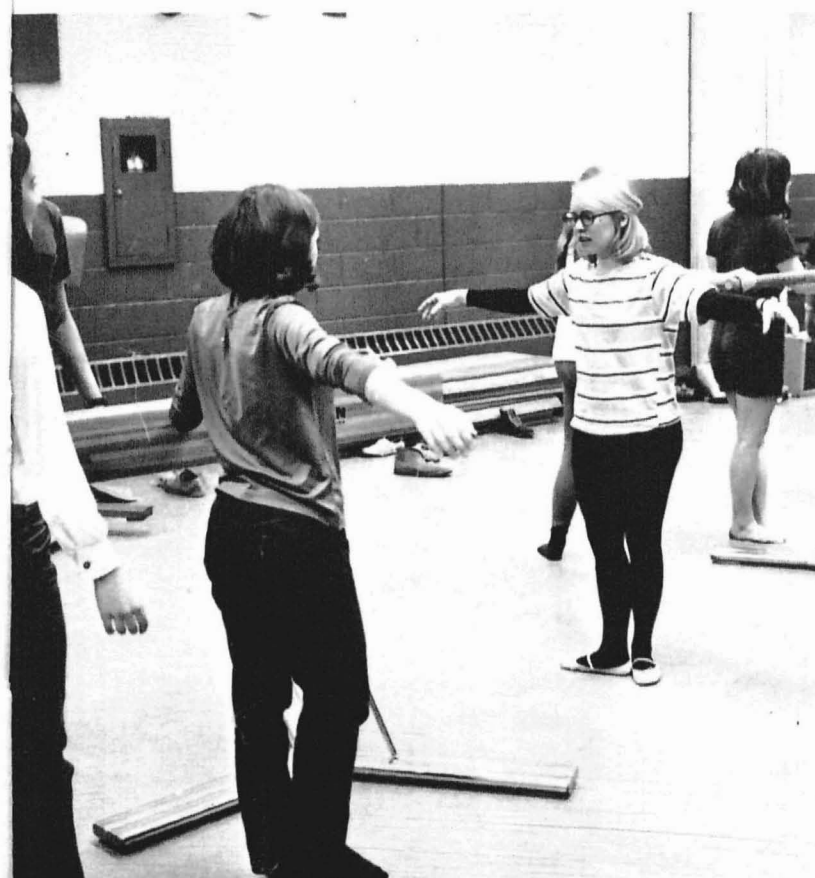

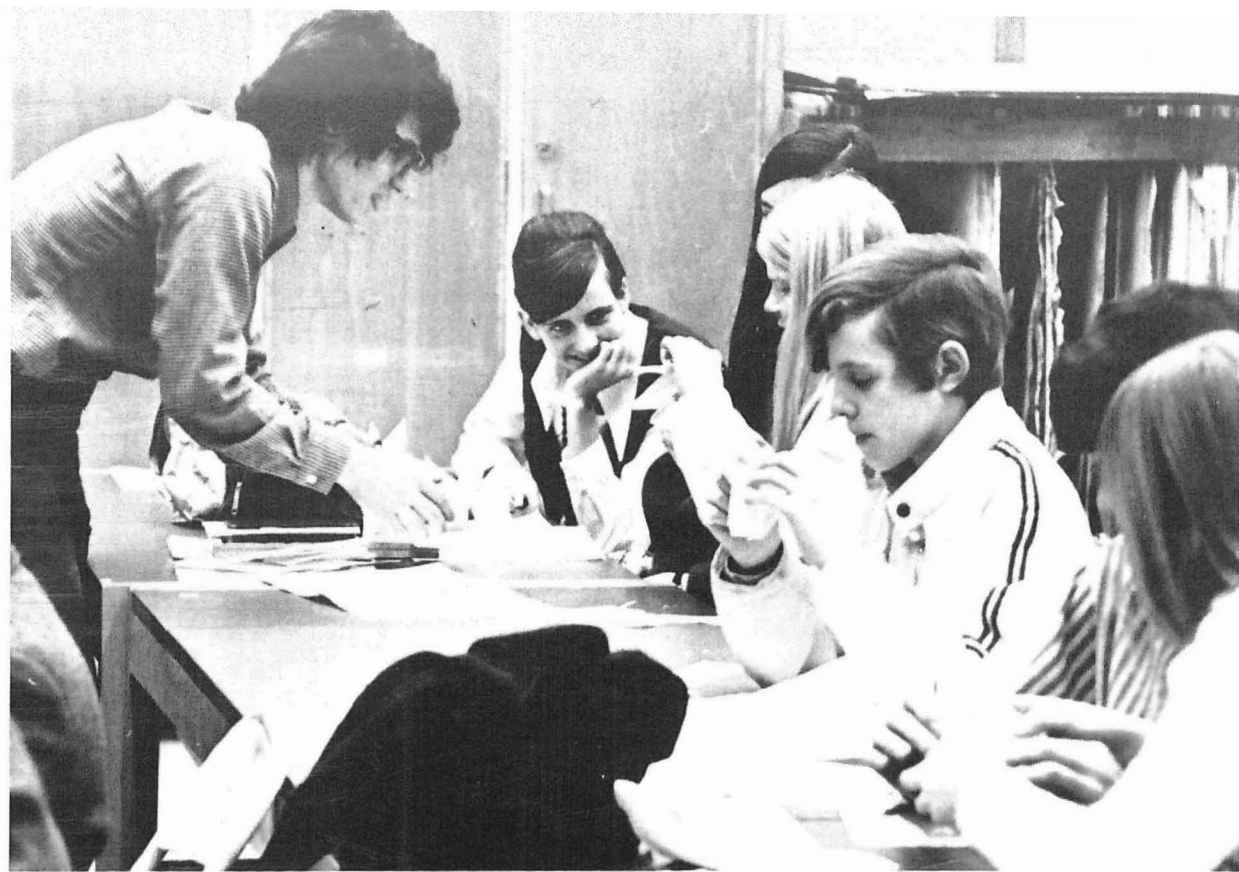

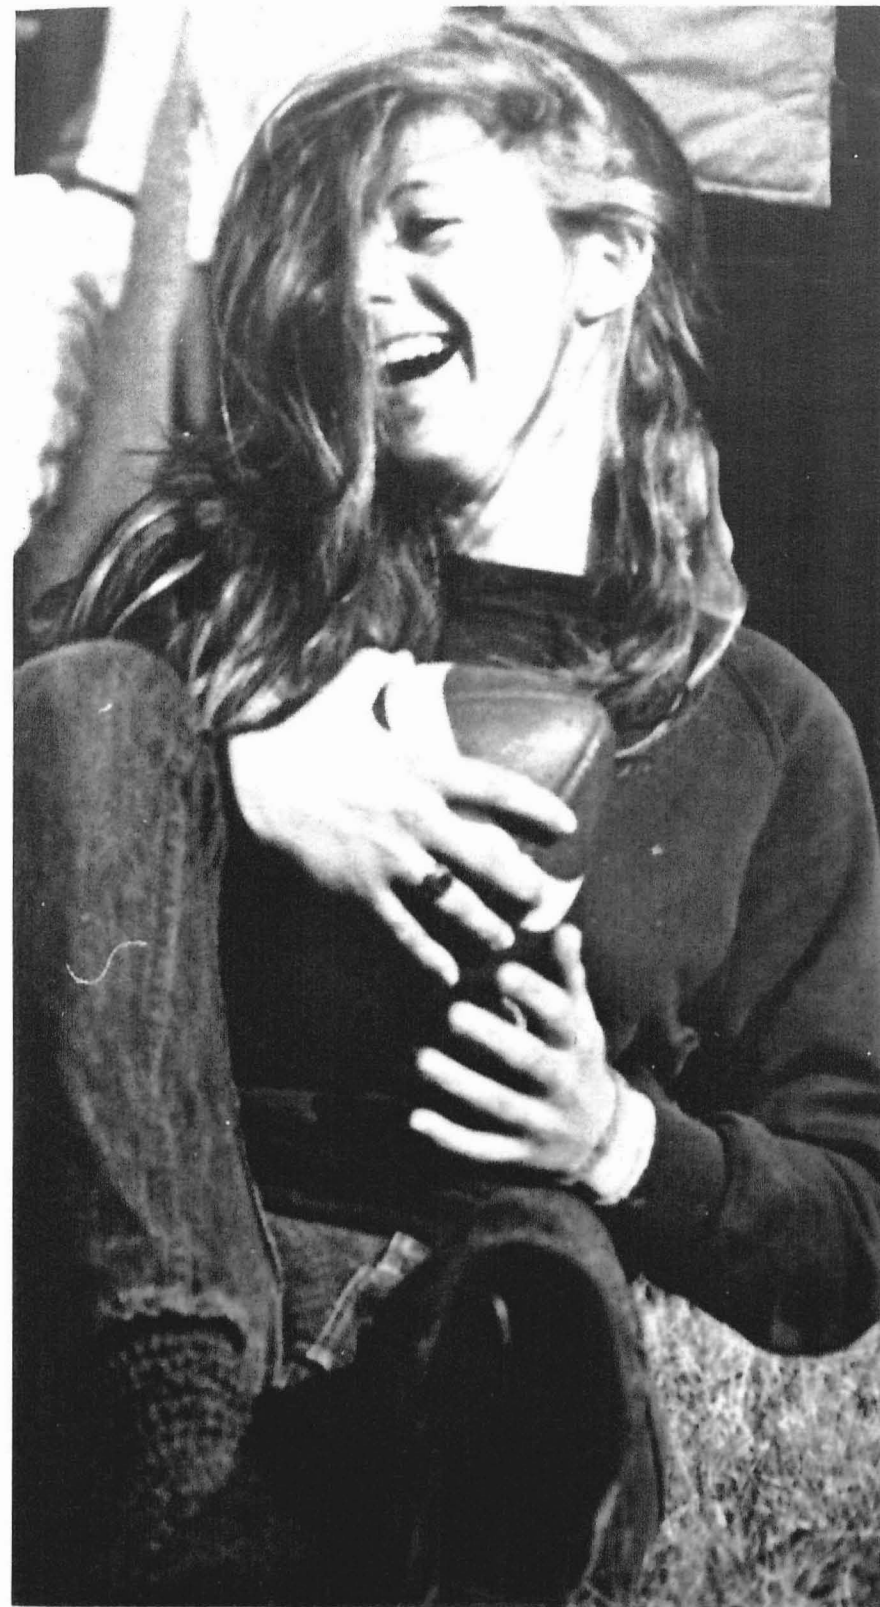

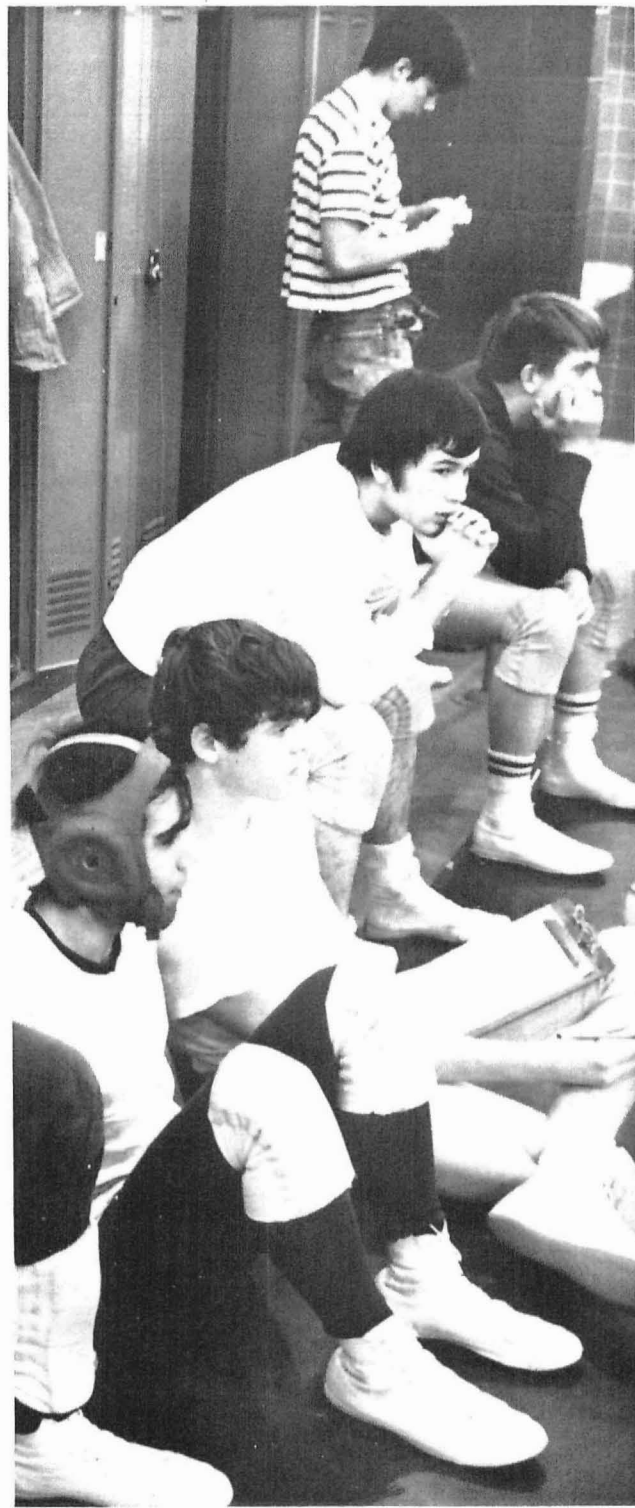

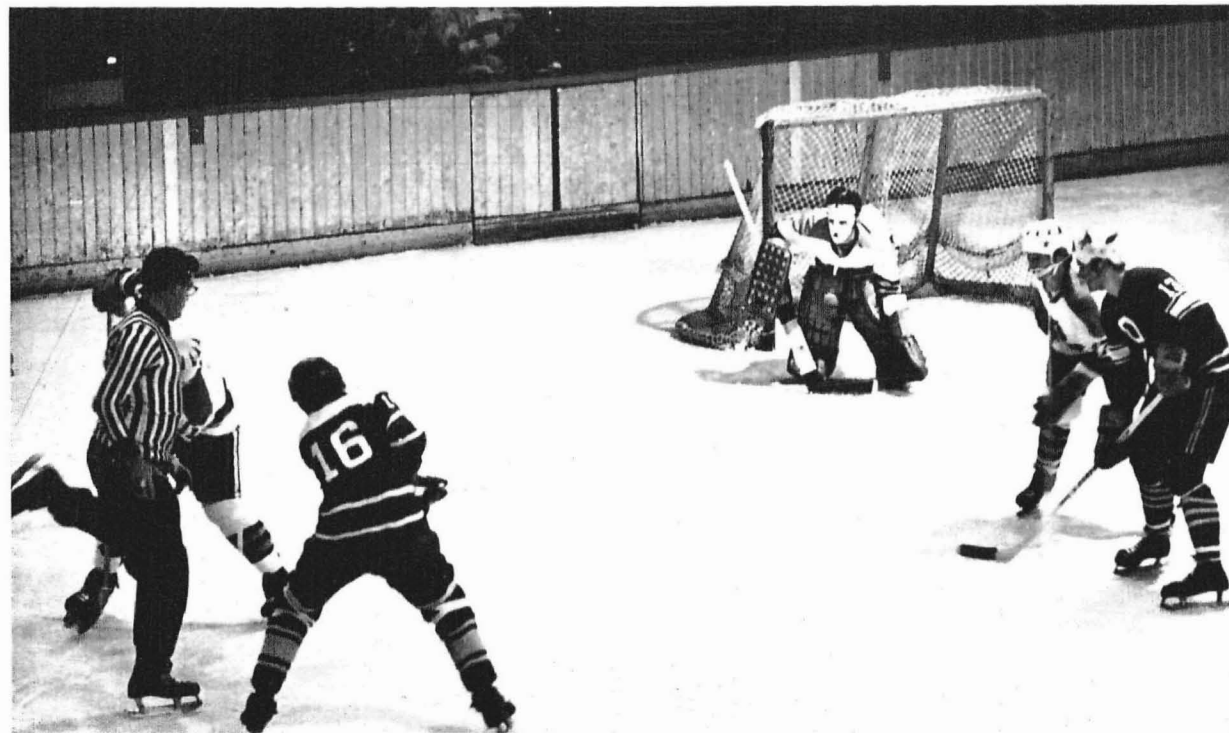

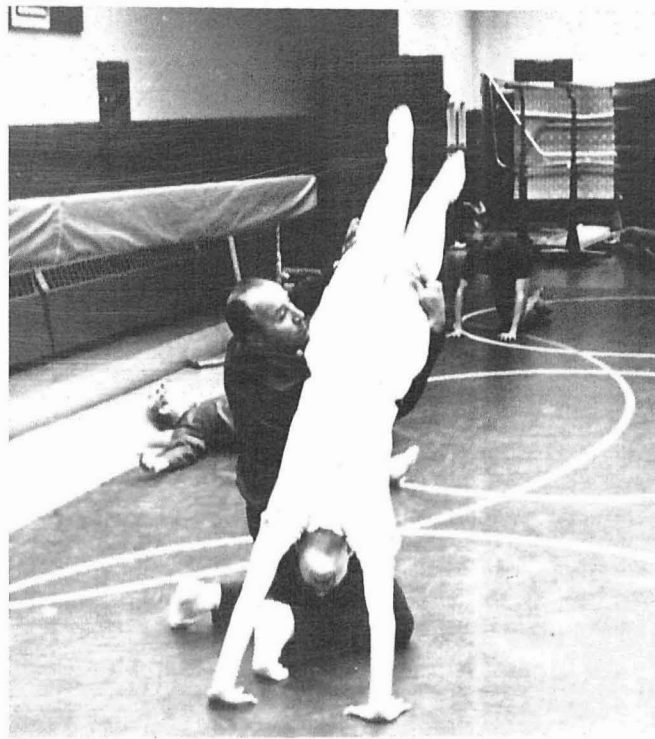

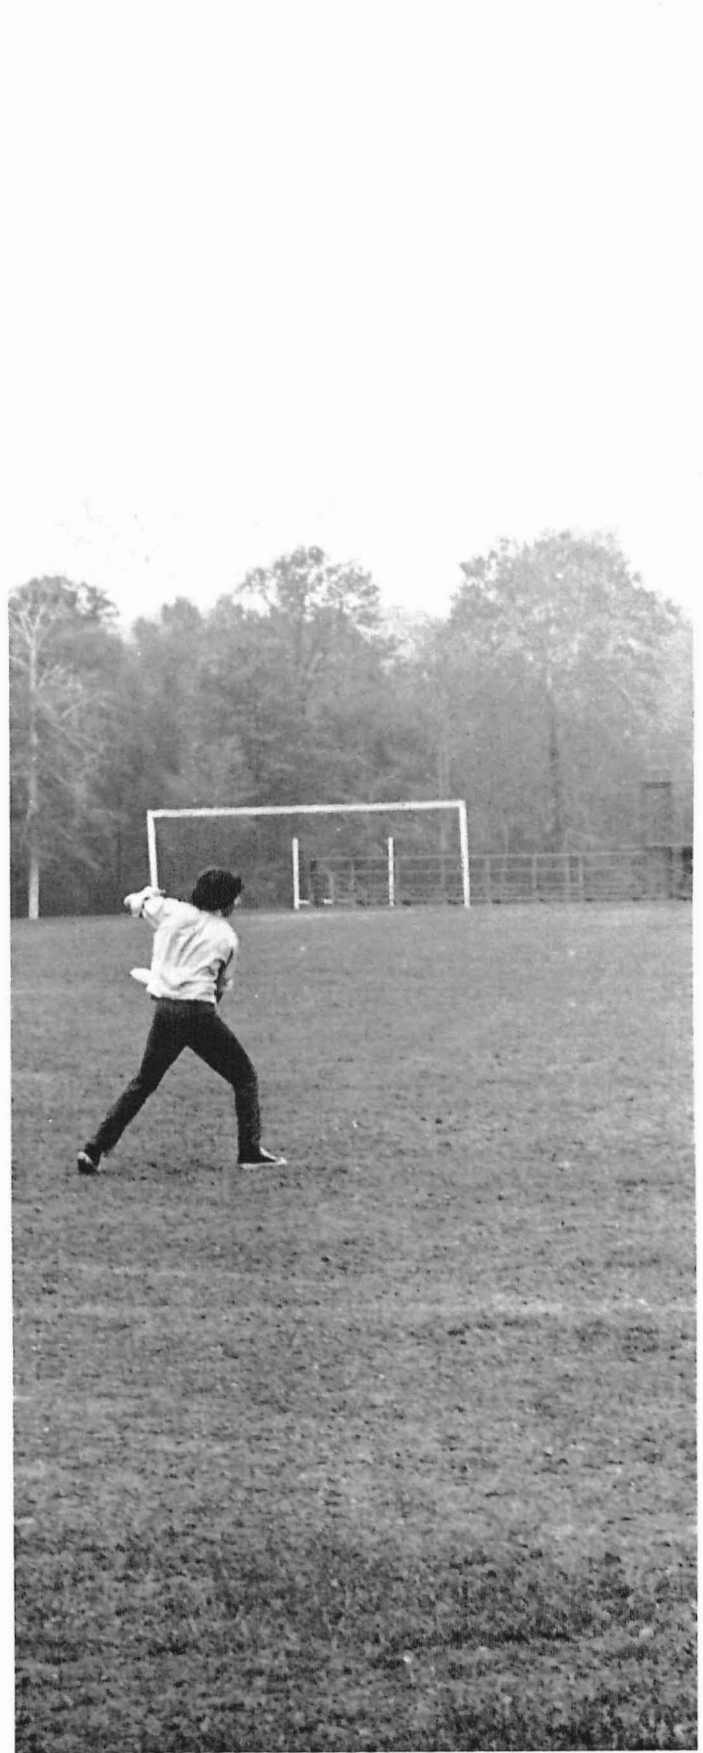

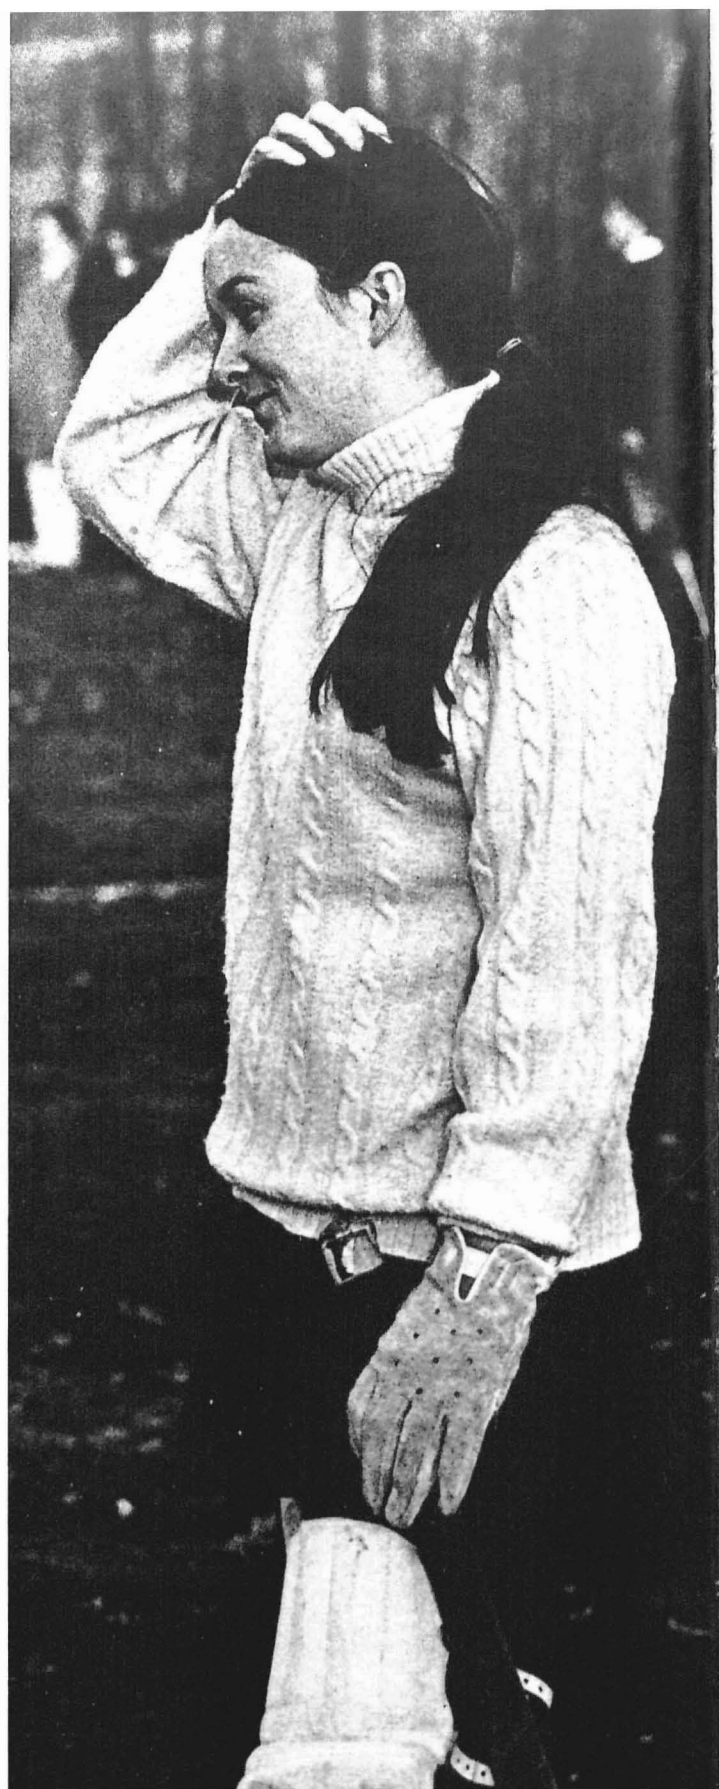

I give the impression that I am secure,
that confidence is my name and coolness my game;
that the water is calm and I'm in command,
and that I need no one.
but don't believe me, please.

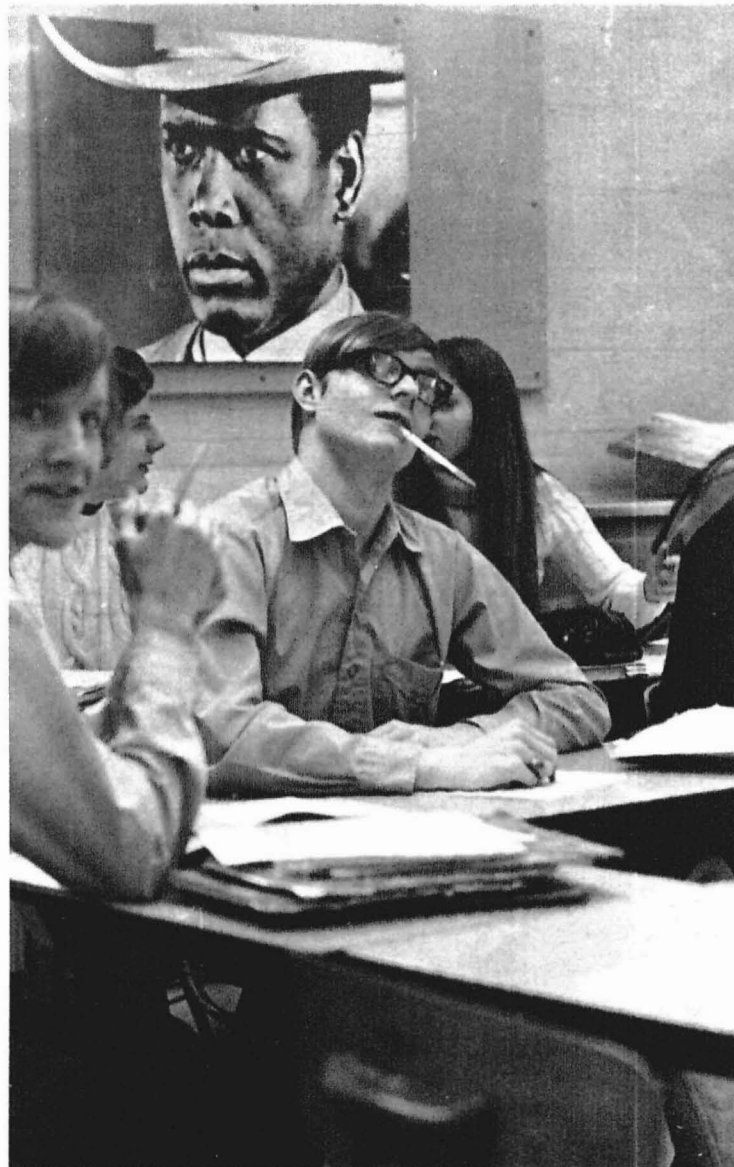

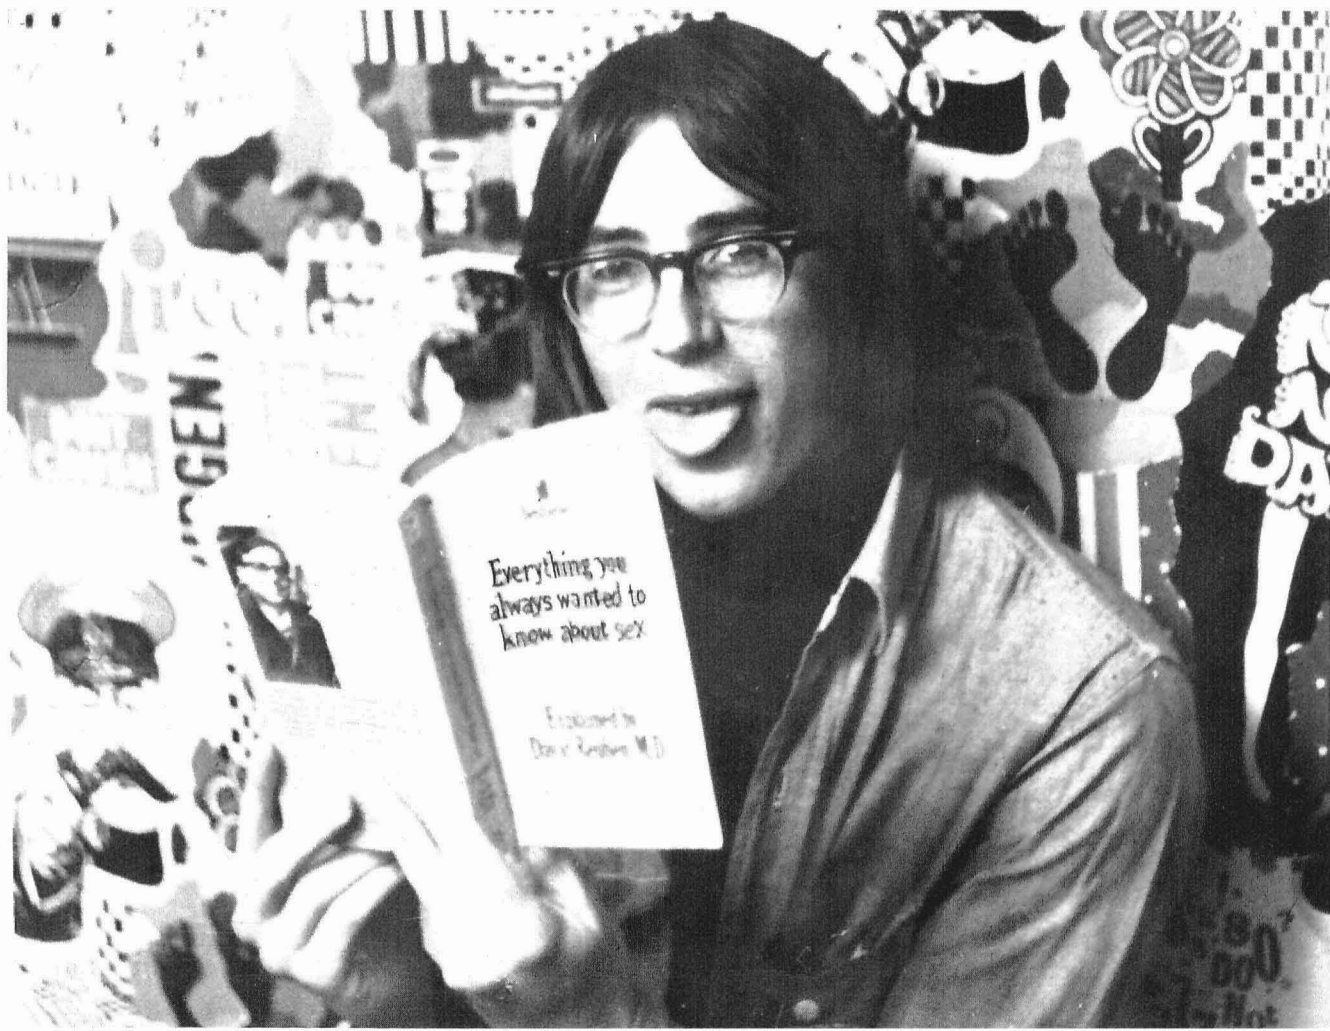

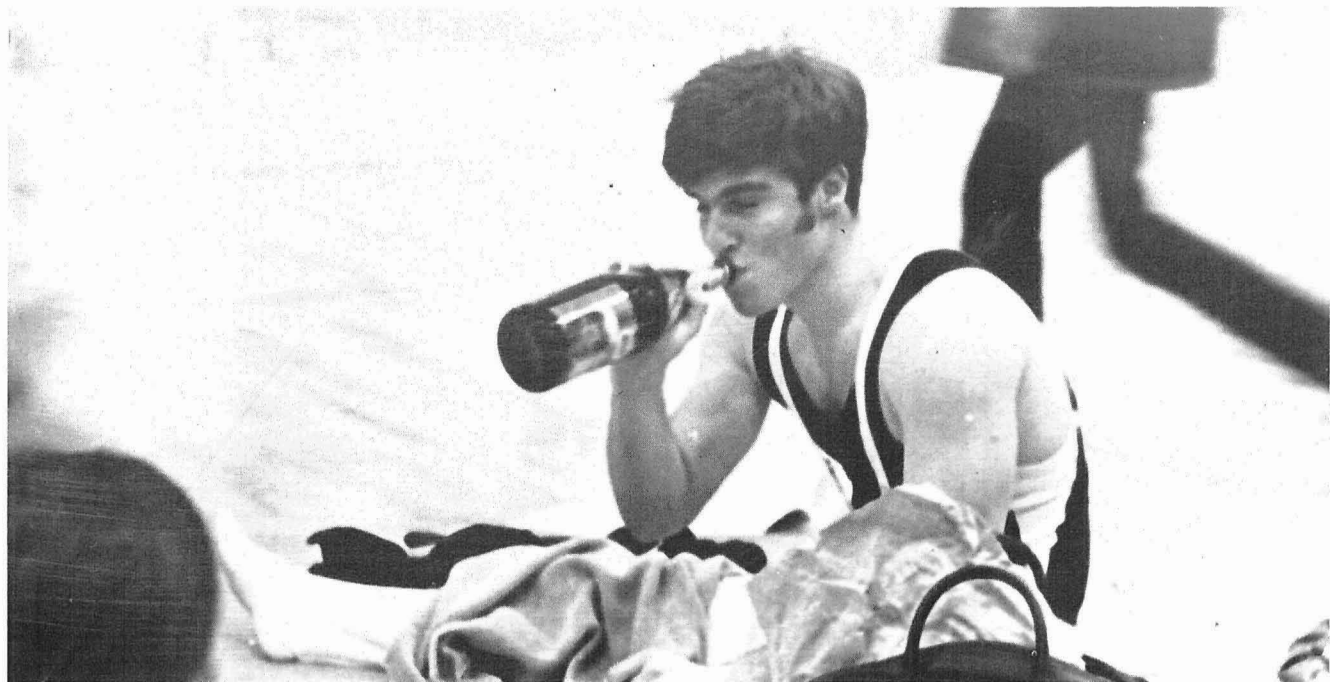

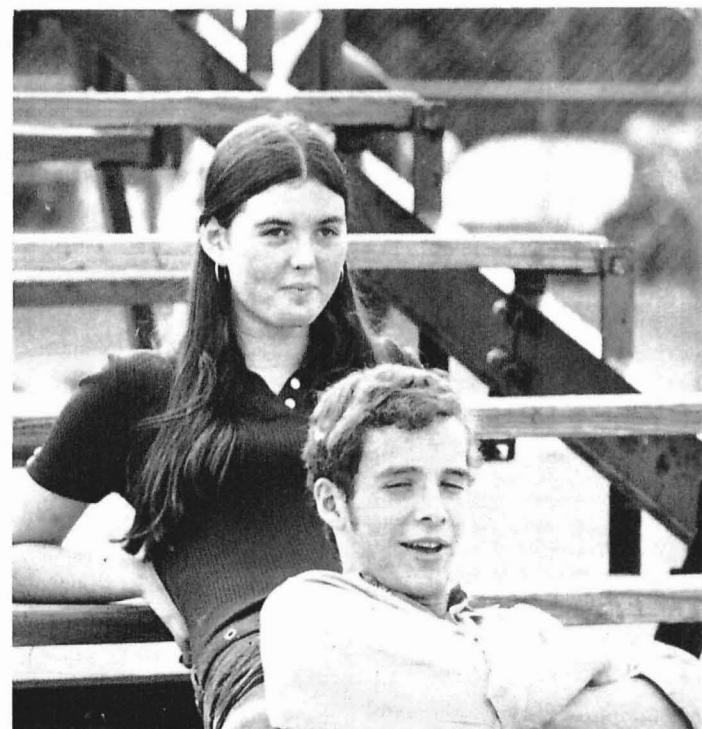

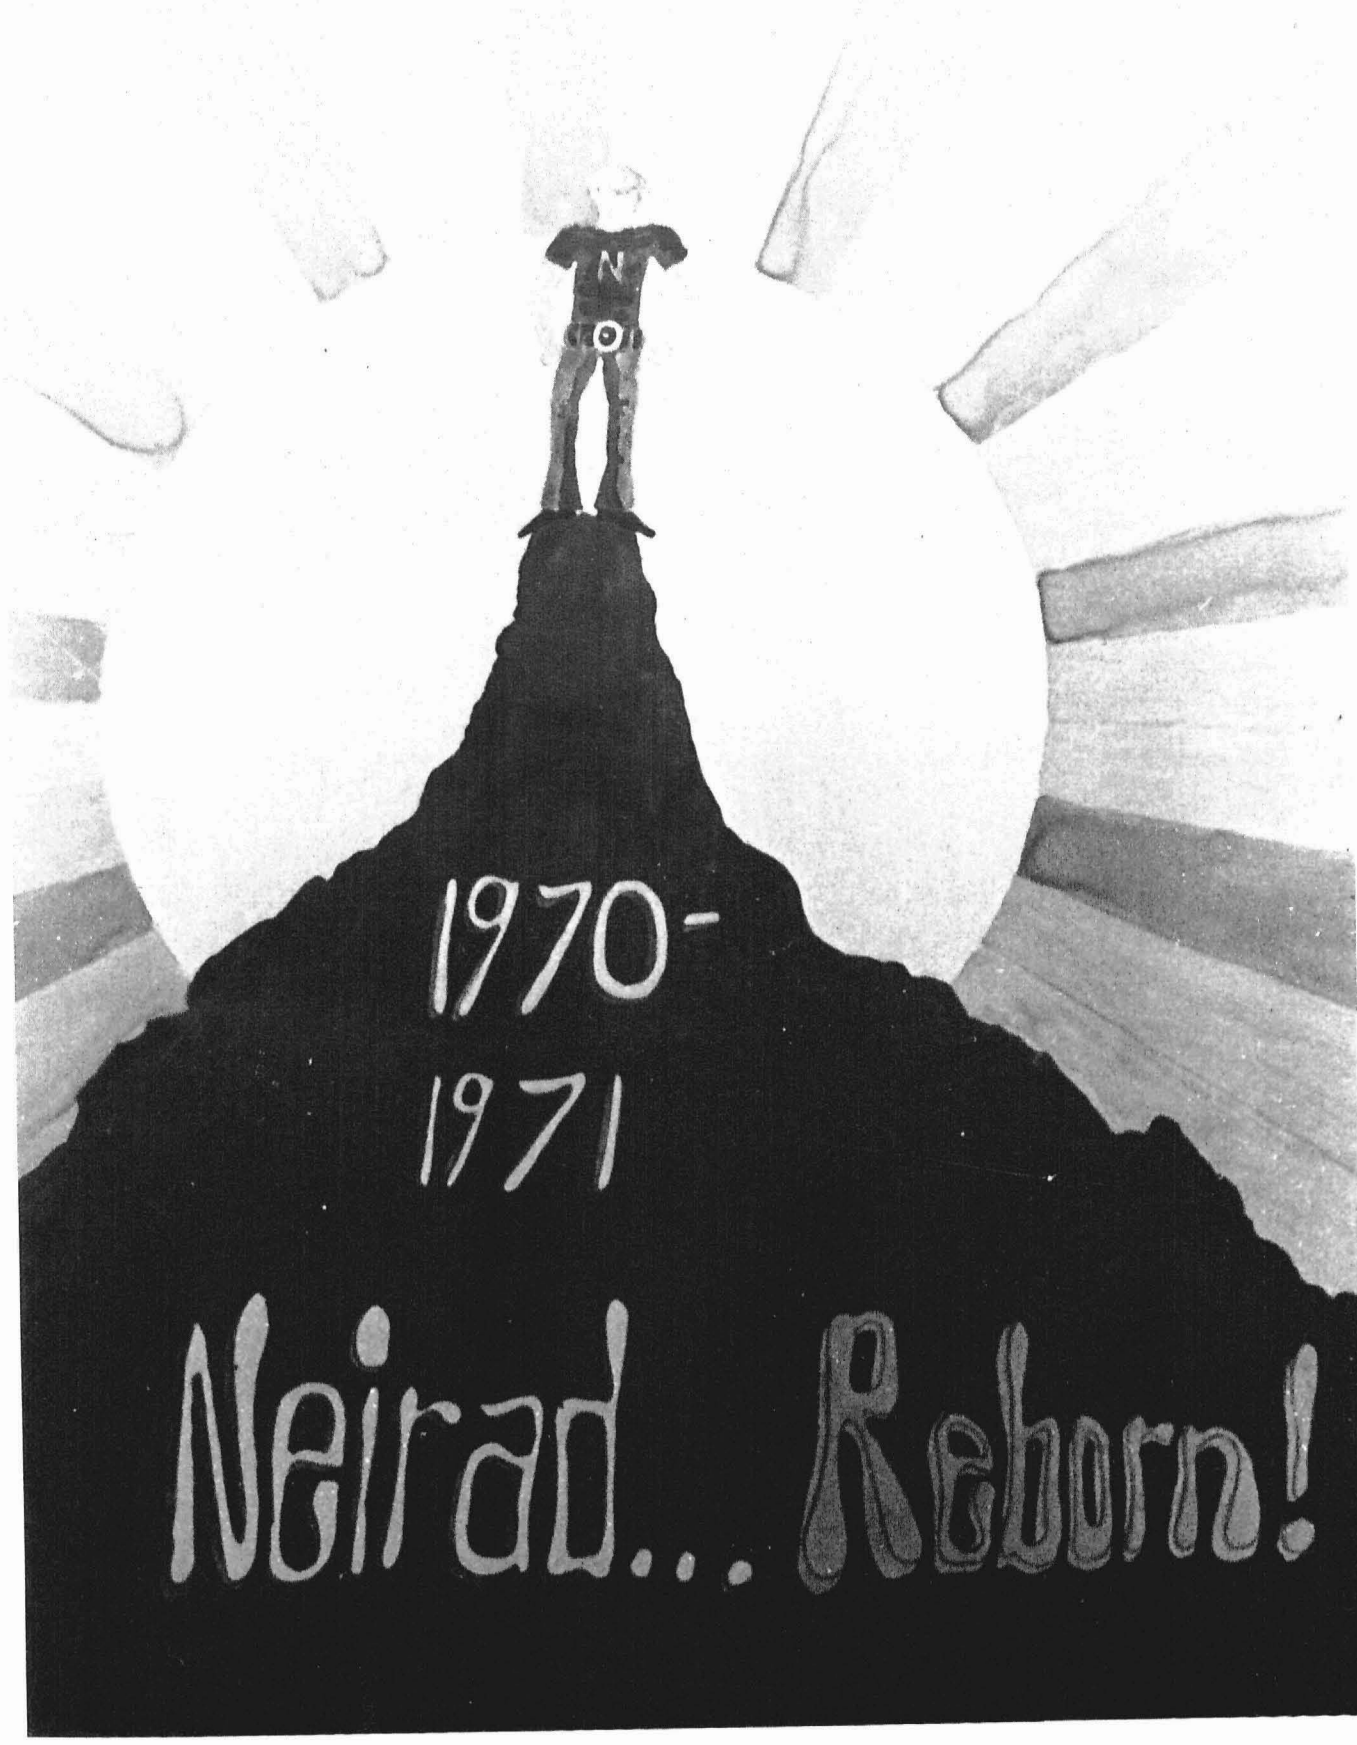

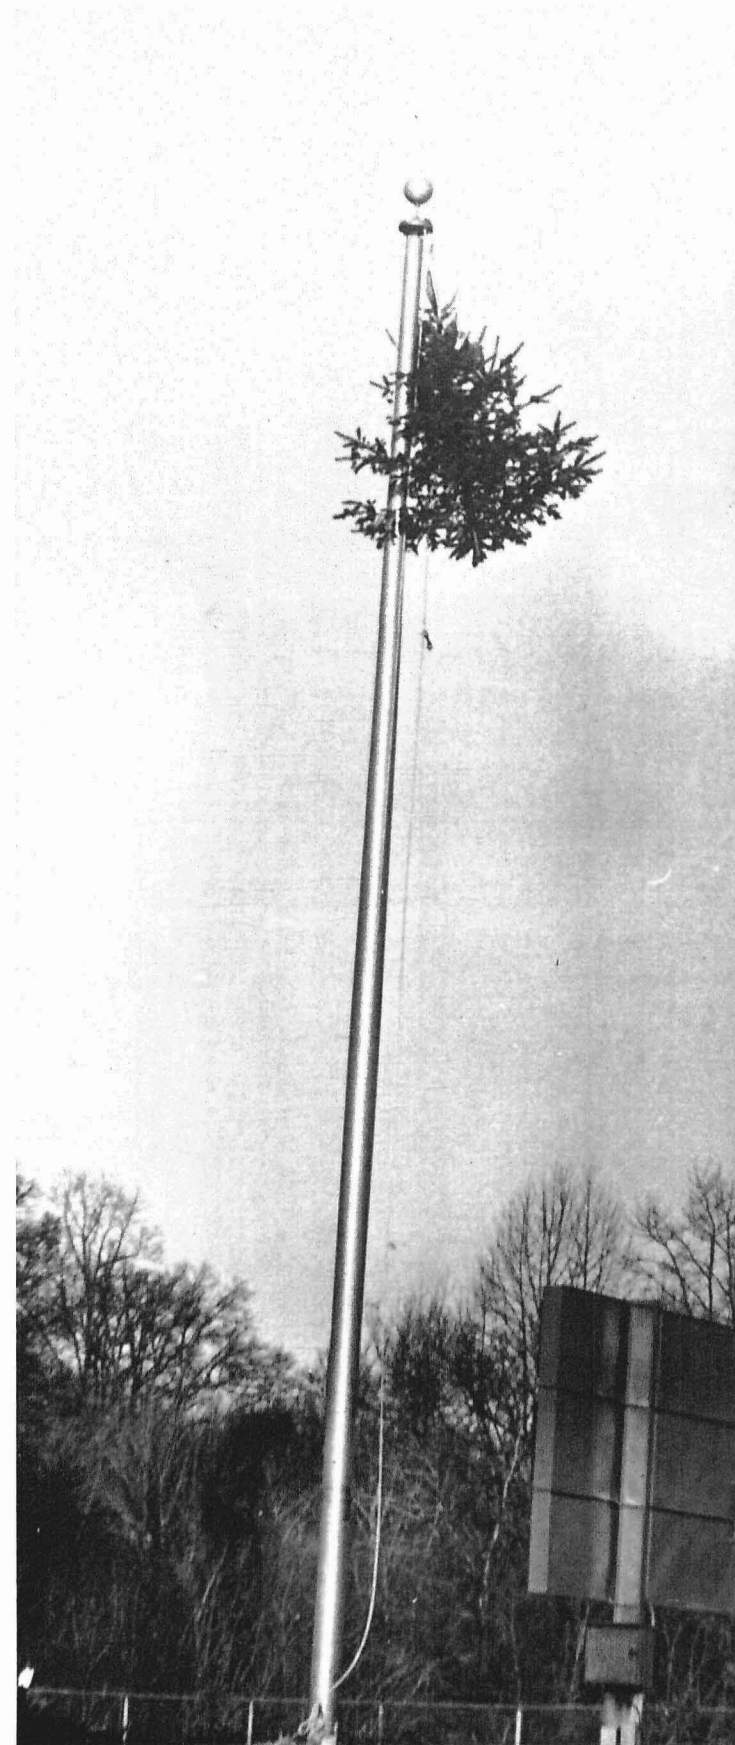

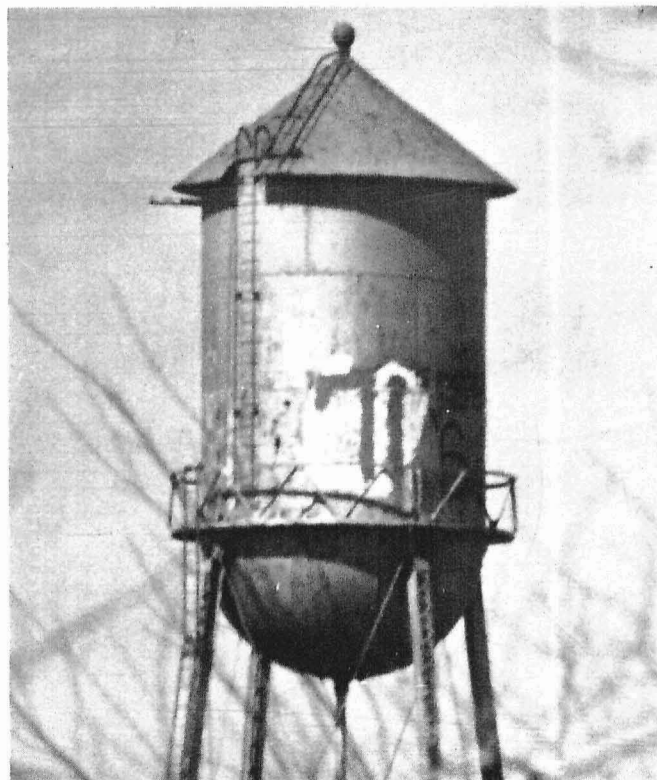

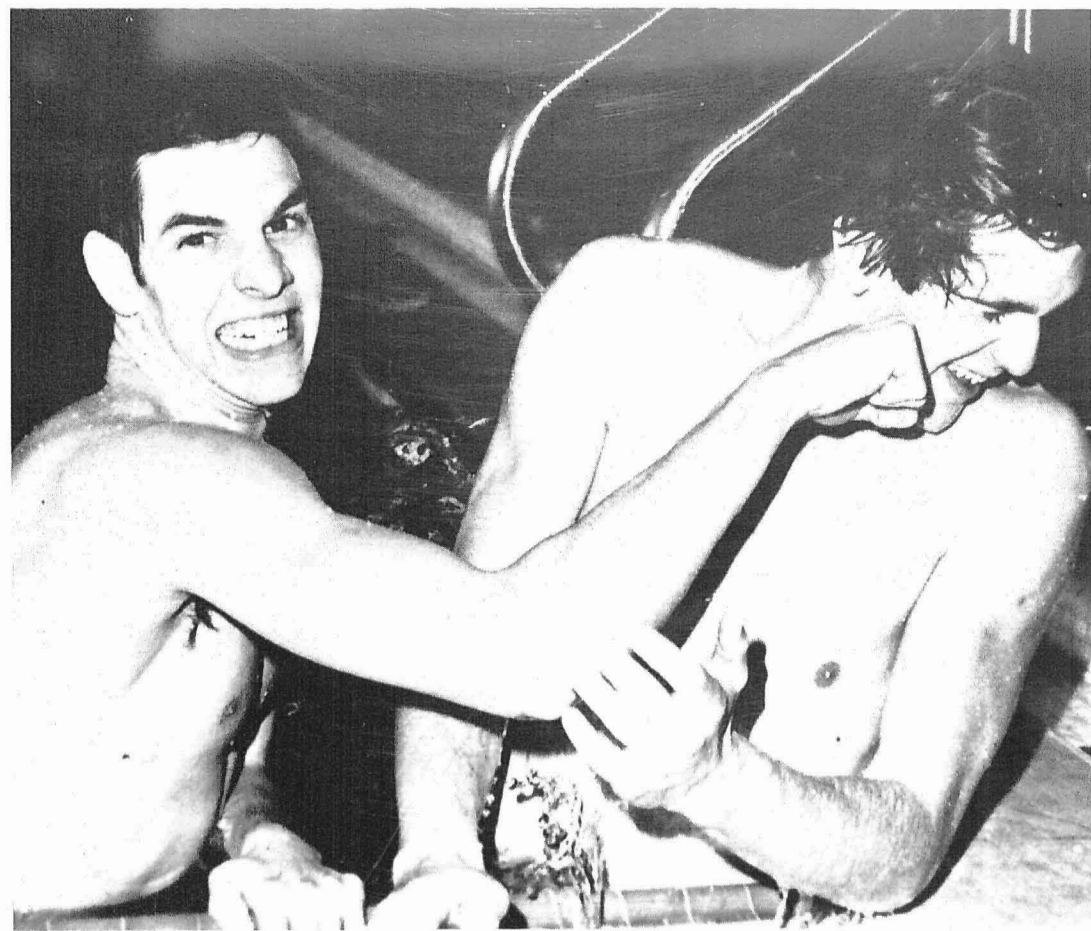

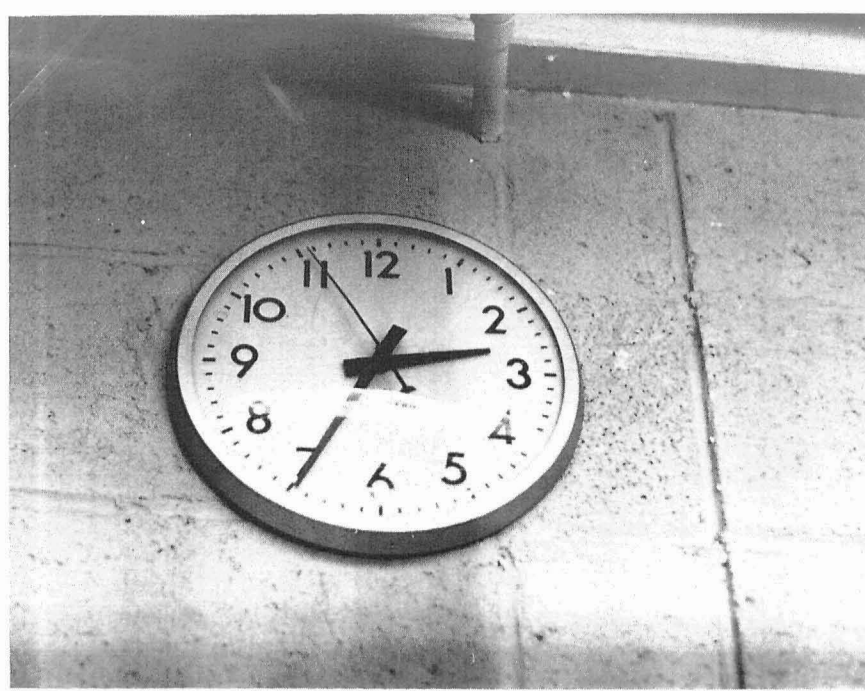

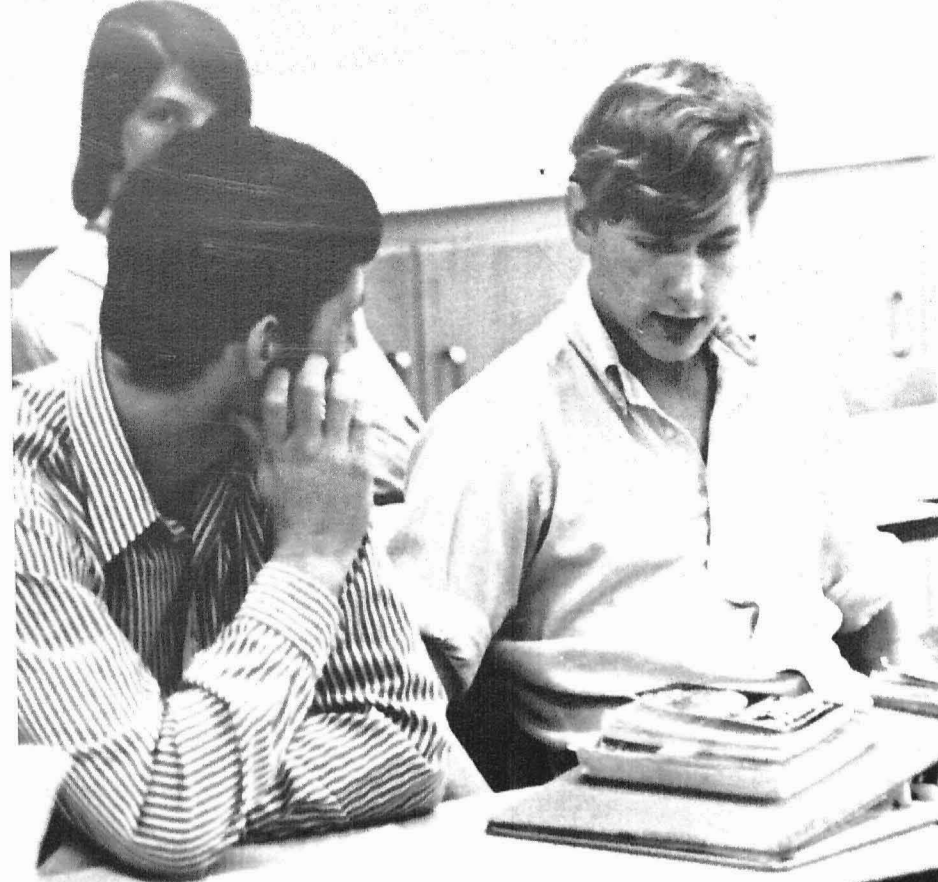

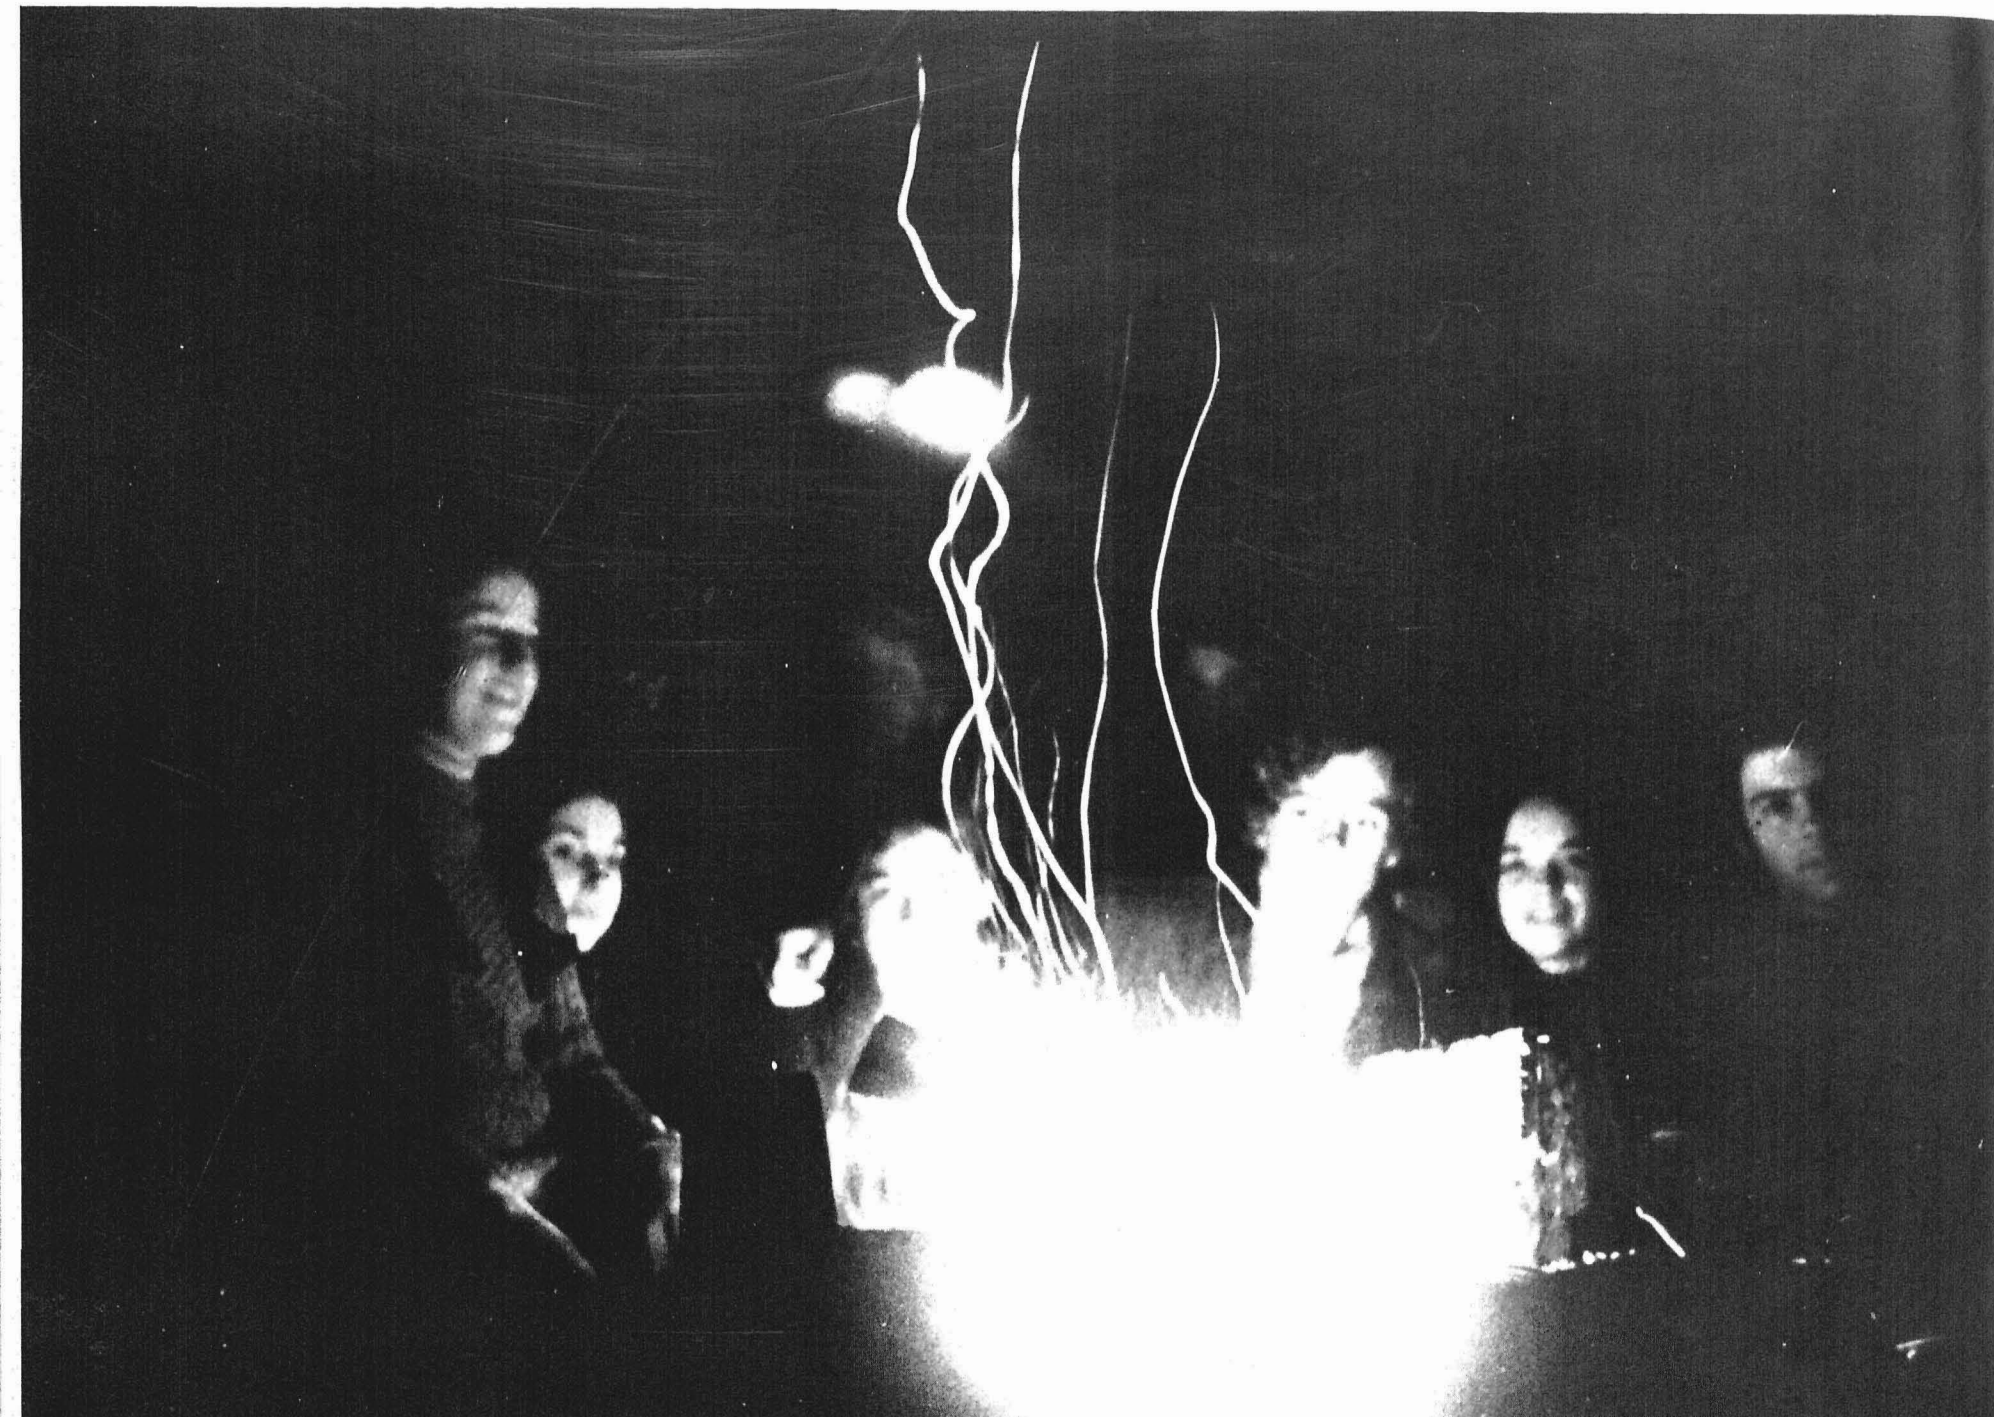

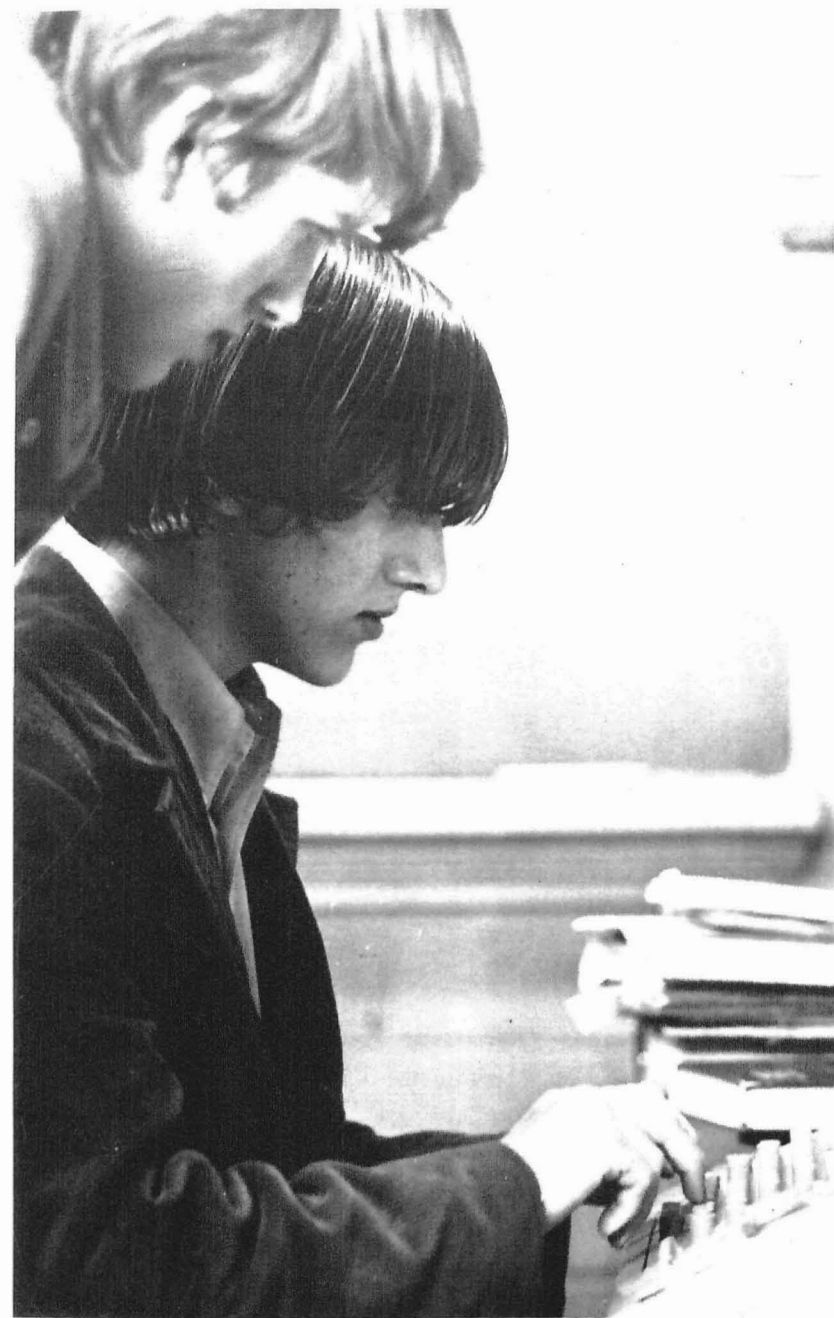

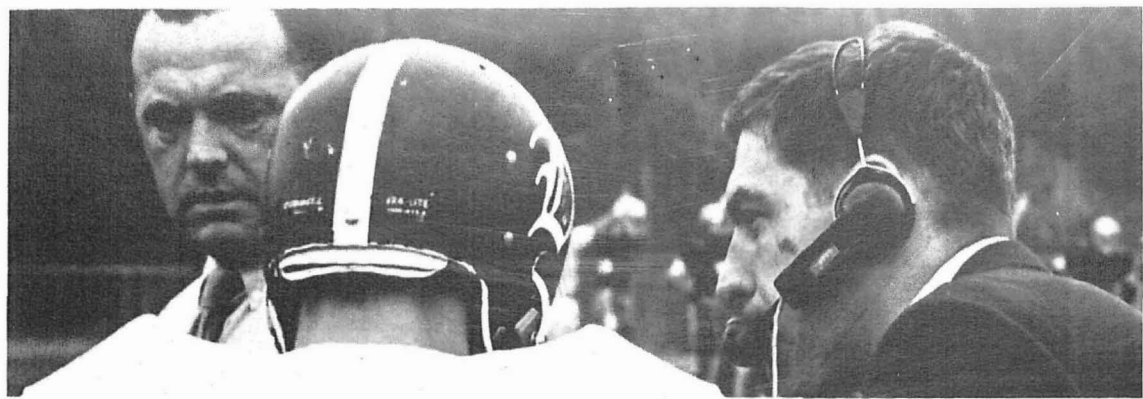

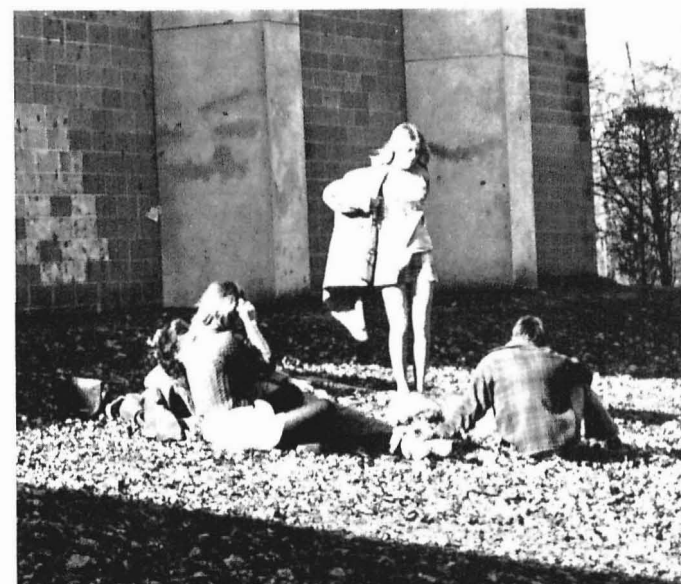

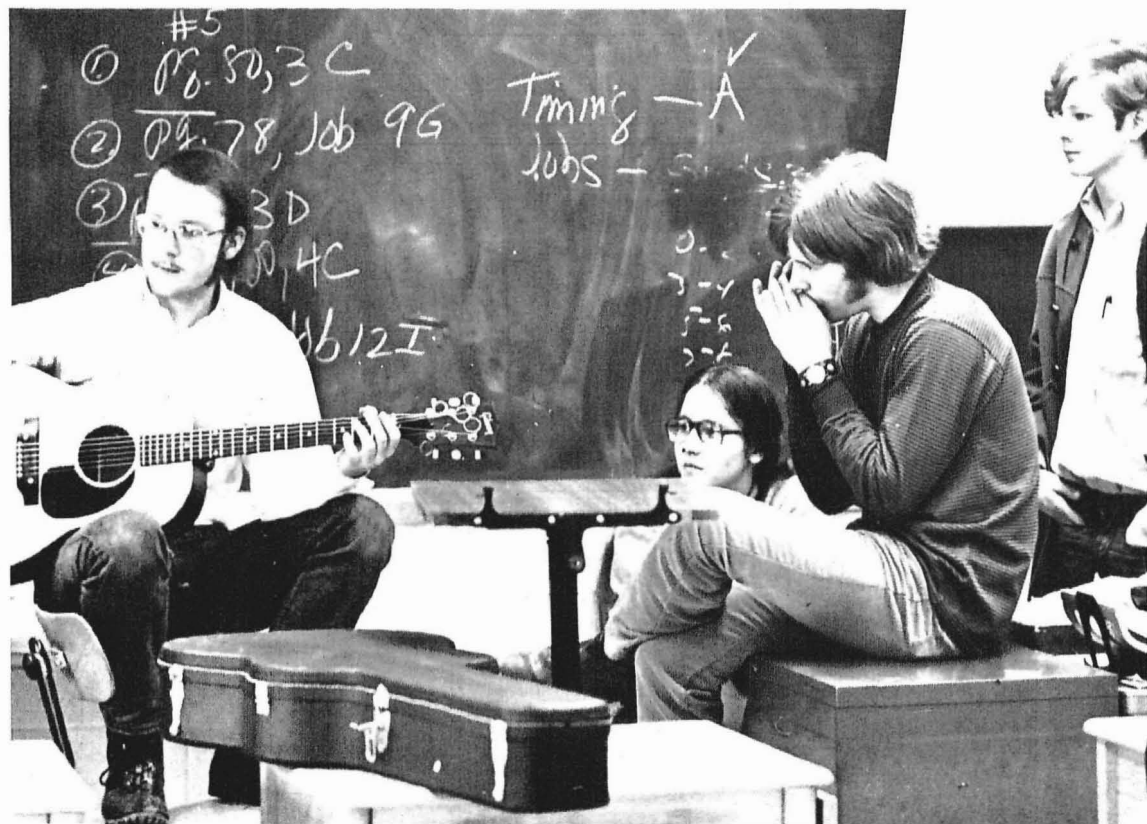

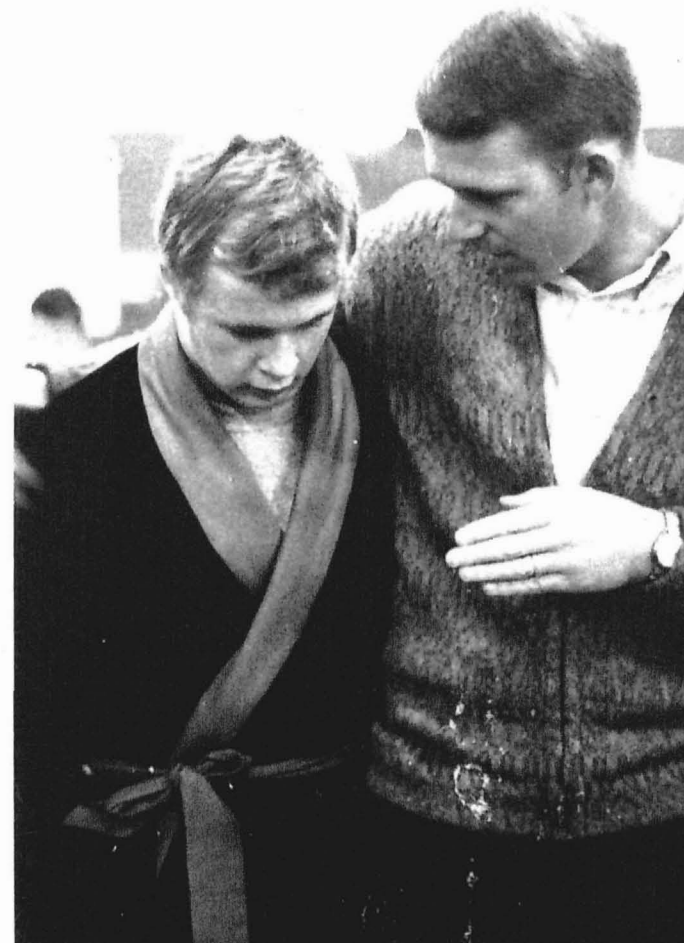

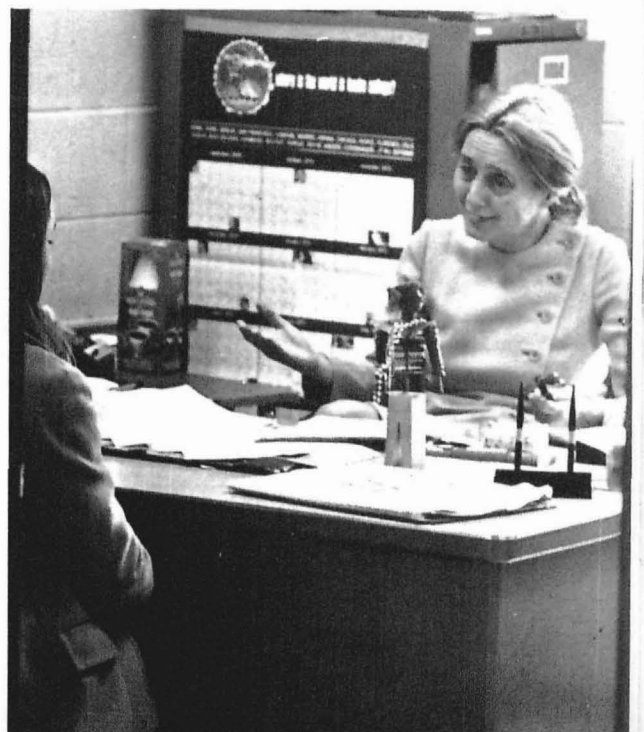

don't be fooled by me.
I sometimes create a mask to hide behind,
a mask to shield me from the glance that knows.

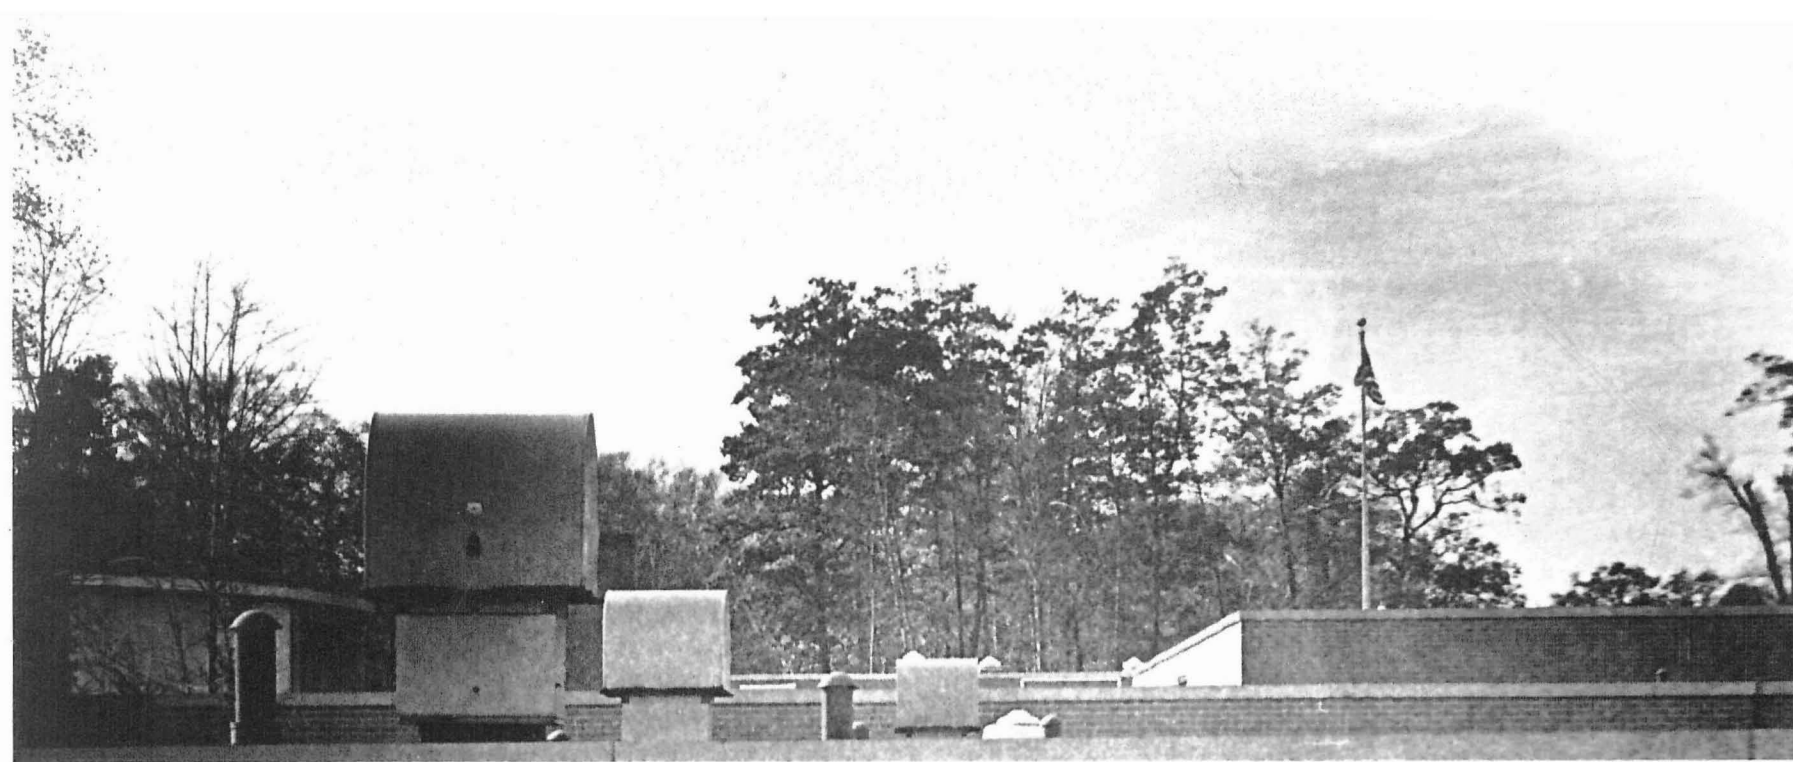

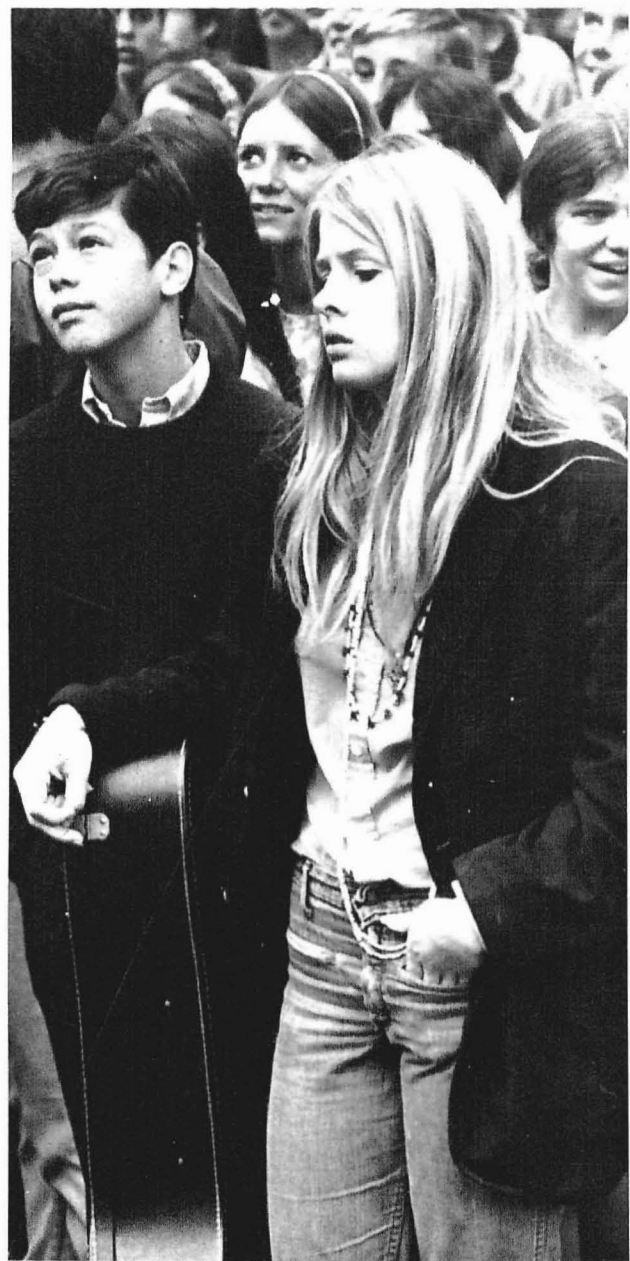

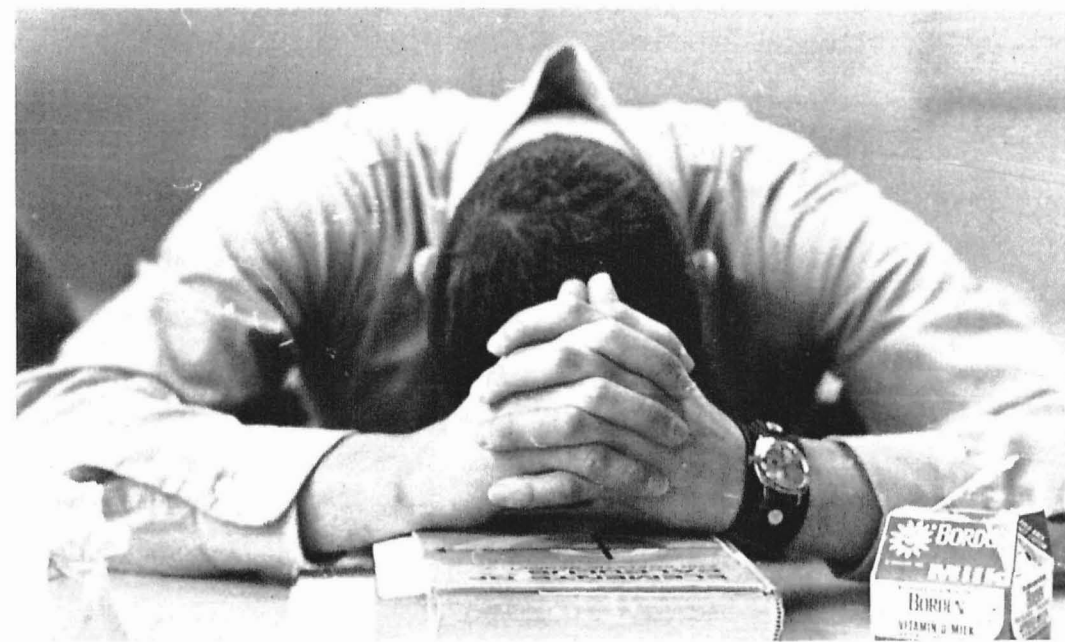

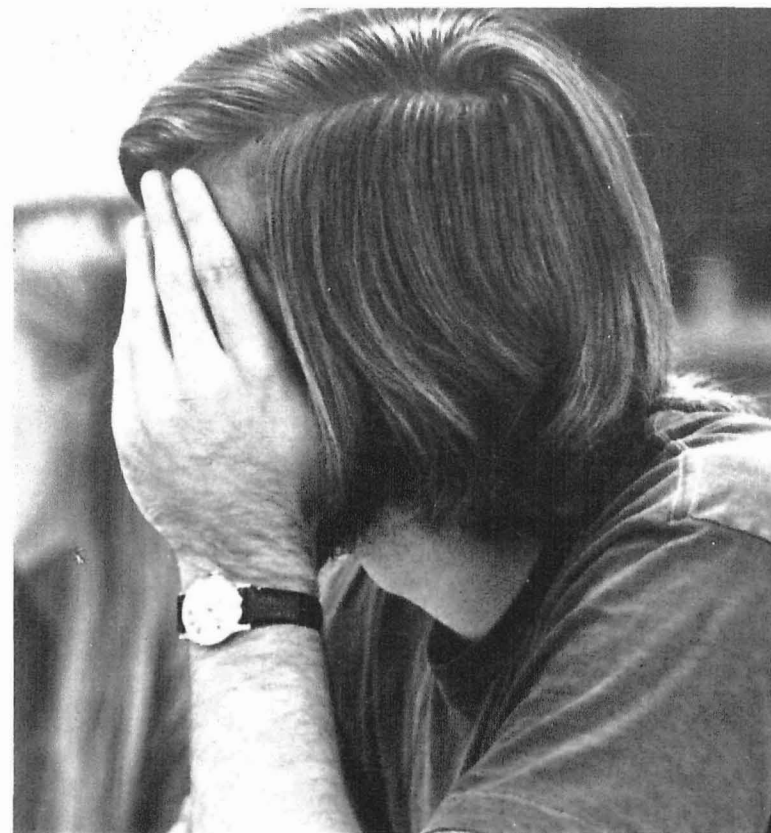

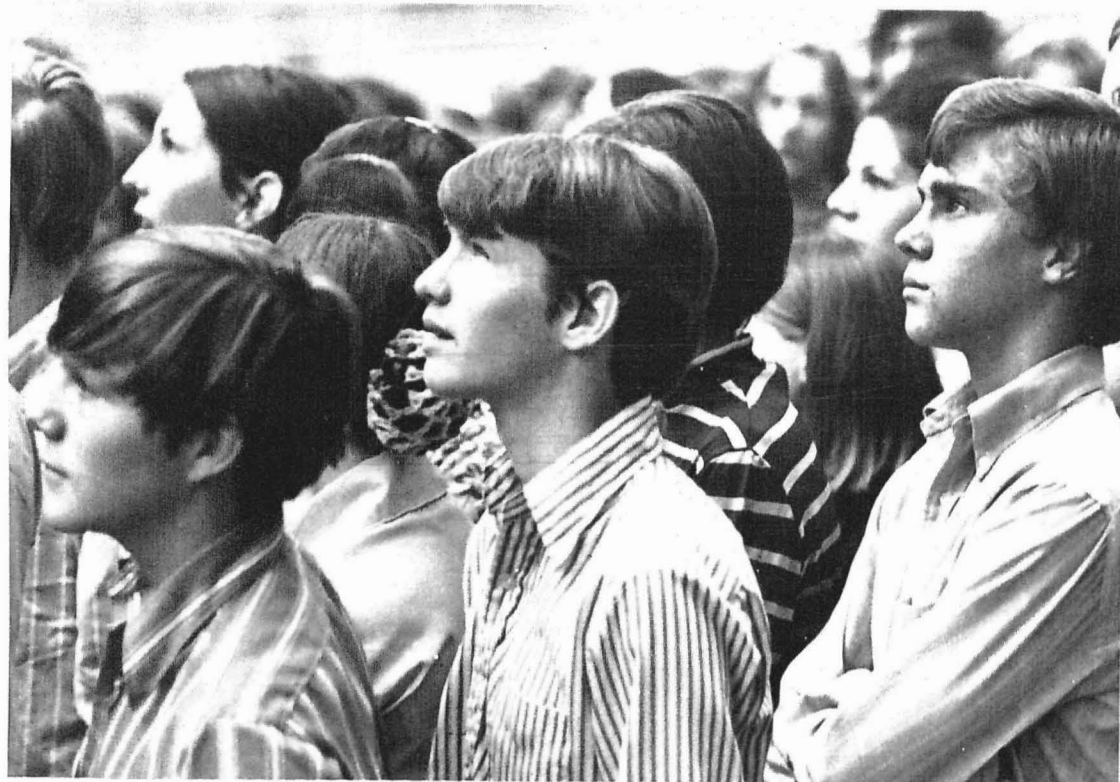

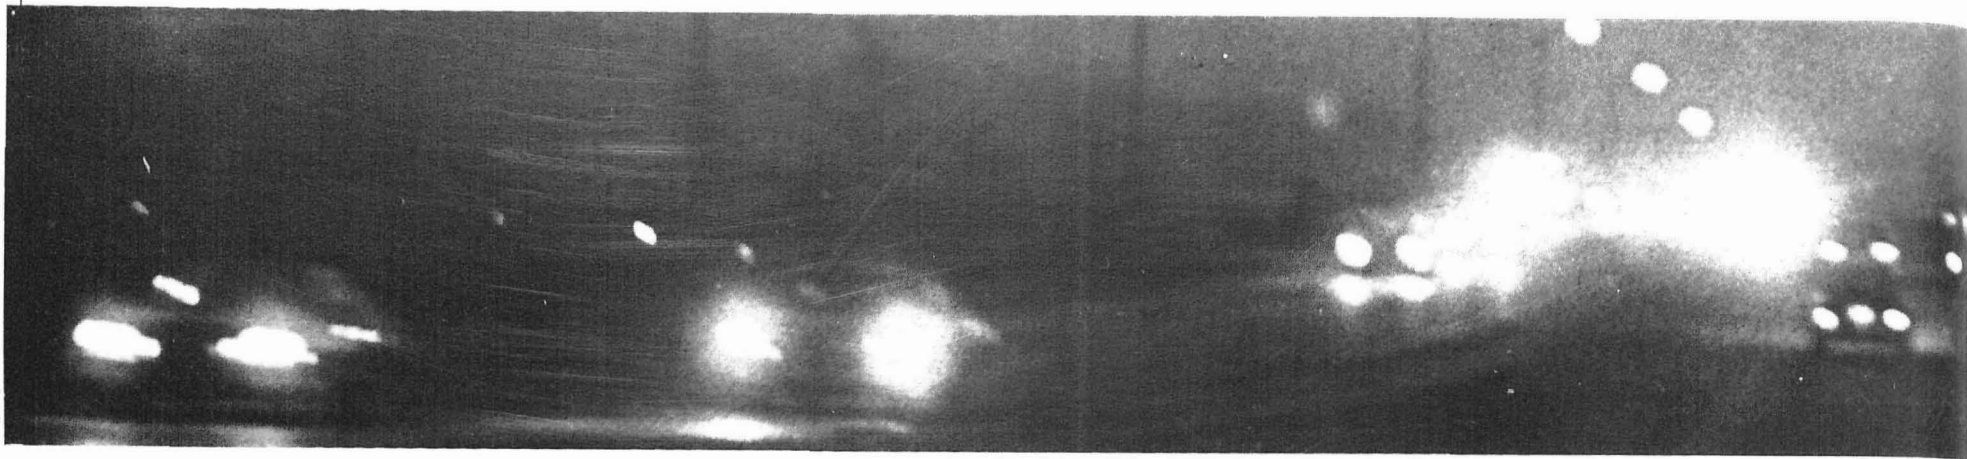

but such a glance is my salvation.
that is, if it's followed by acceptance, if it's followed by love.
it is the only thing that will assure me of what I can't assure myself;
that I am worth something.

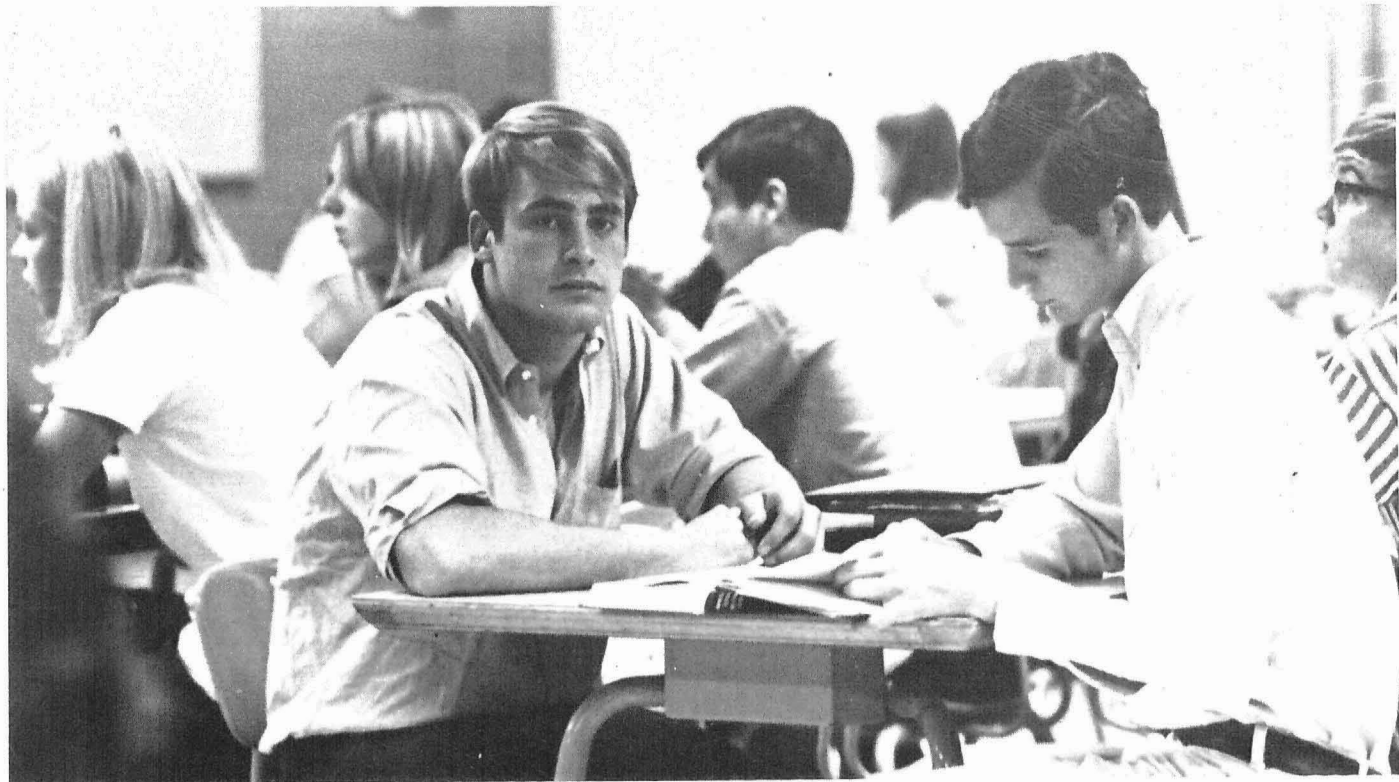

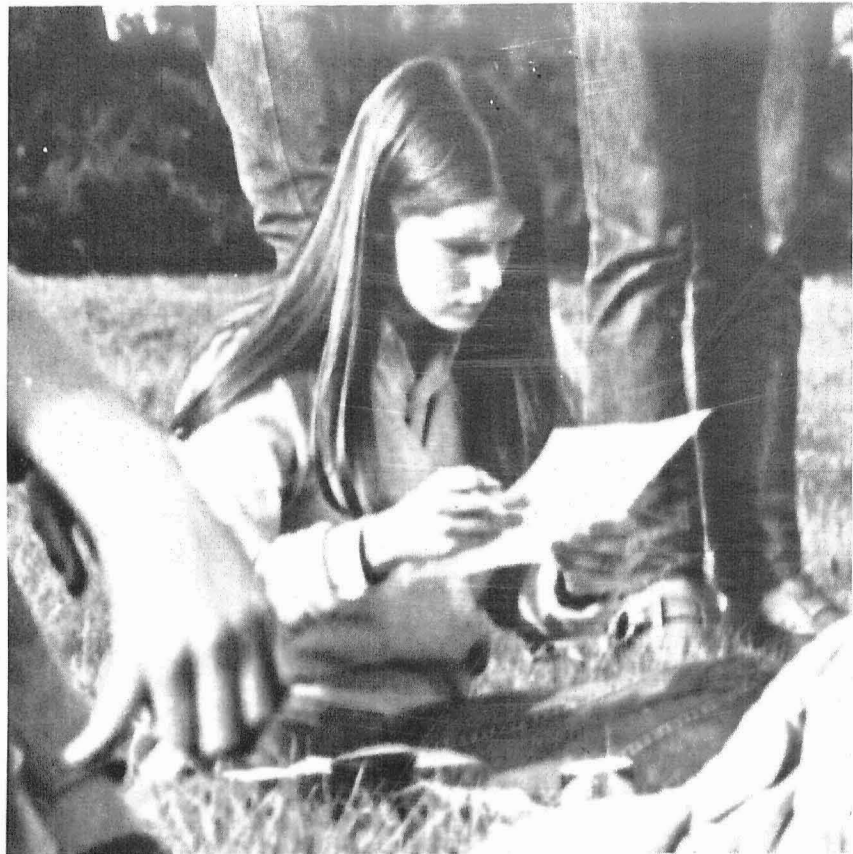

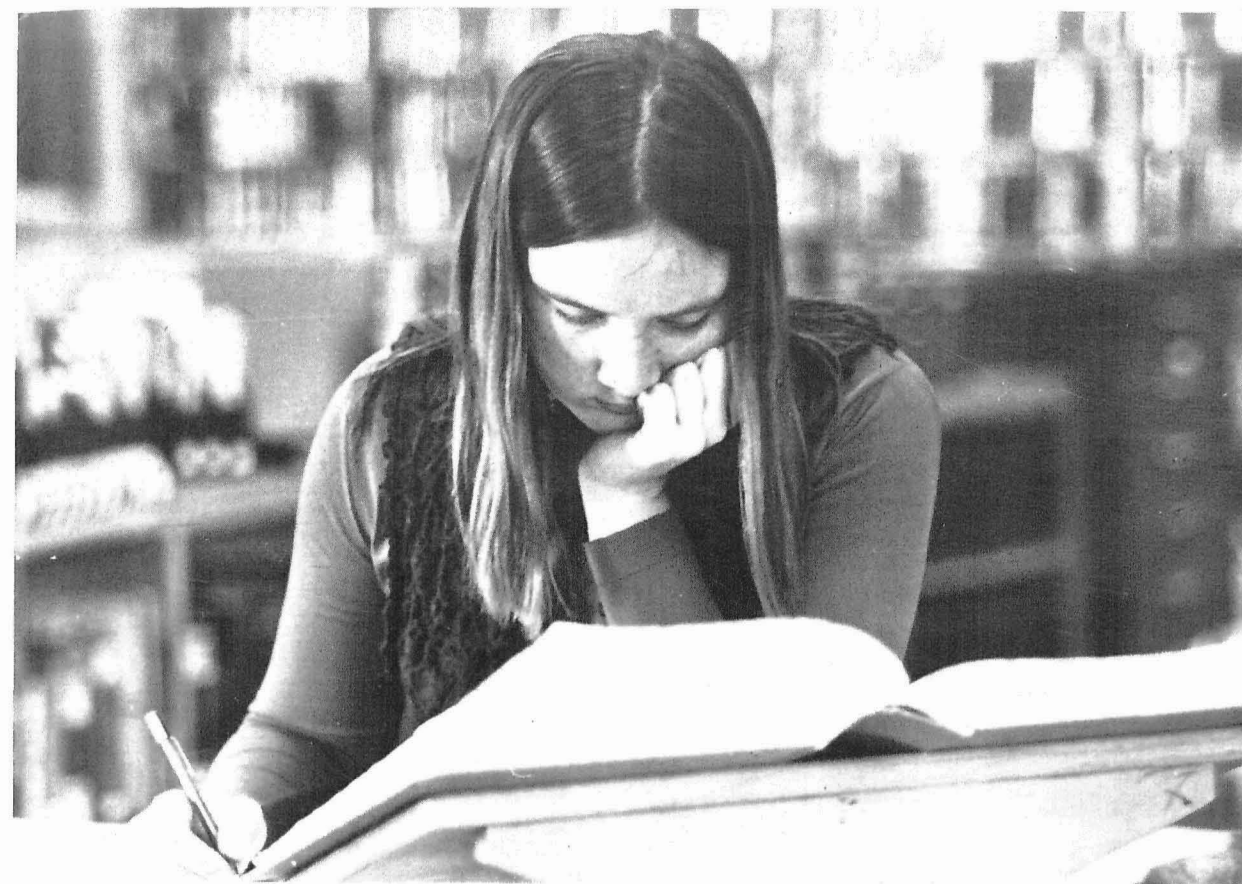

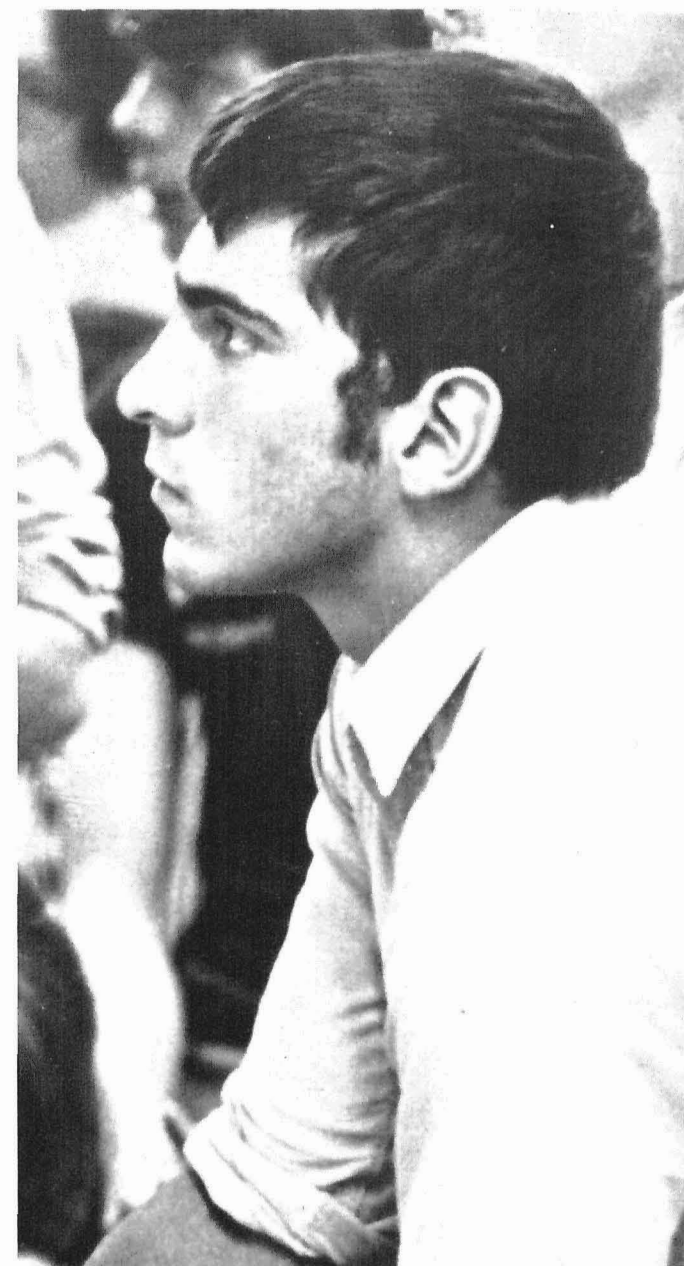

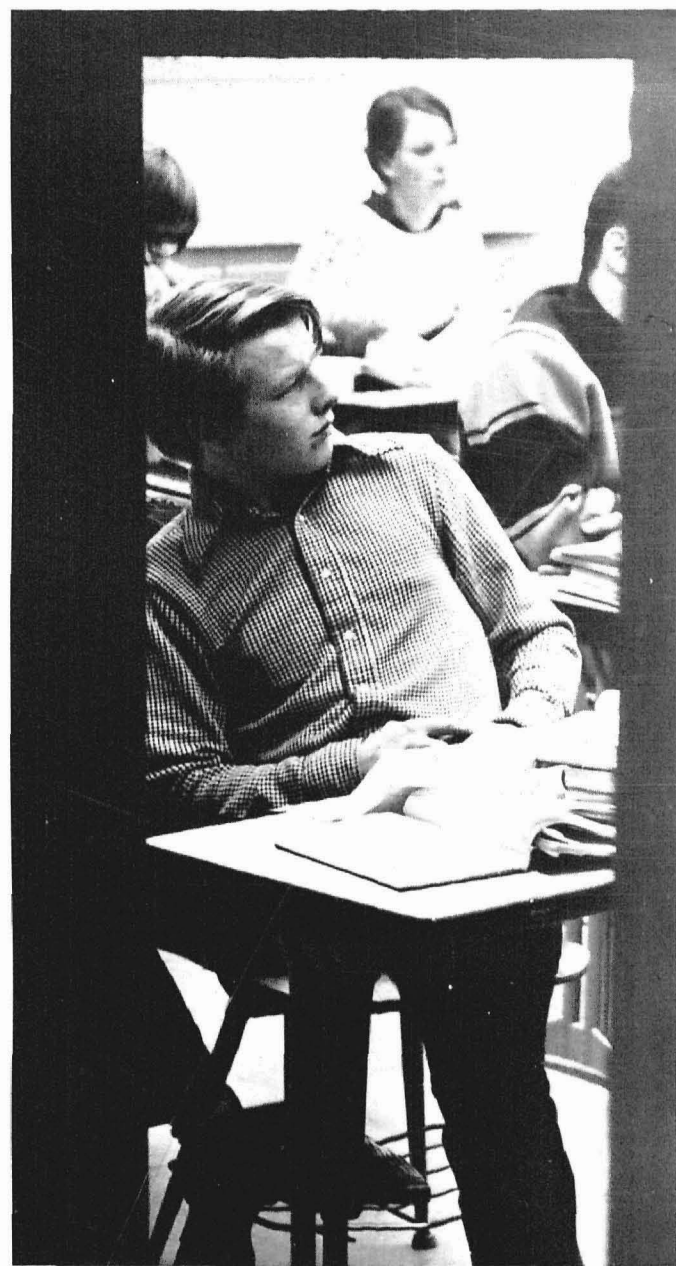

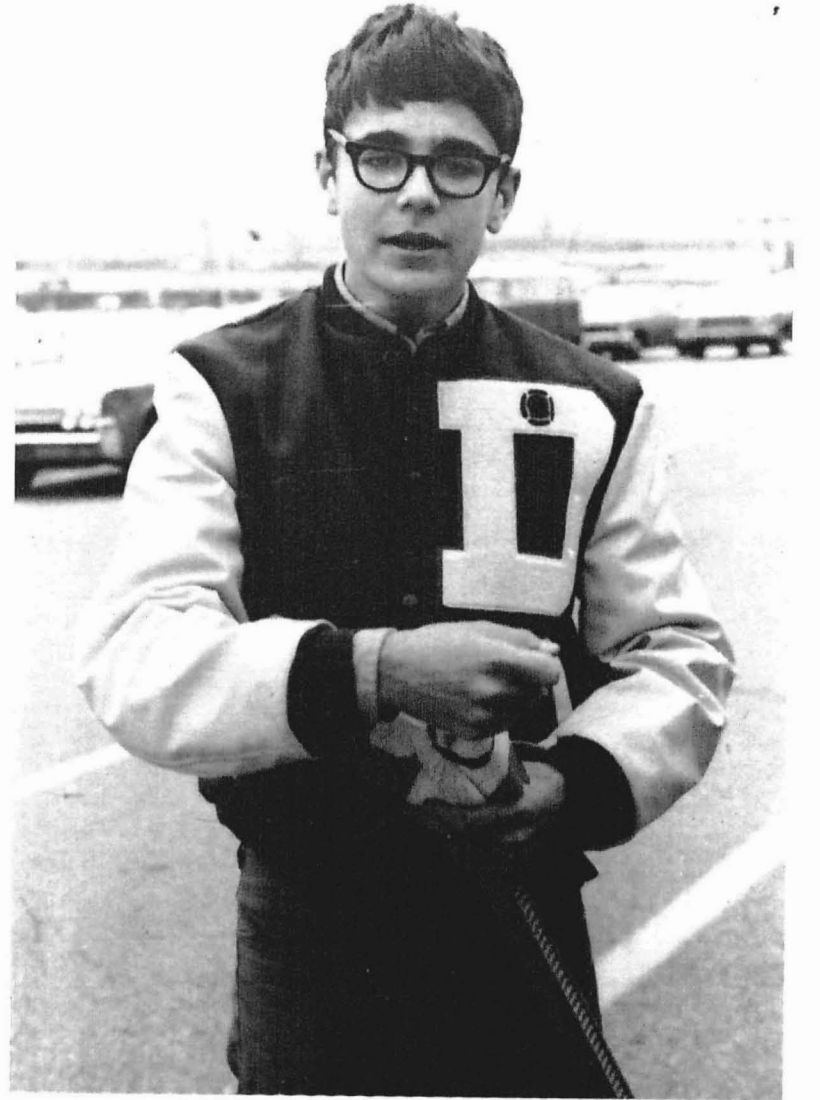

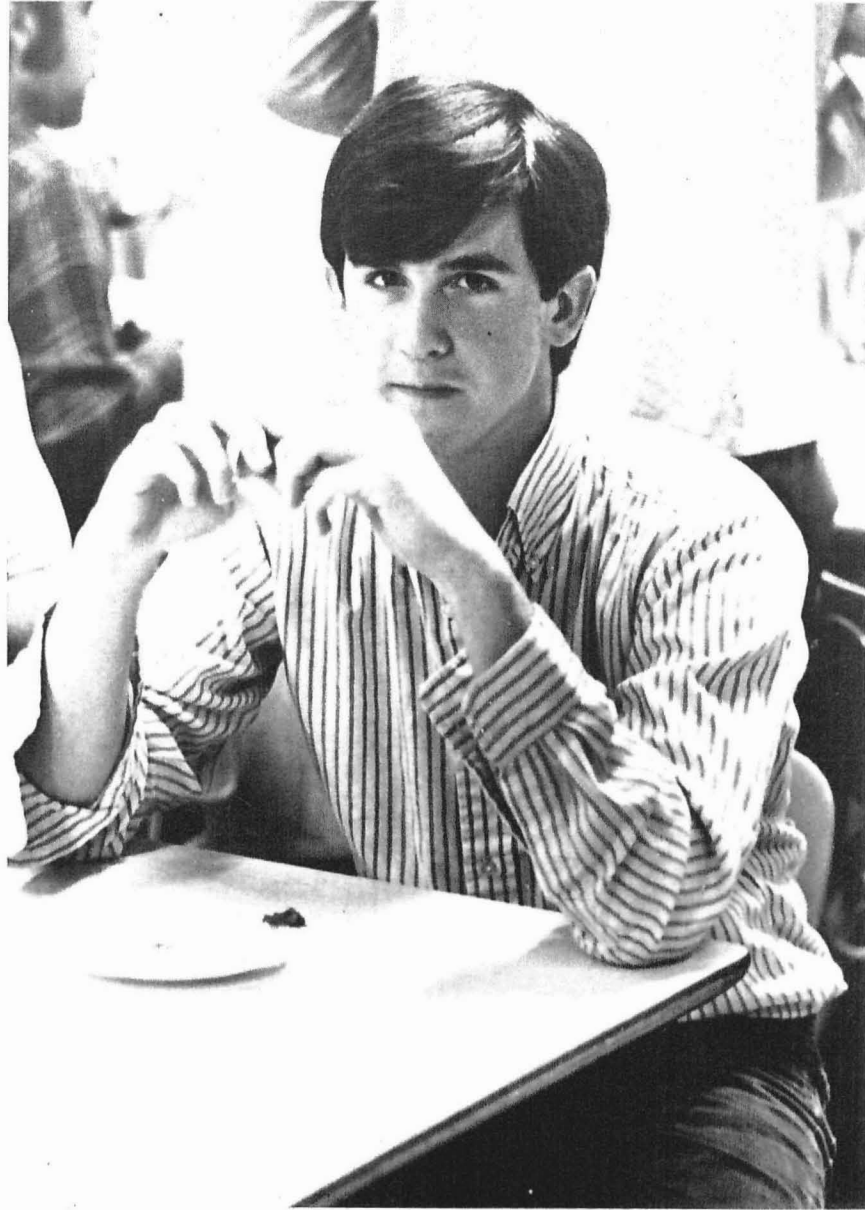

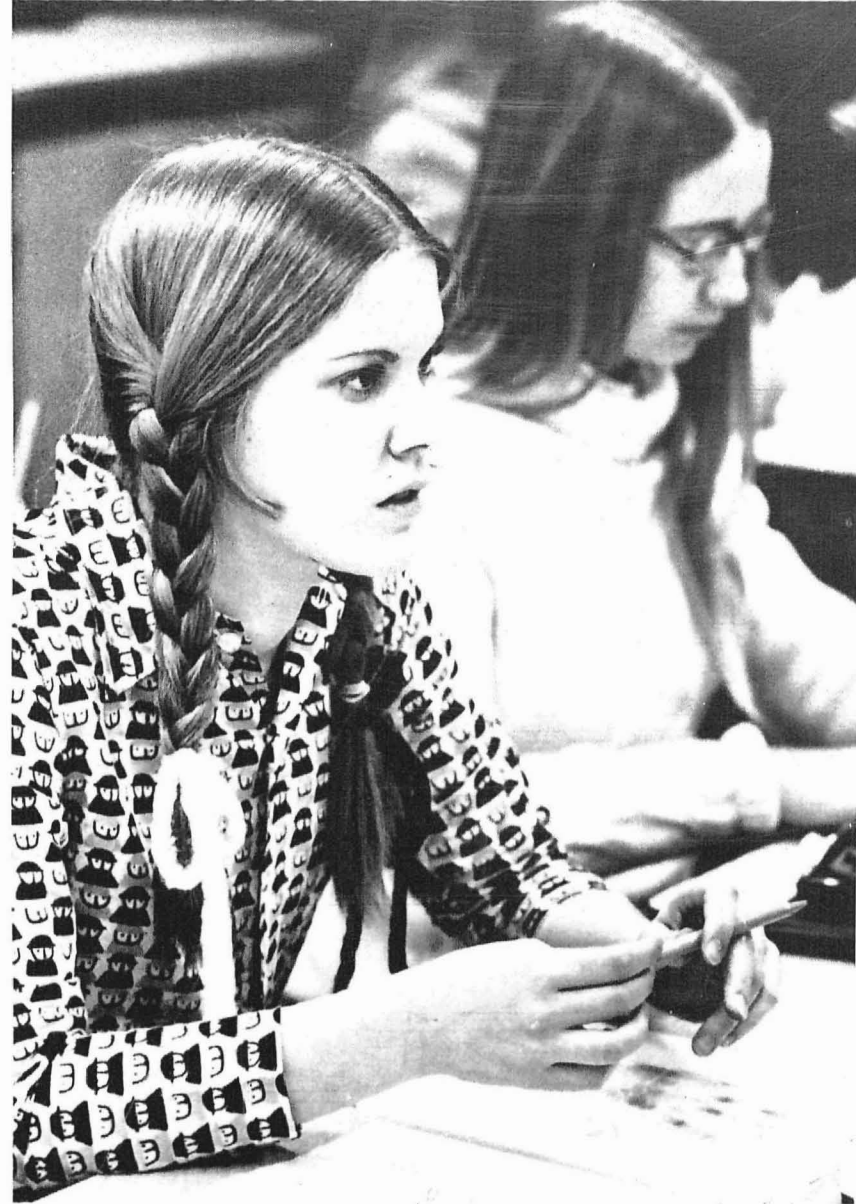

but I don't tell you this, I don't dare.
I'm afraid that you'll think less of me,
that you'll laugh at me.
I play my game with a facade of assurance.
and so begins the parade of masks.

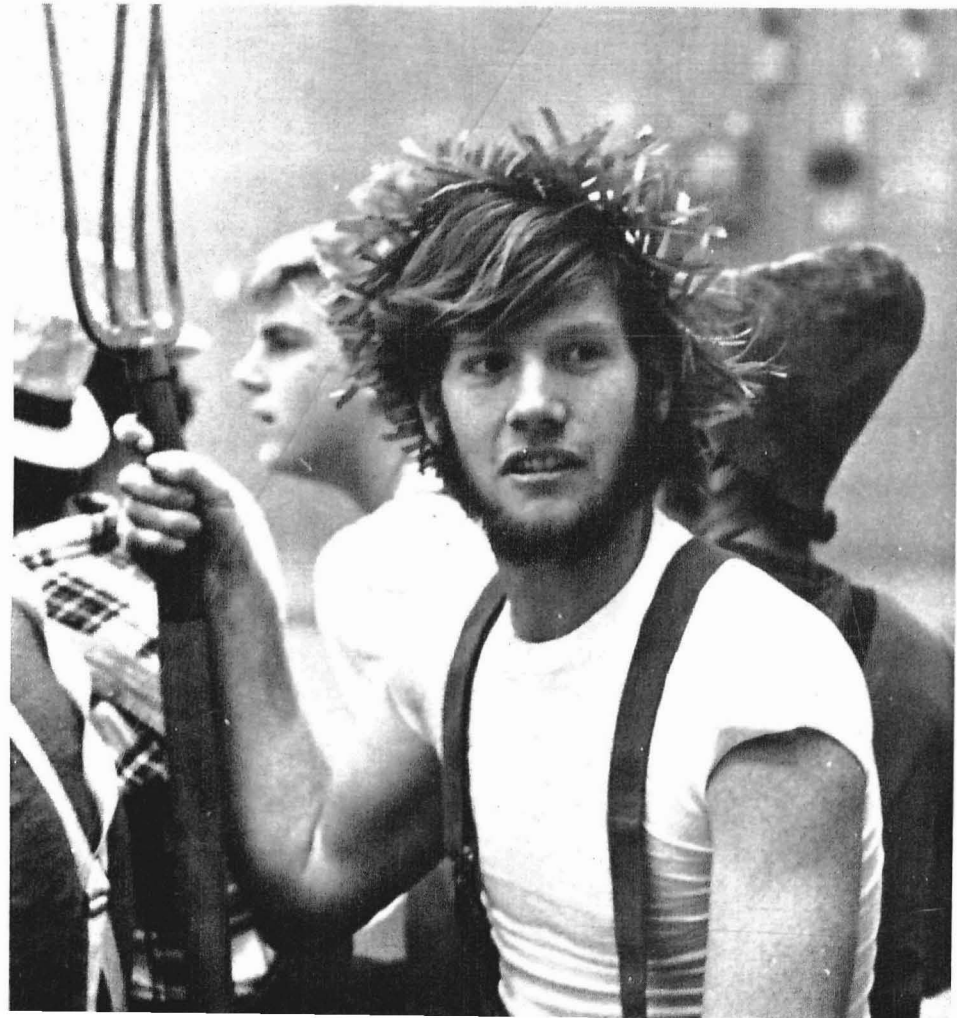

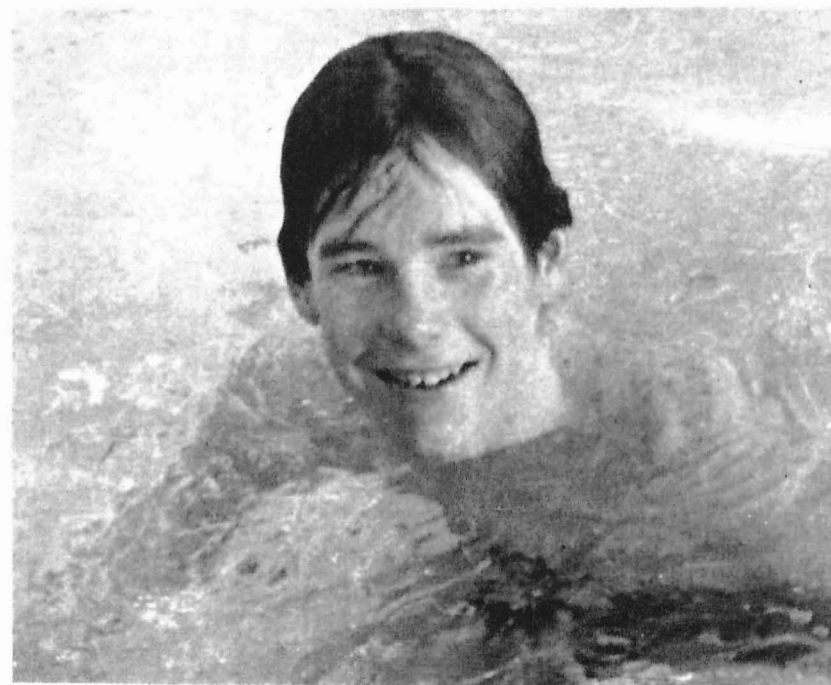

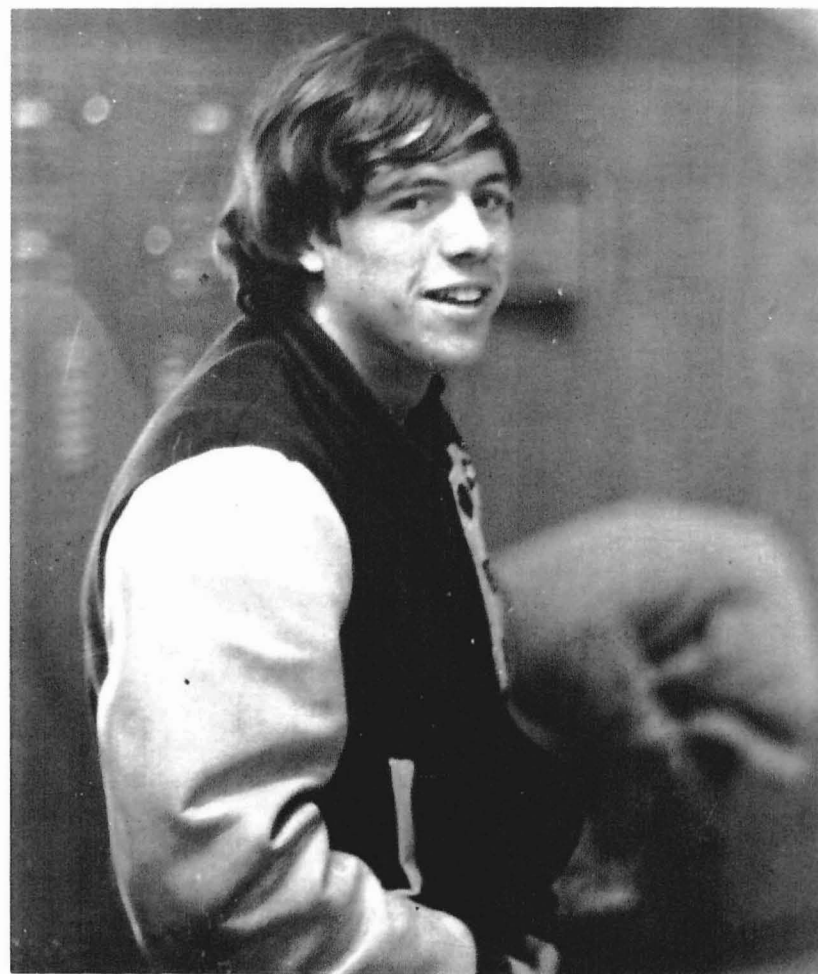

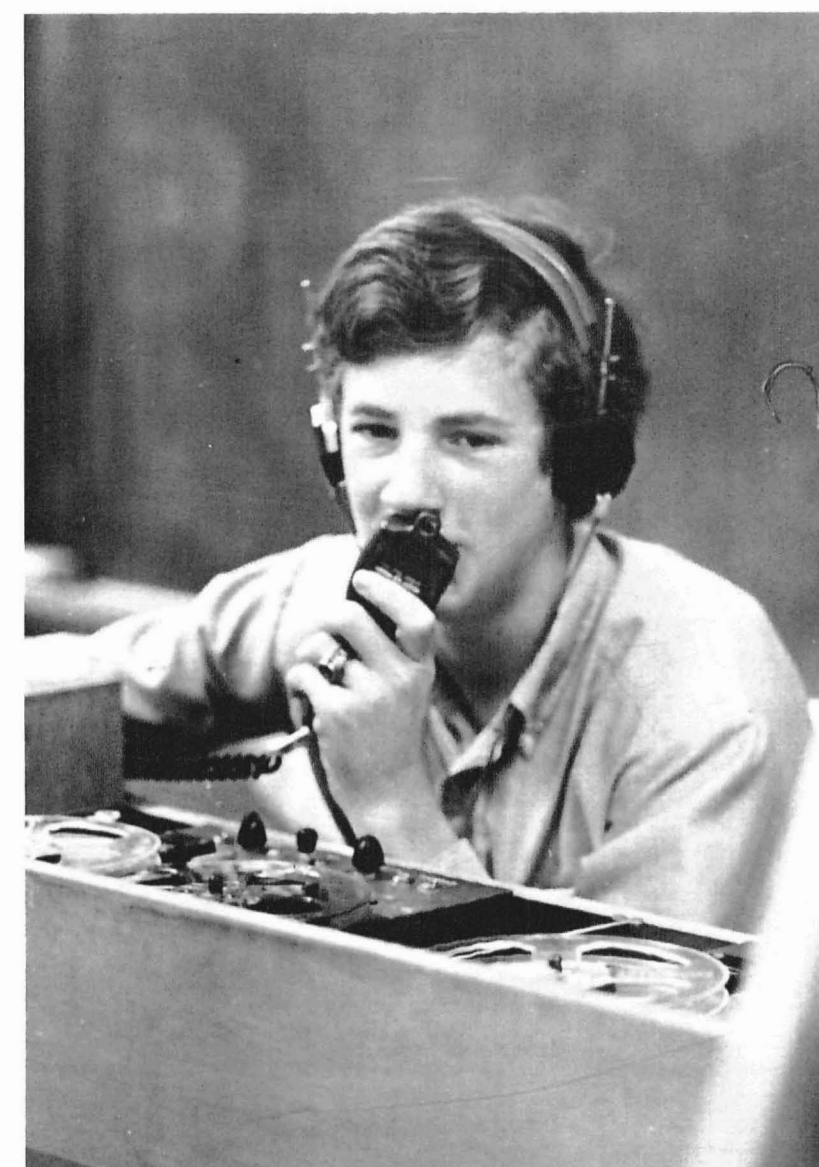

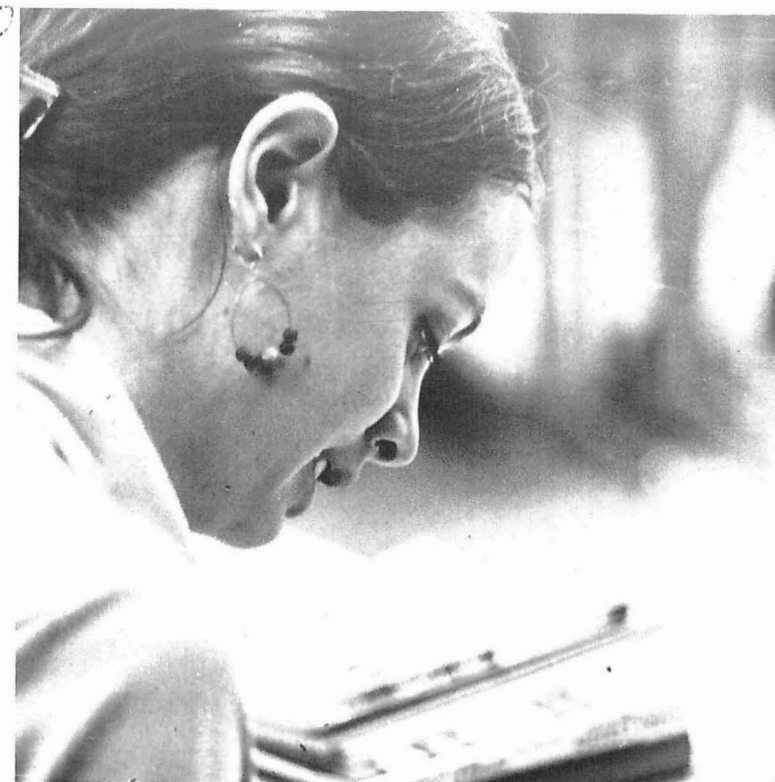

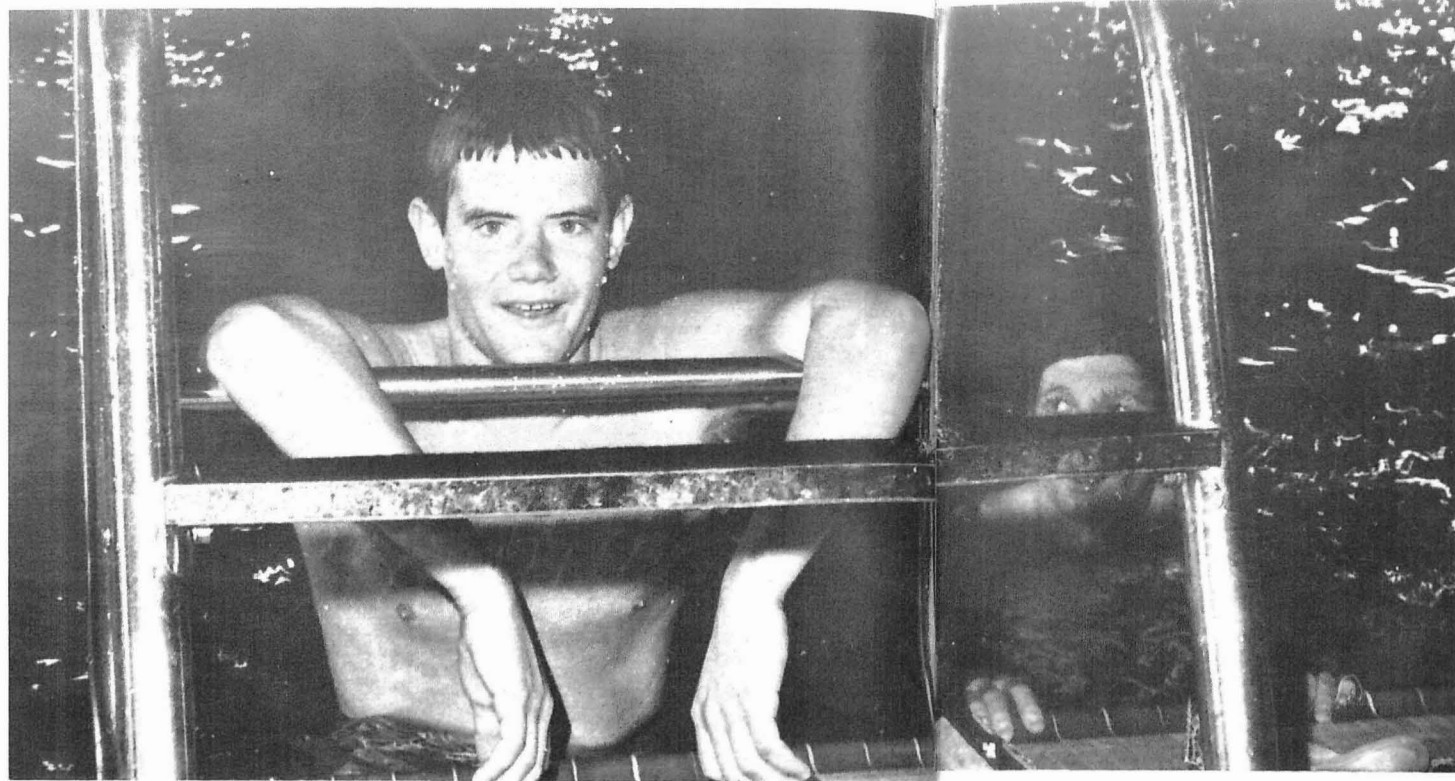

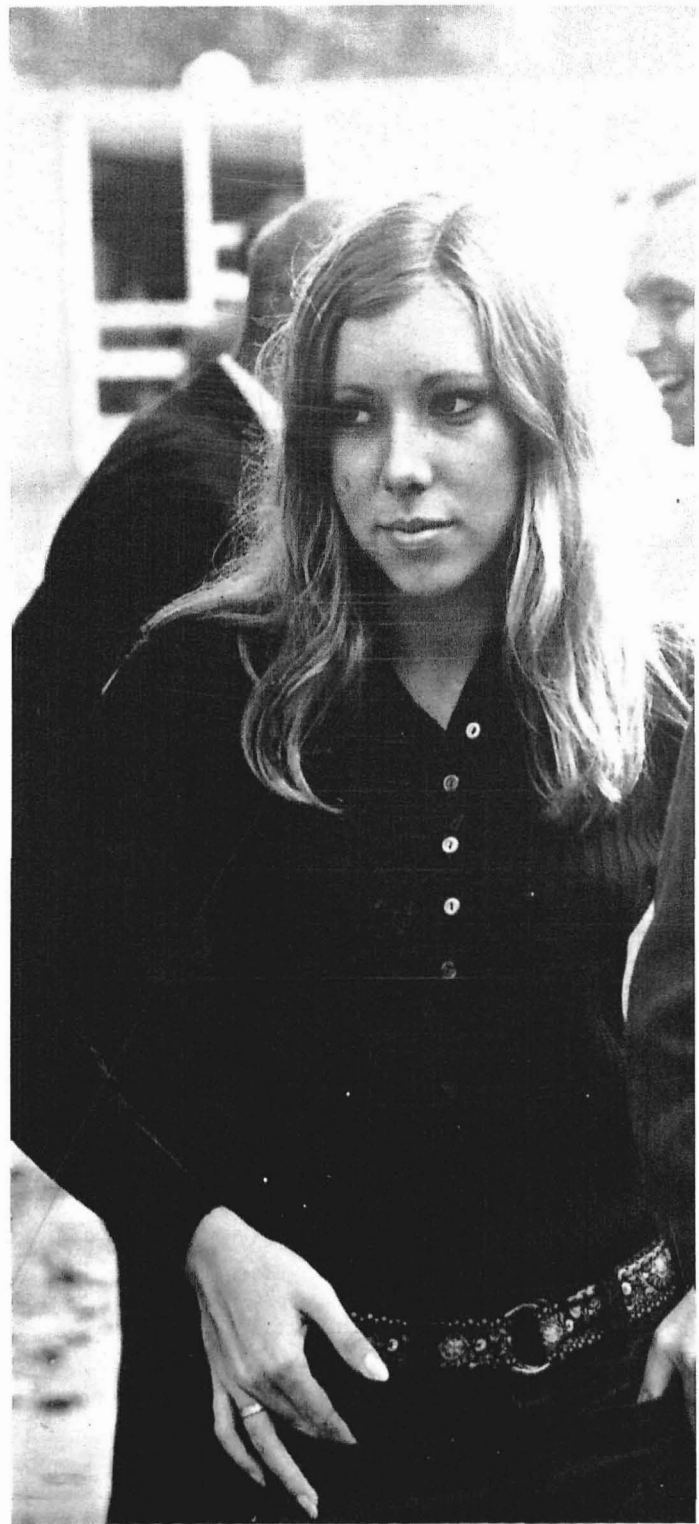

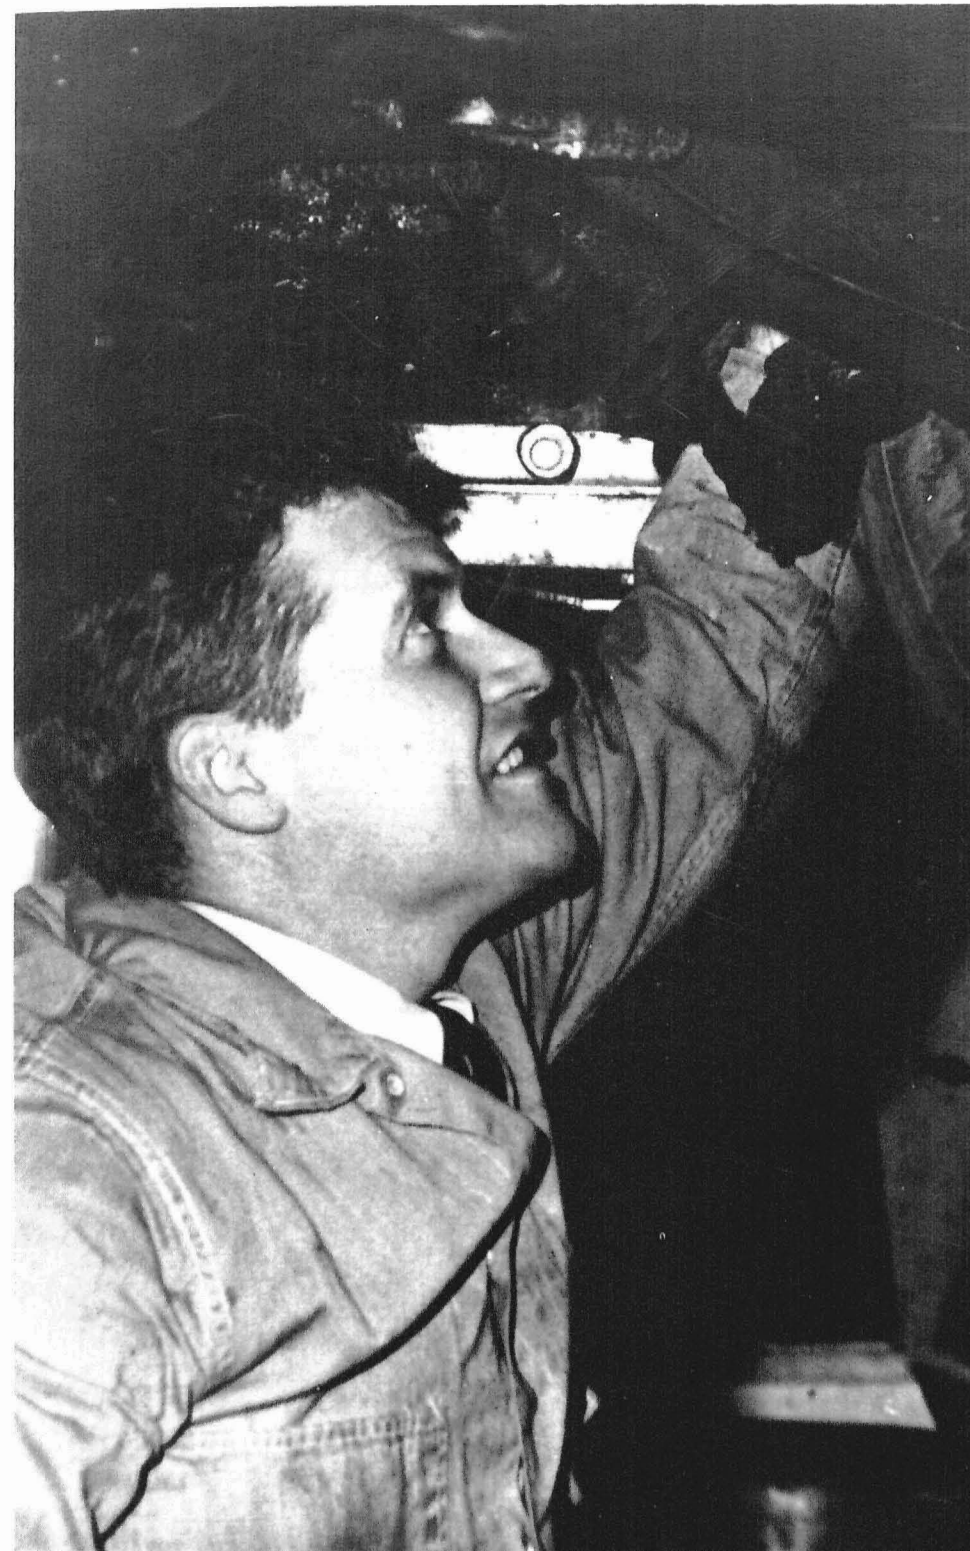

I tell you everything that is really nothing, and nothing of what's really everything.
so when I'm going through my routine,
don't be fooled by what I'm saying.

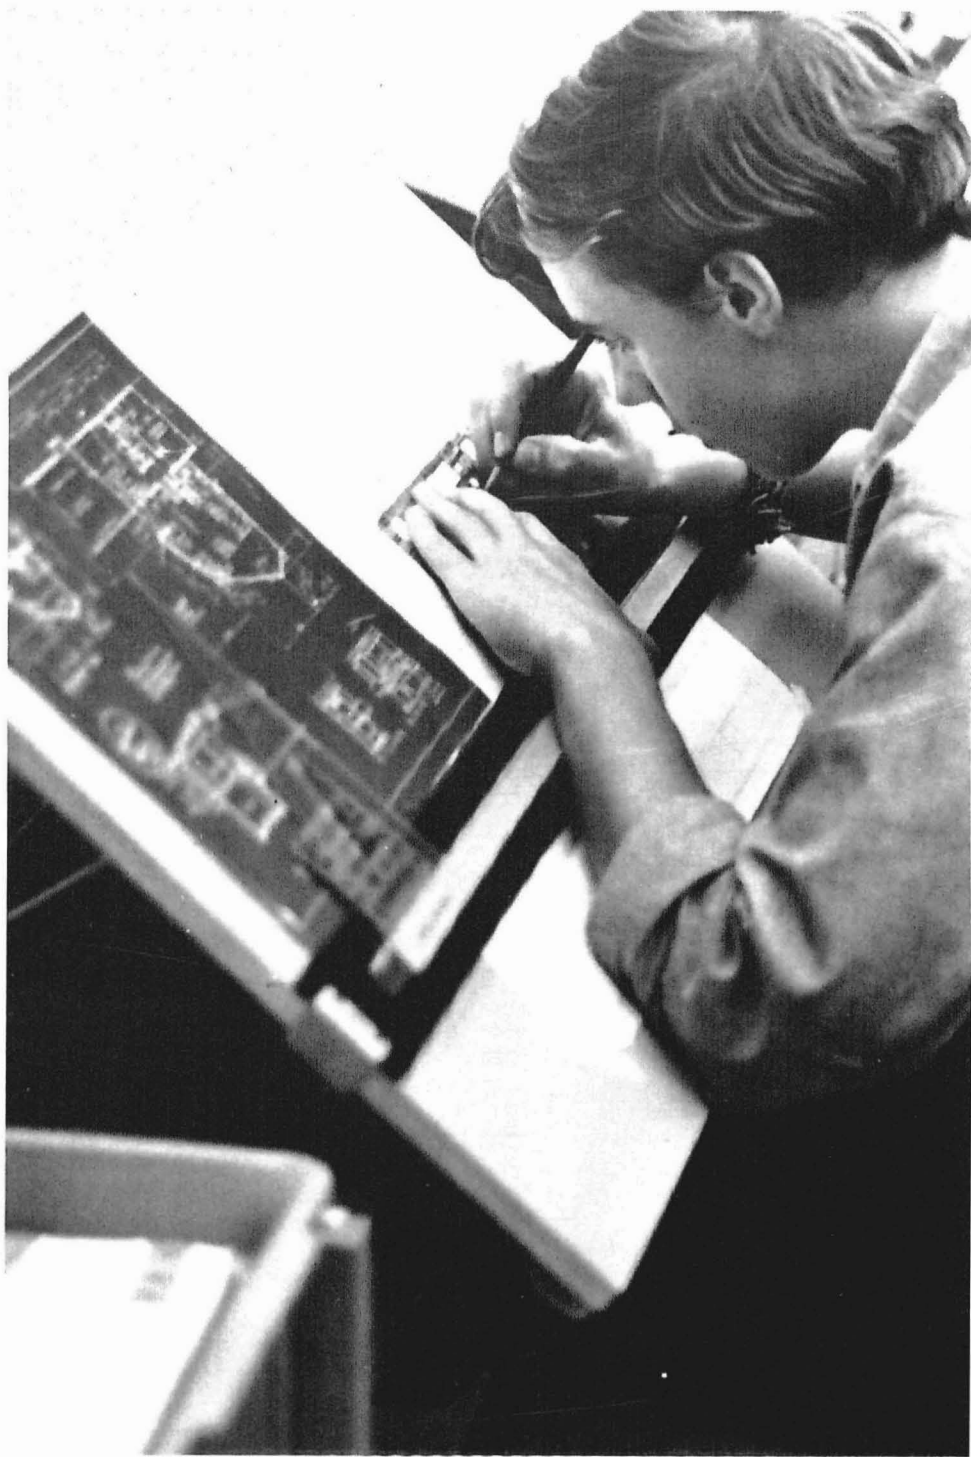

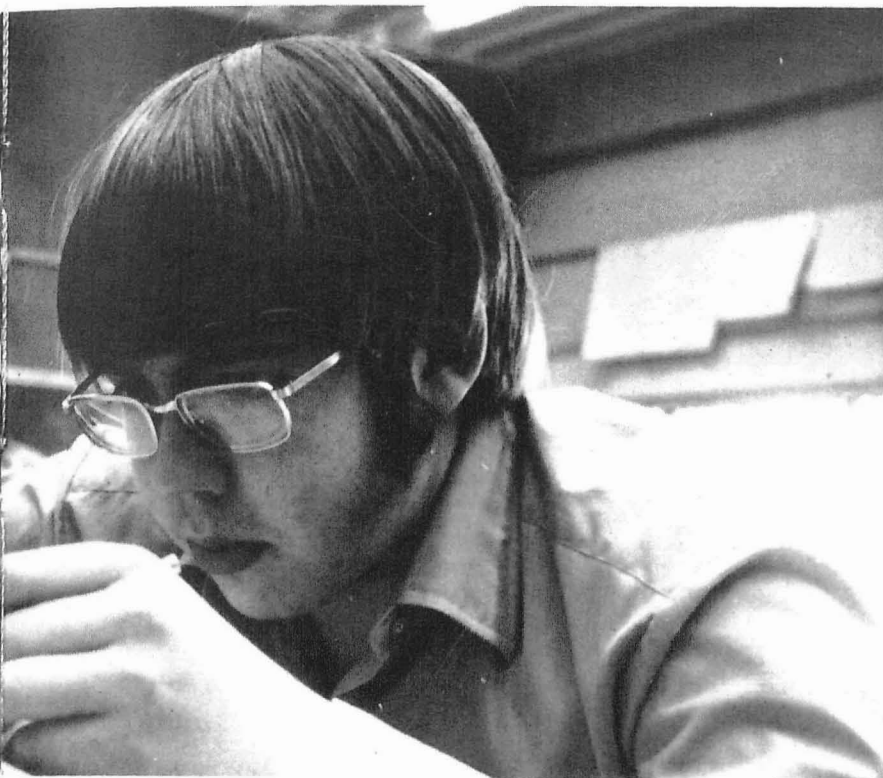

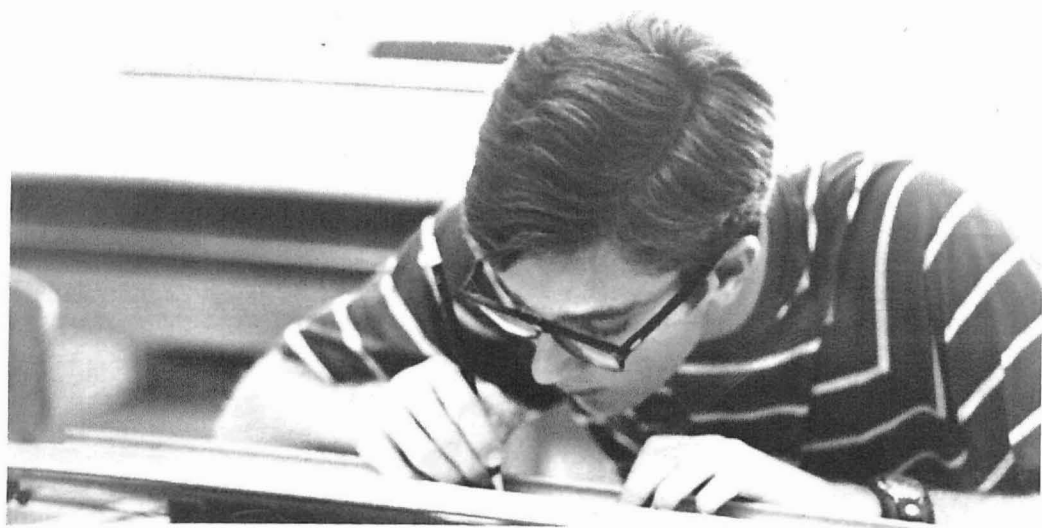

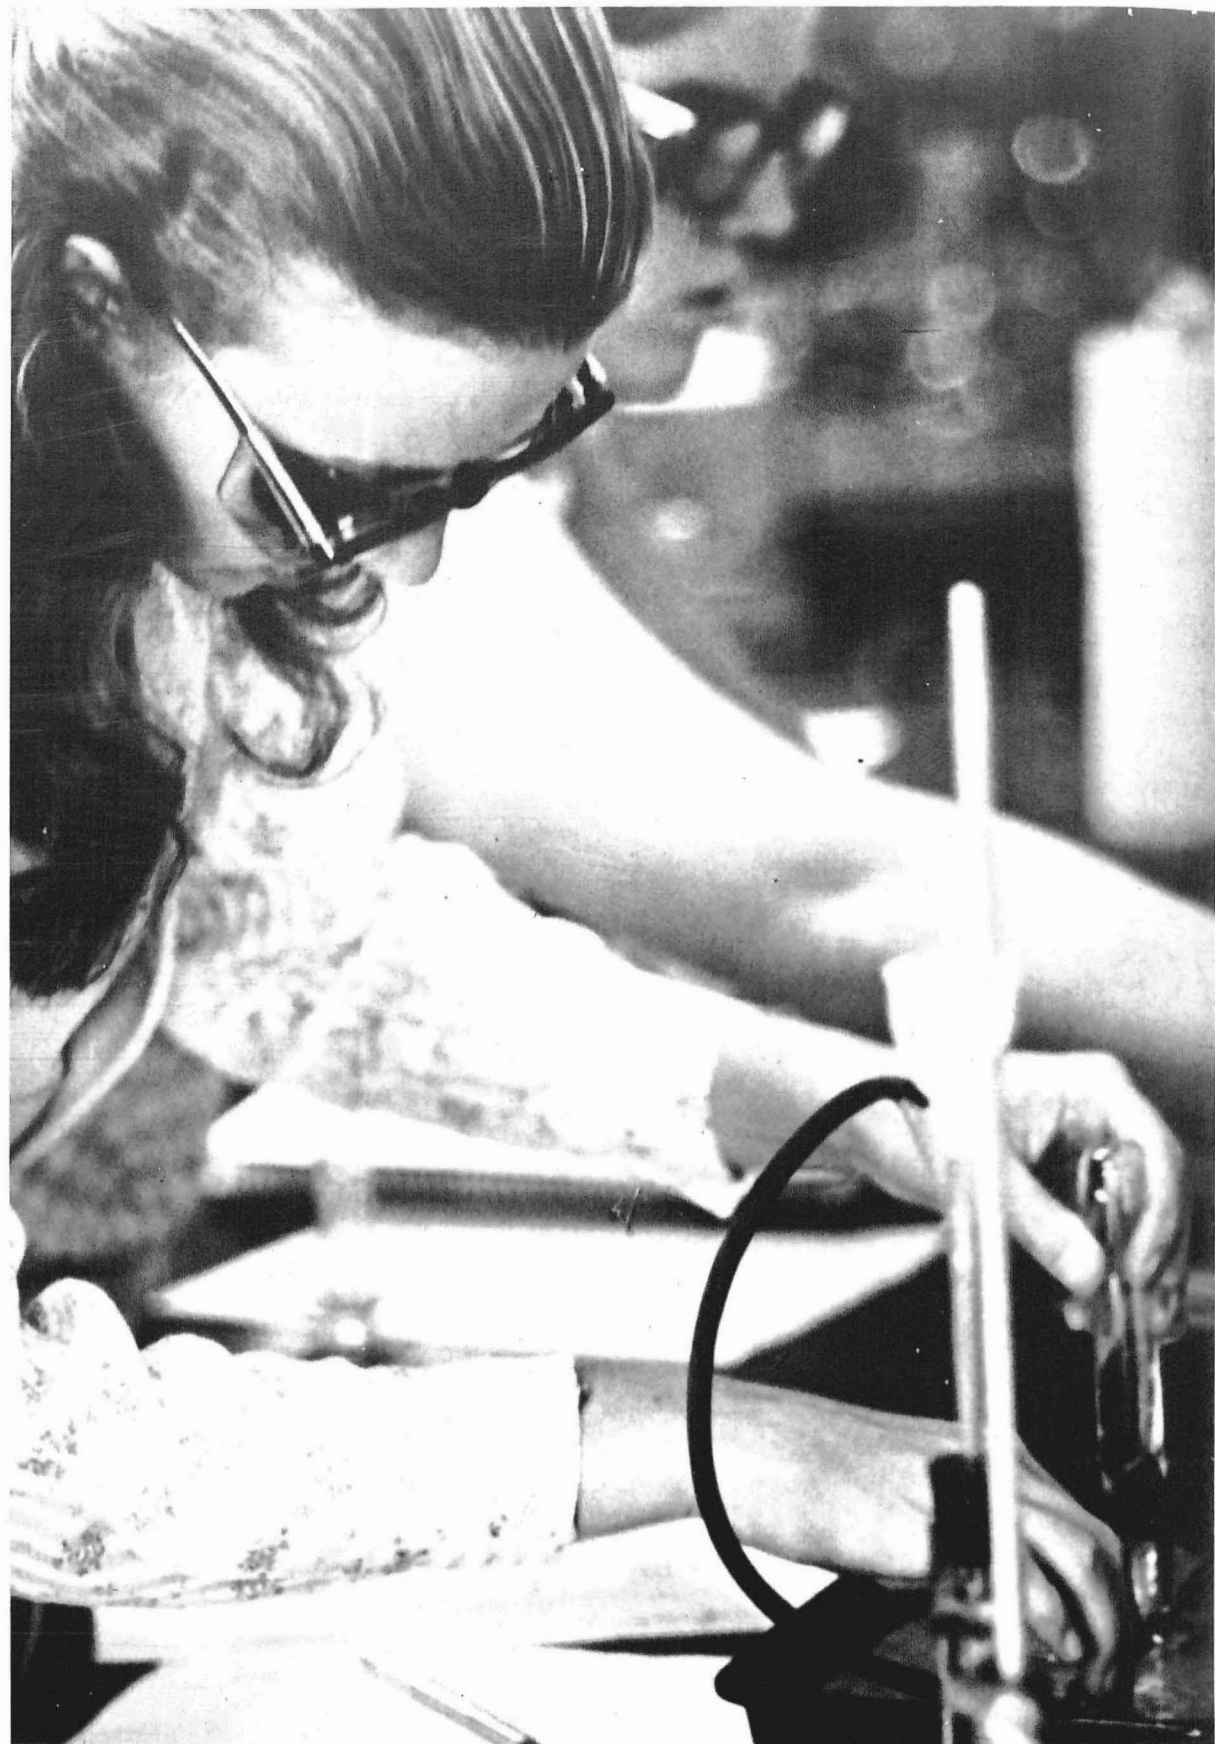

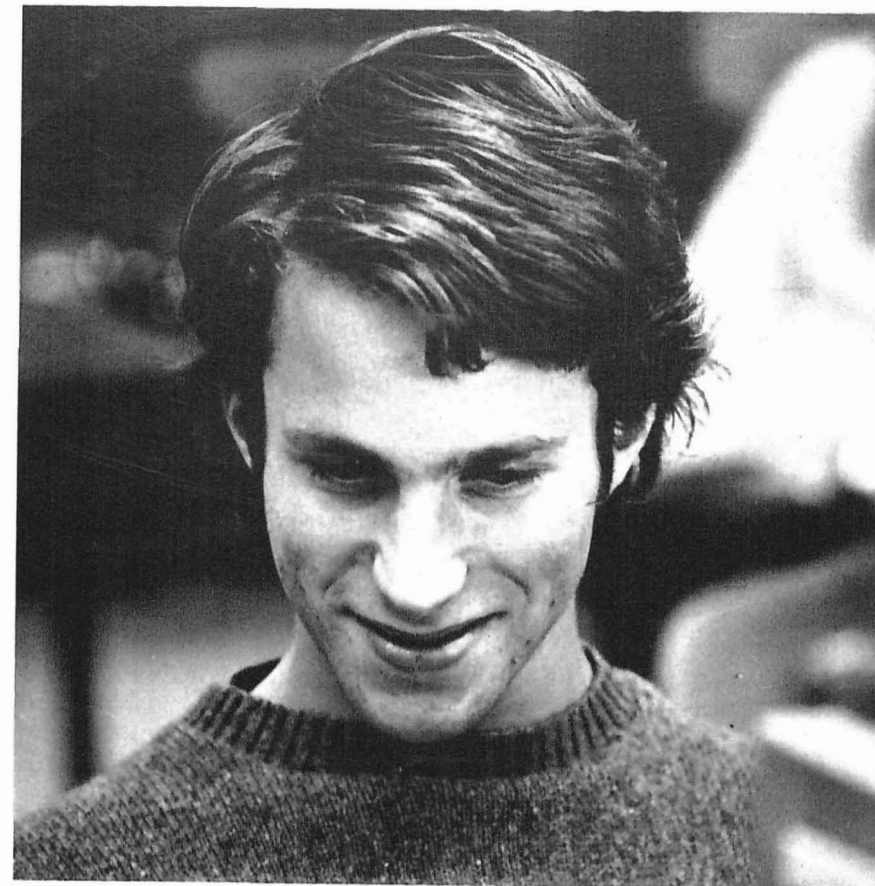

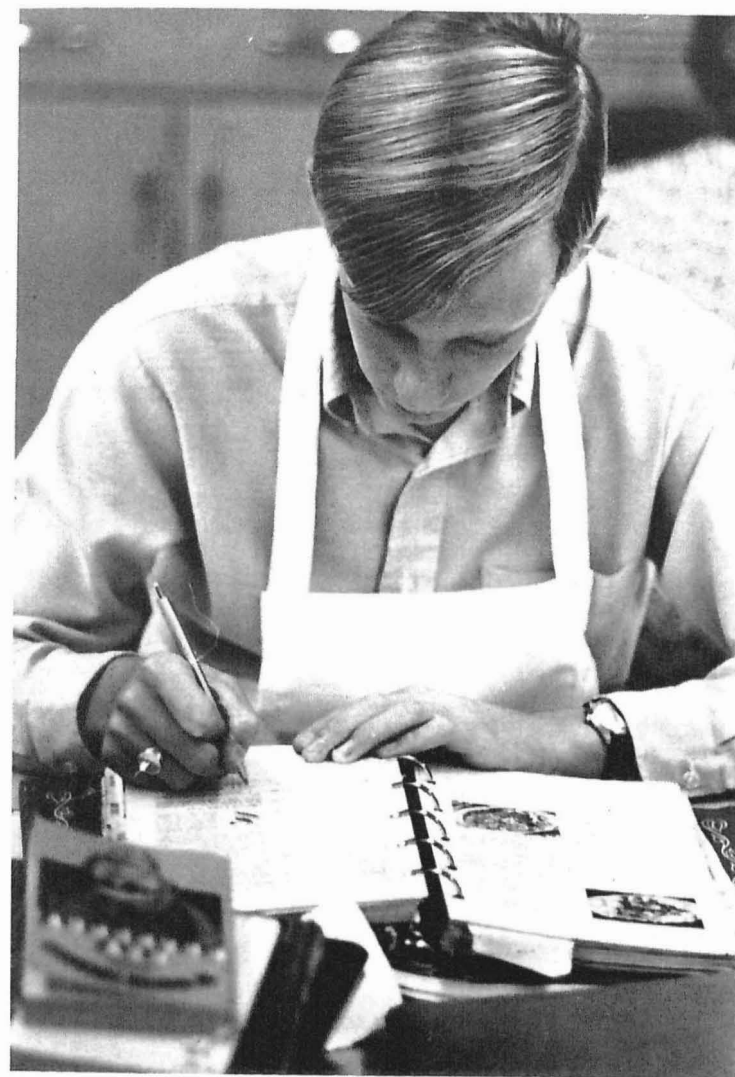

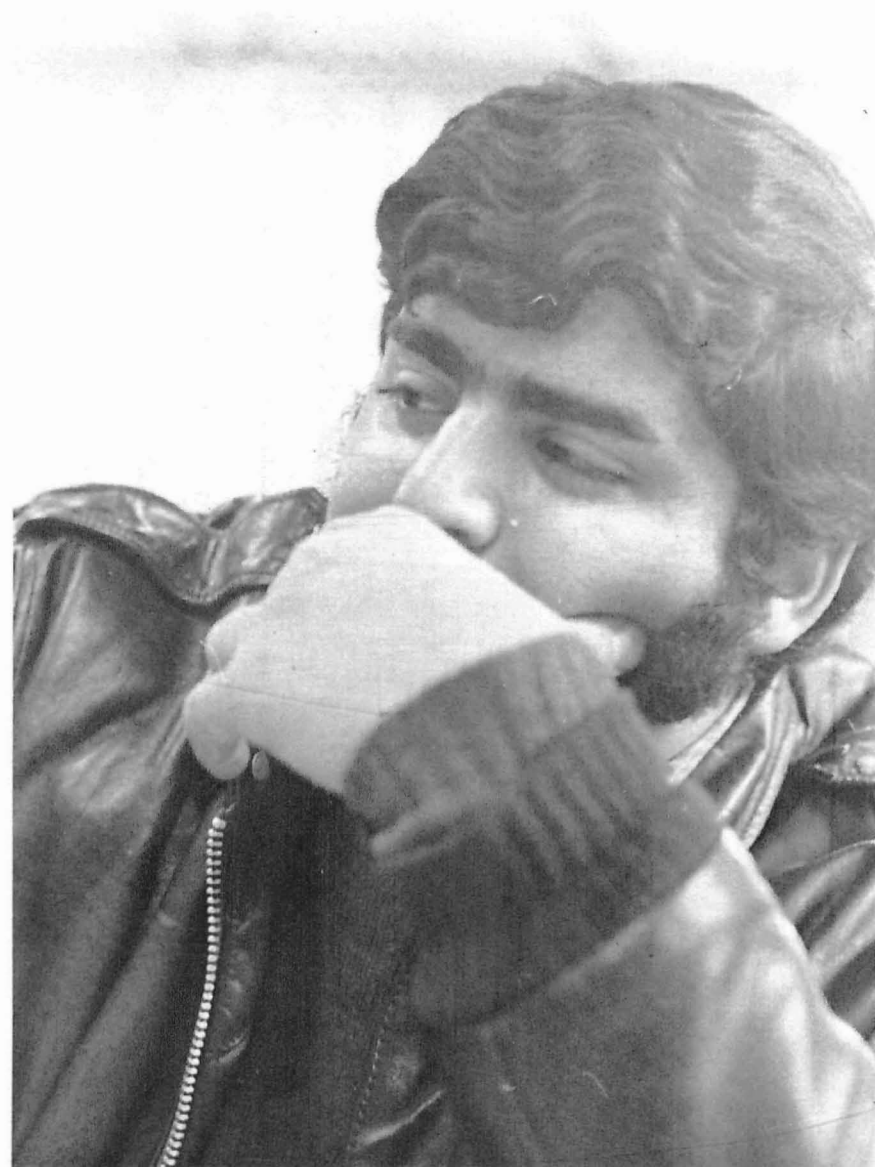

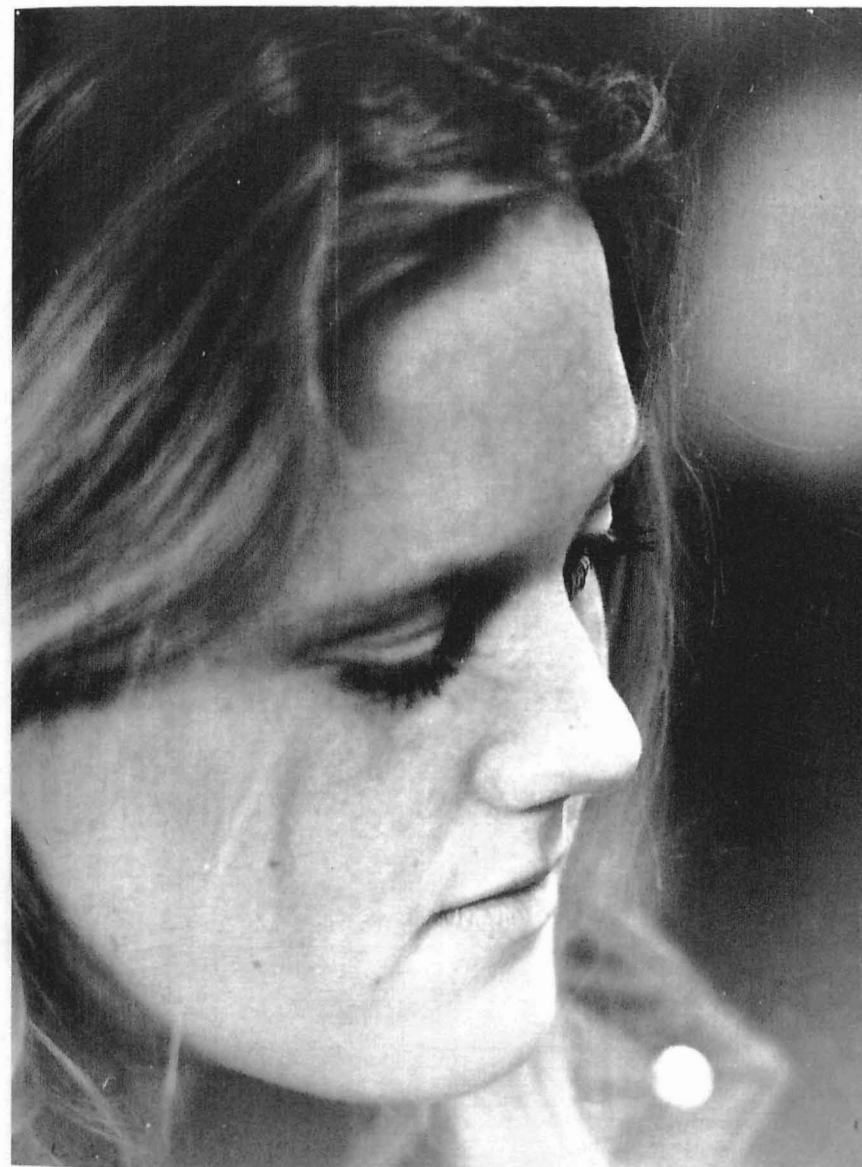

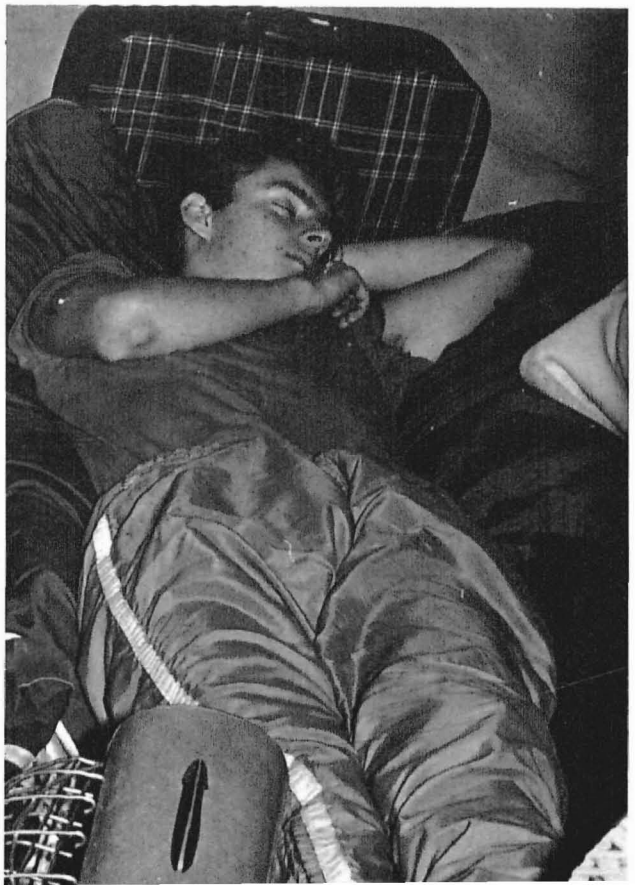

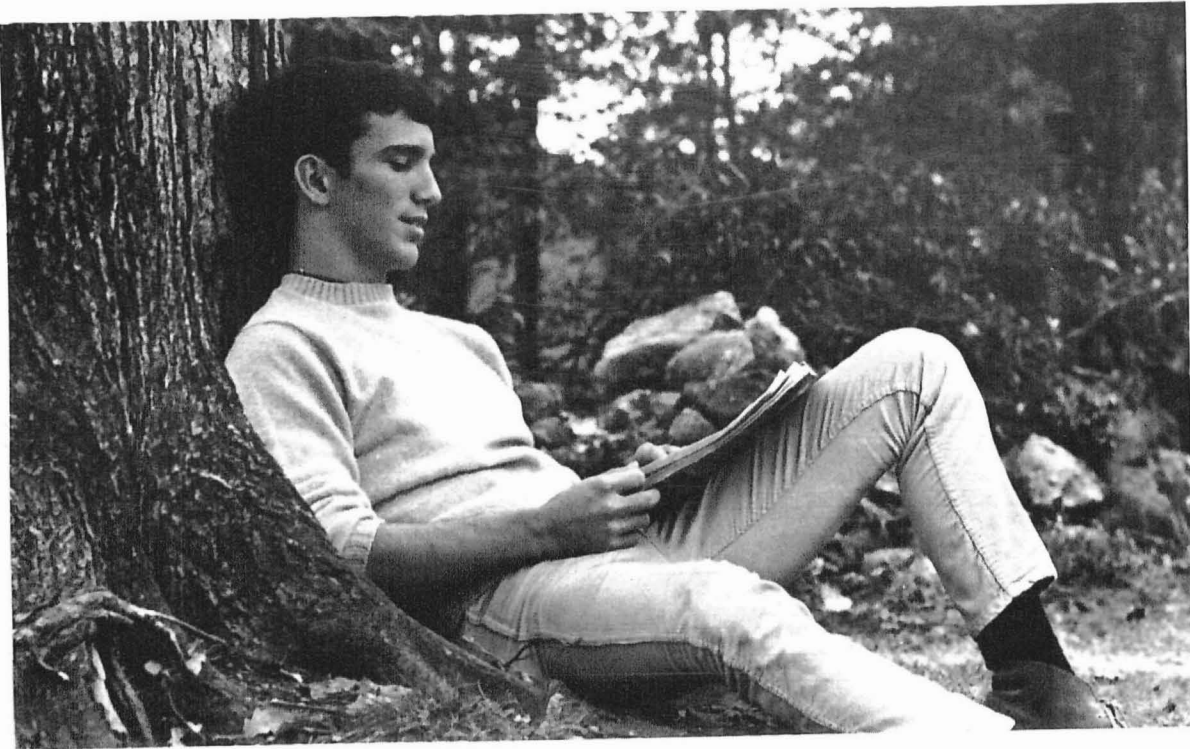

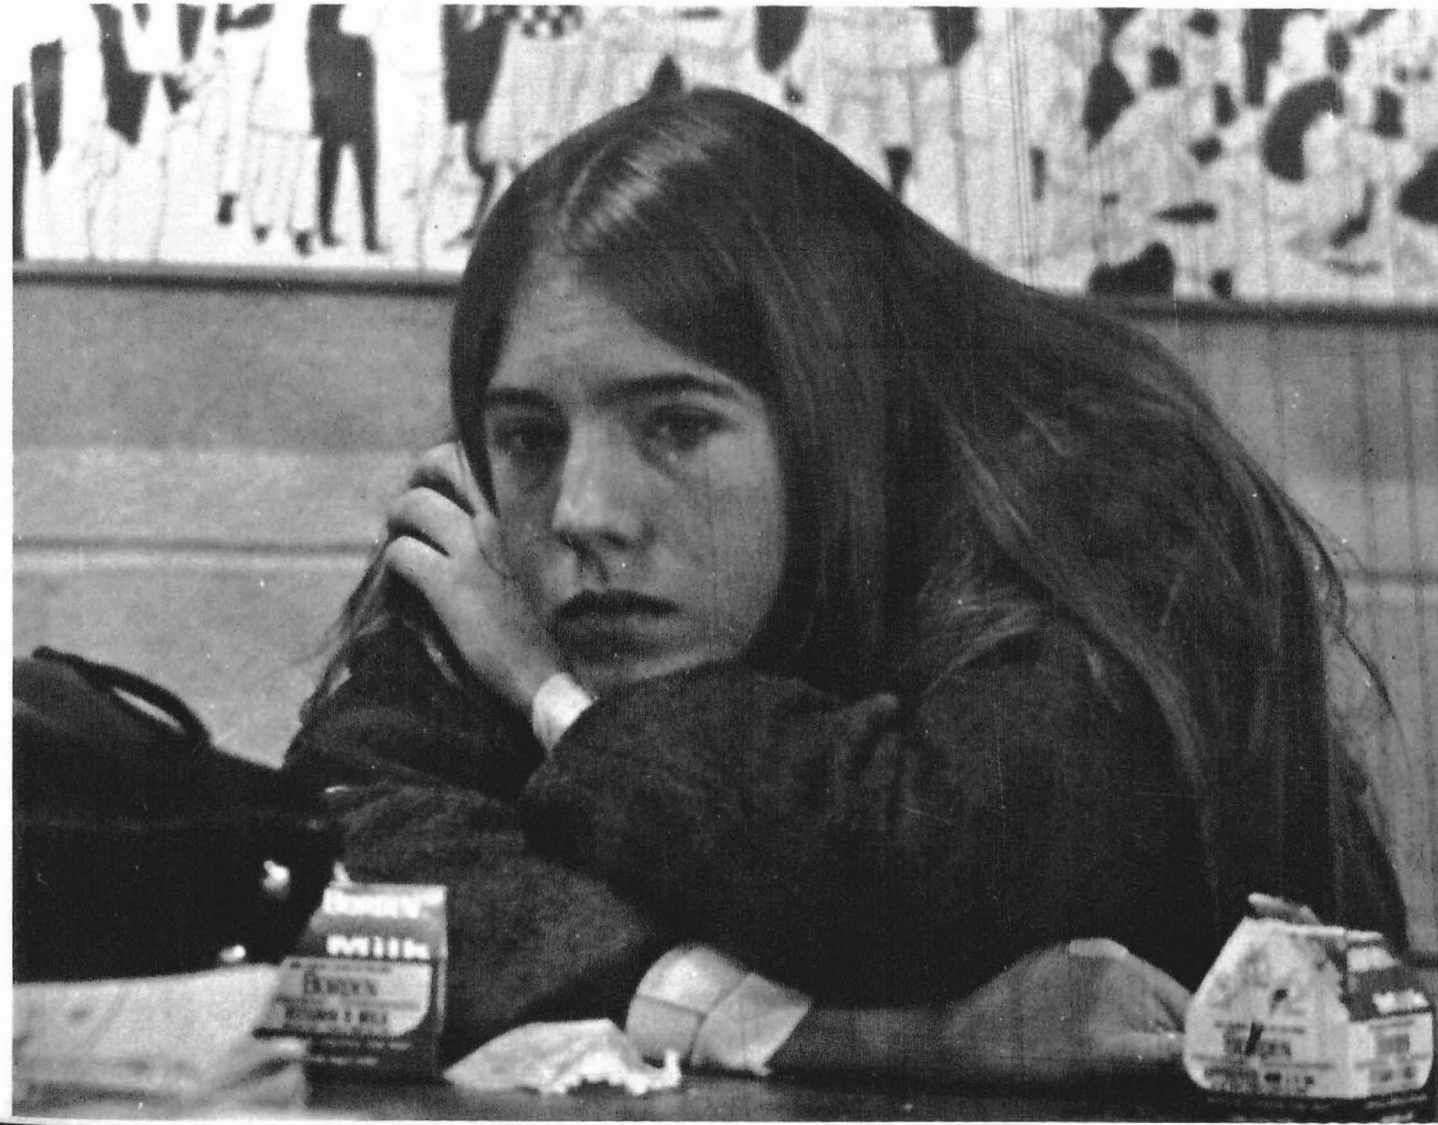

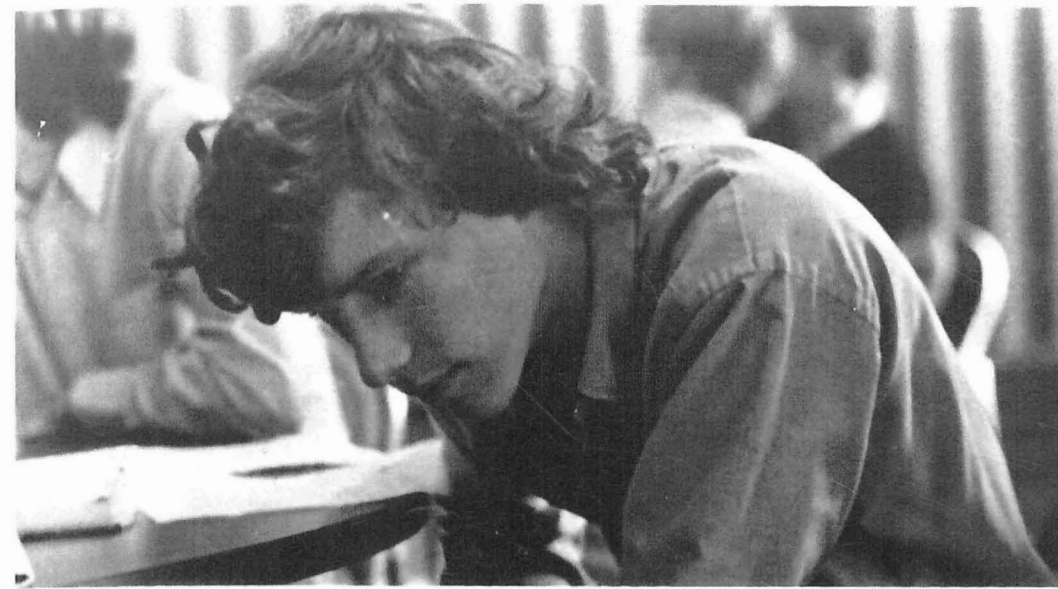

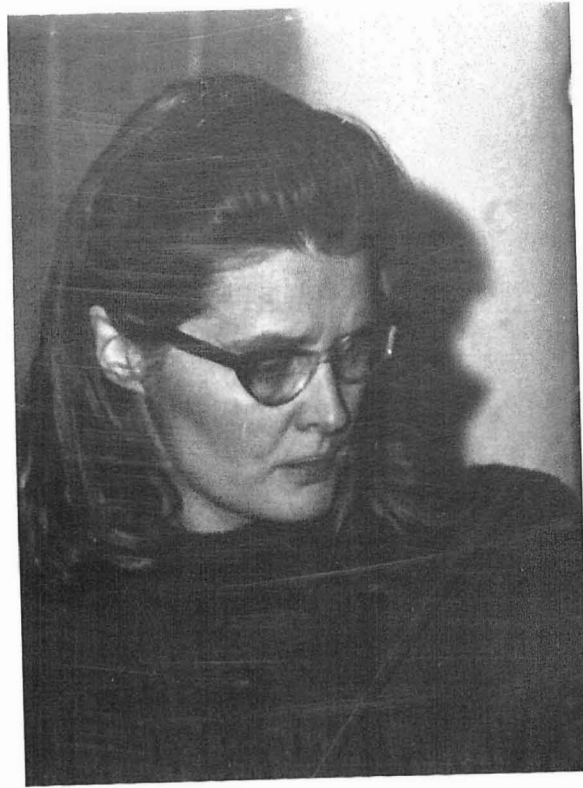

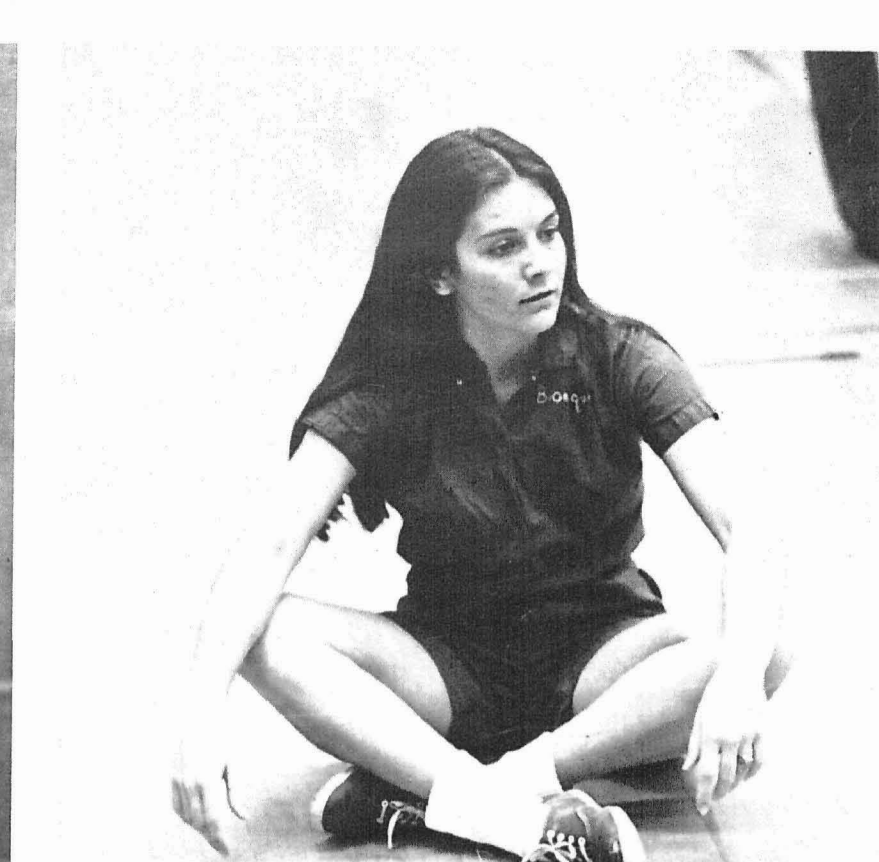

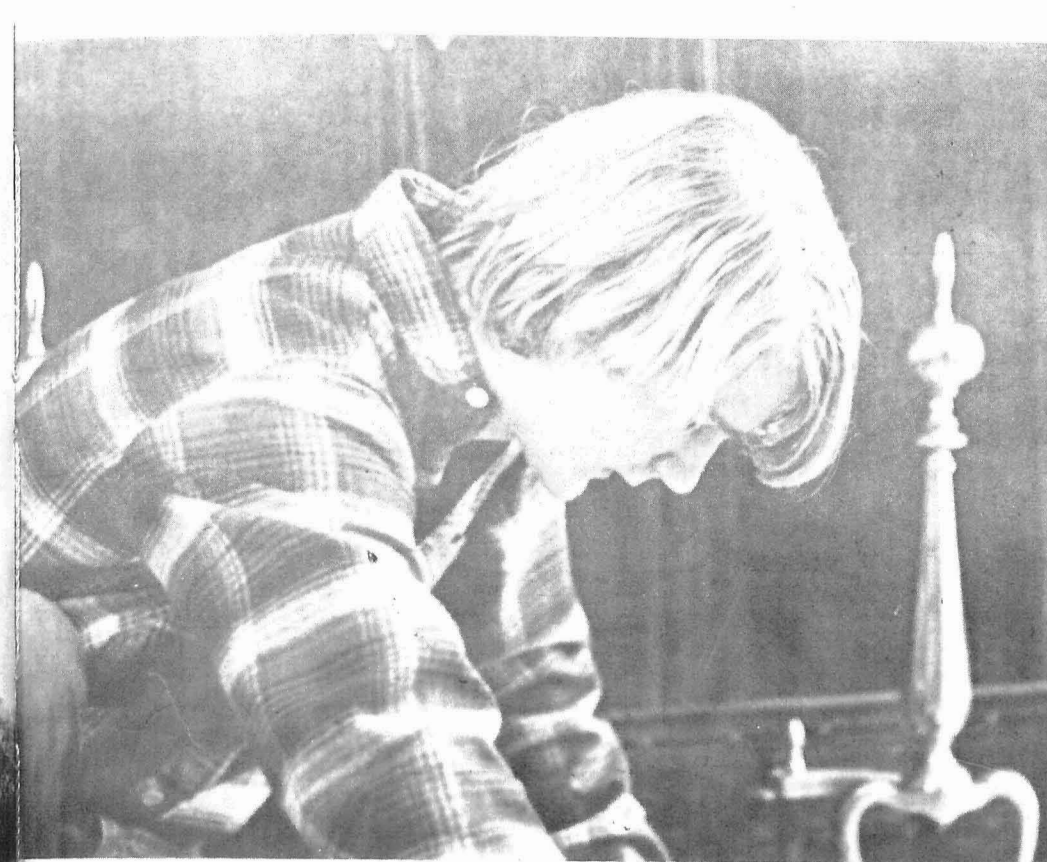

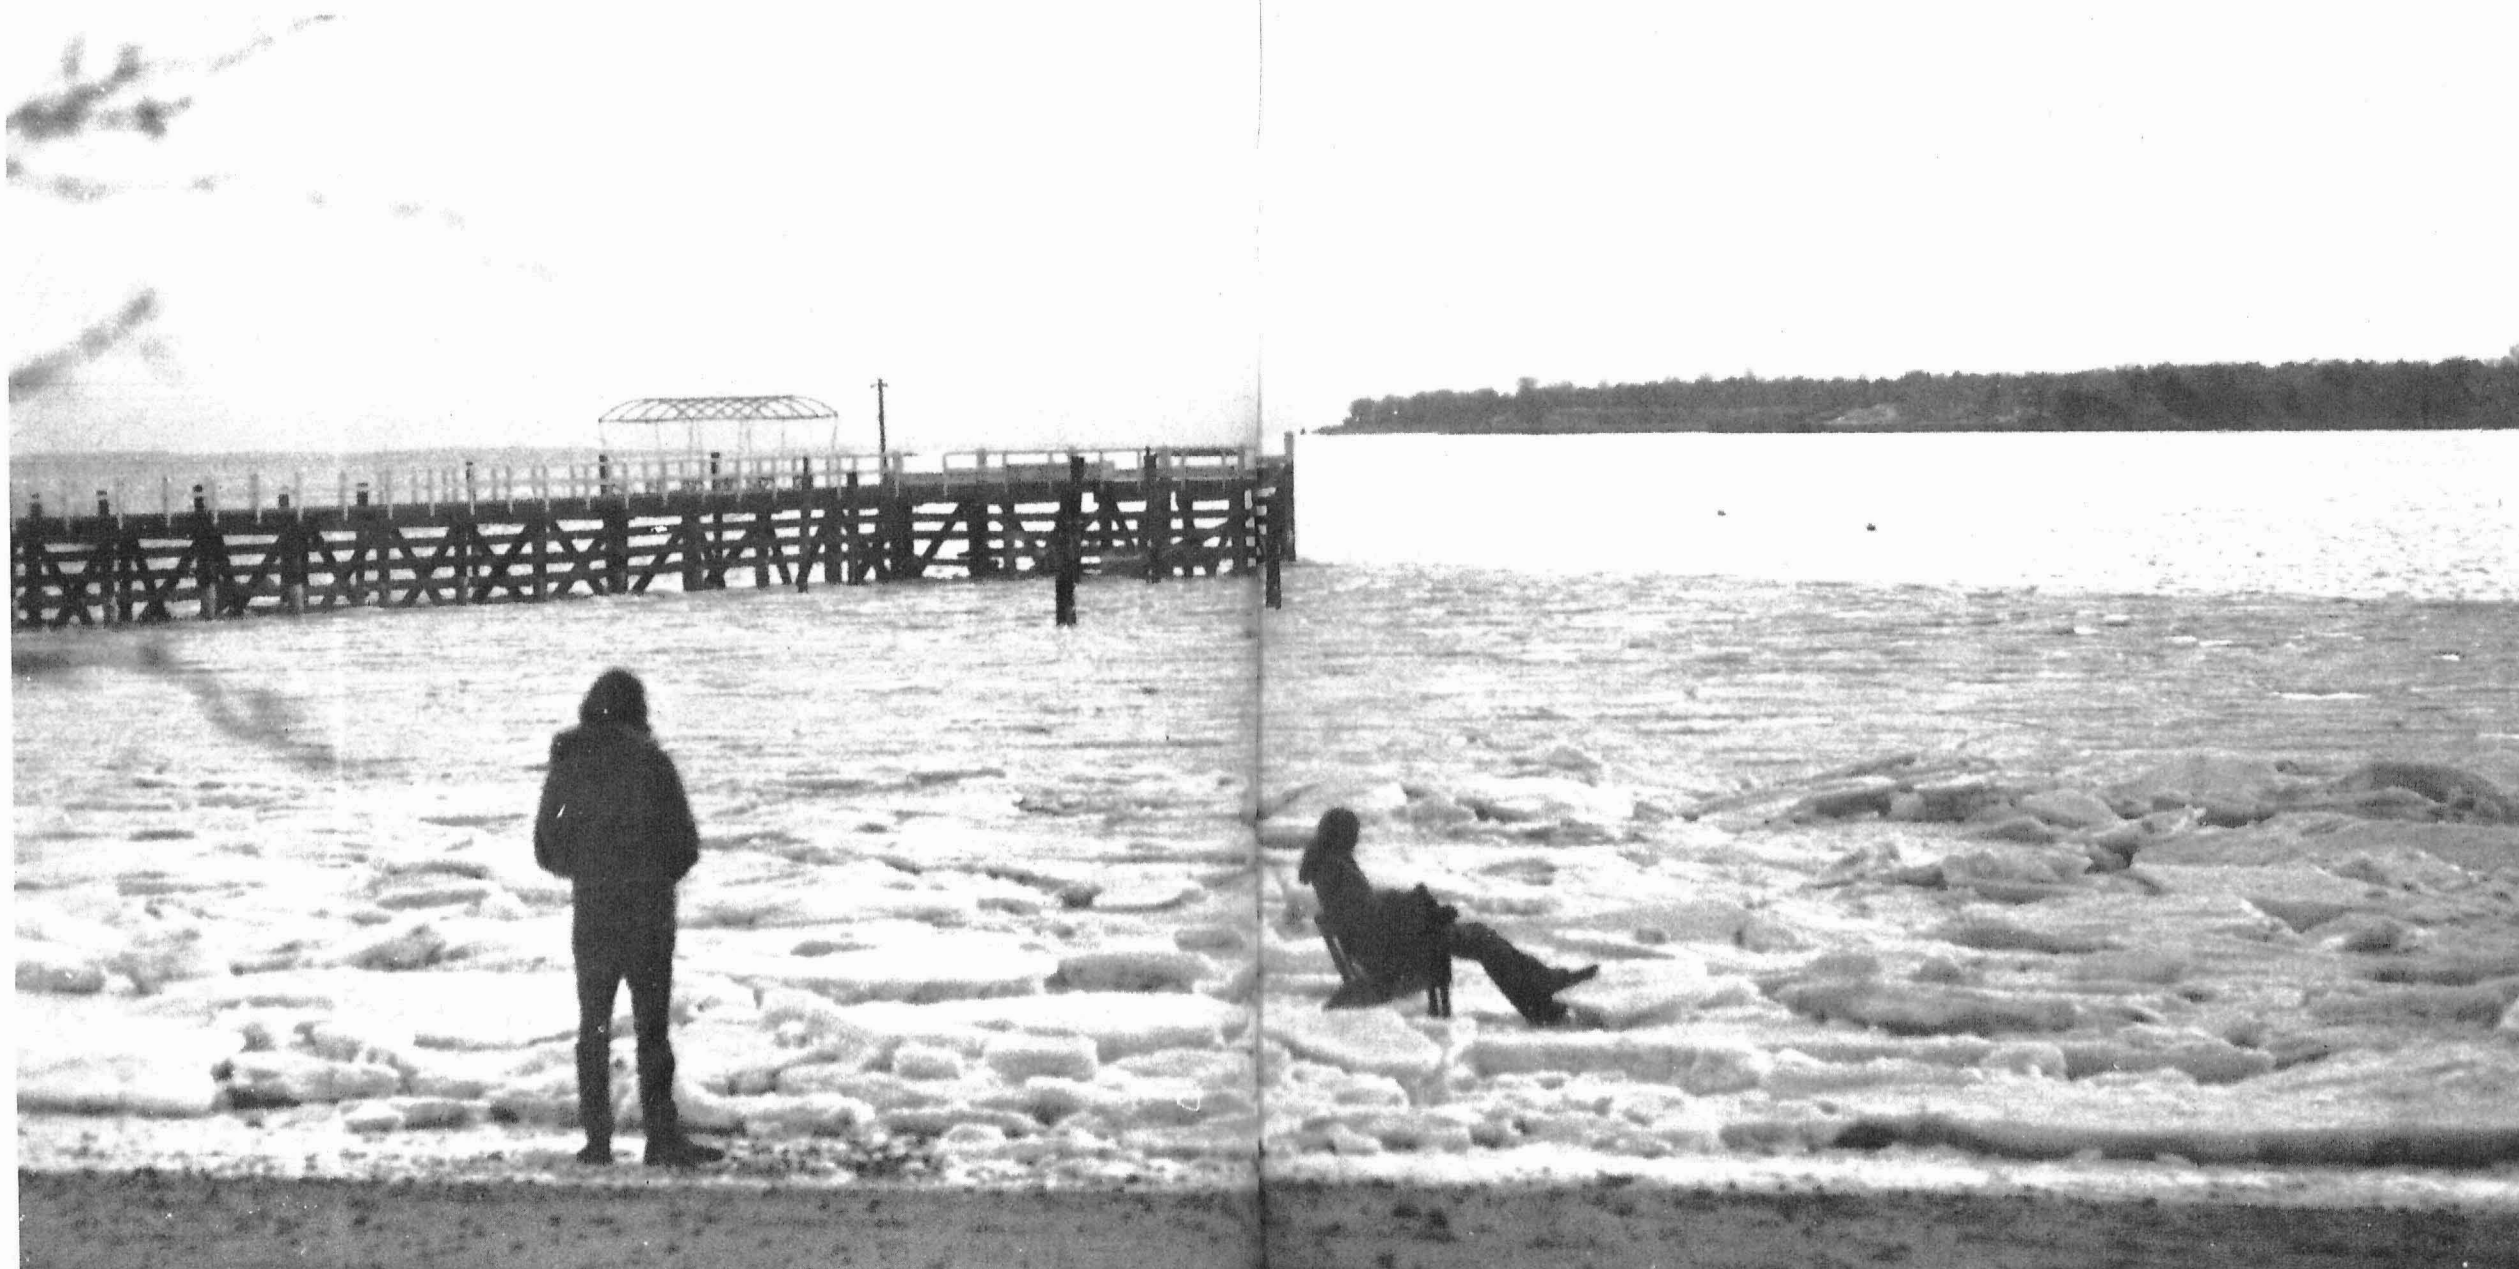

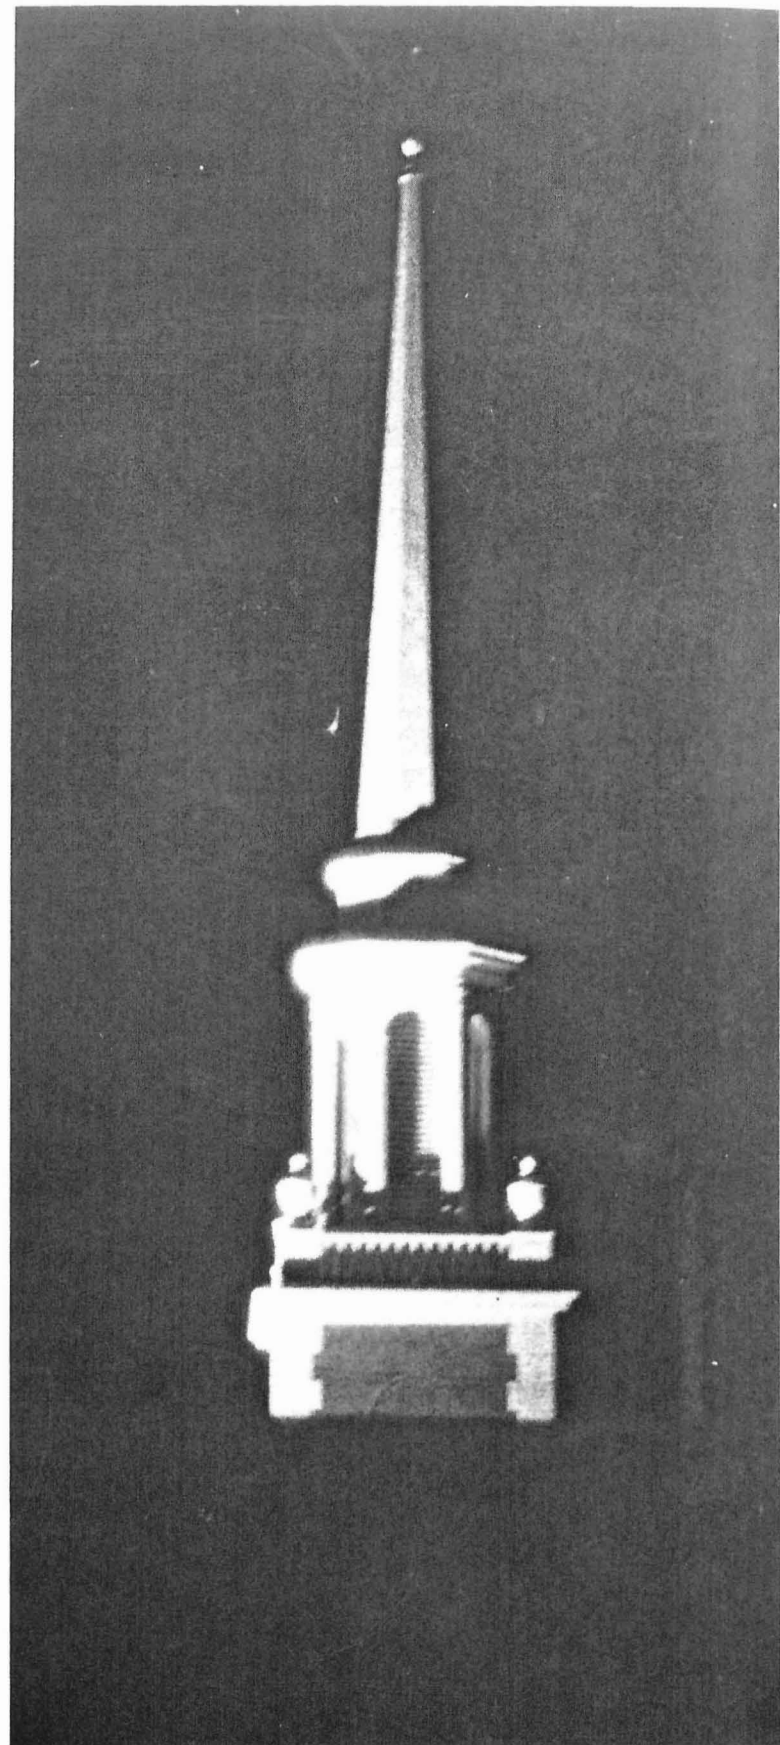

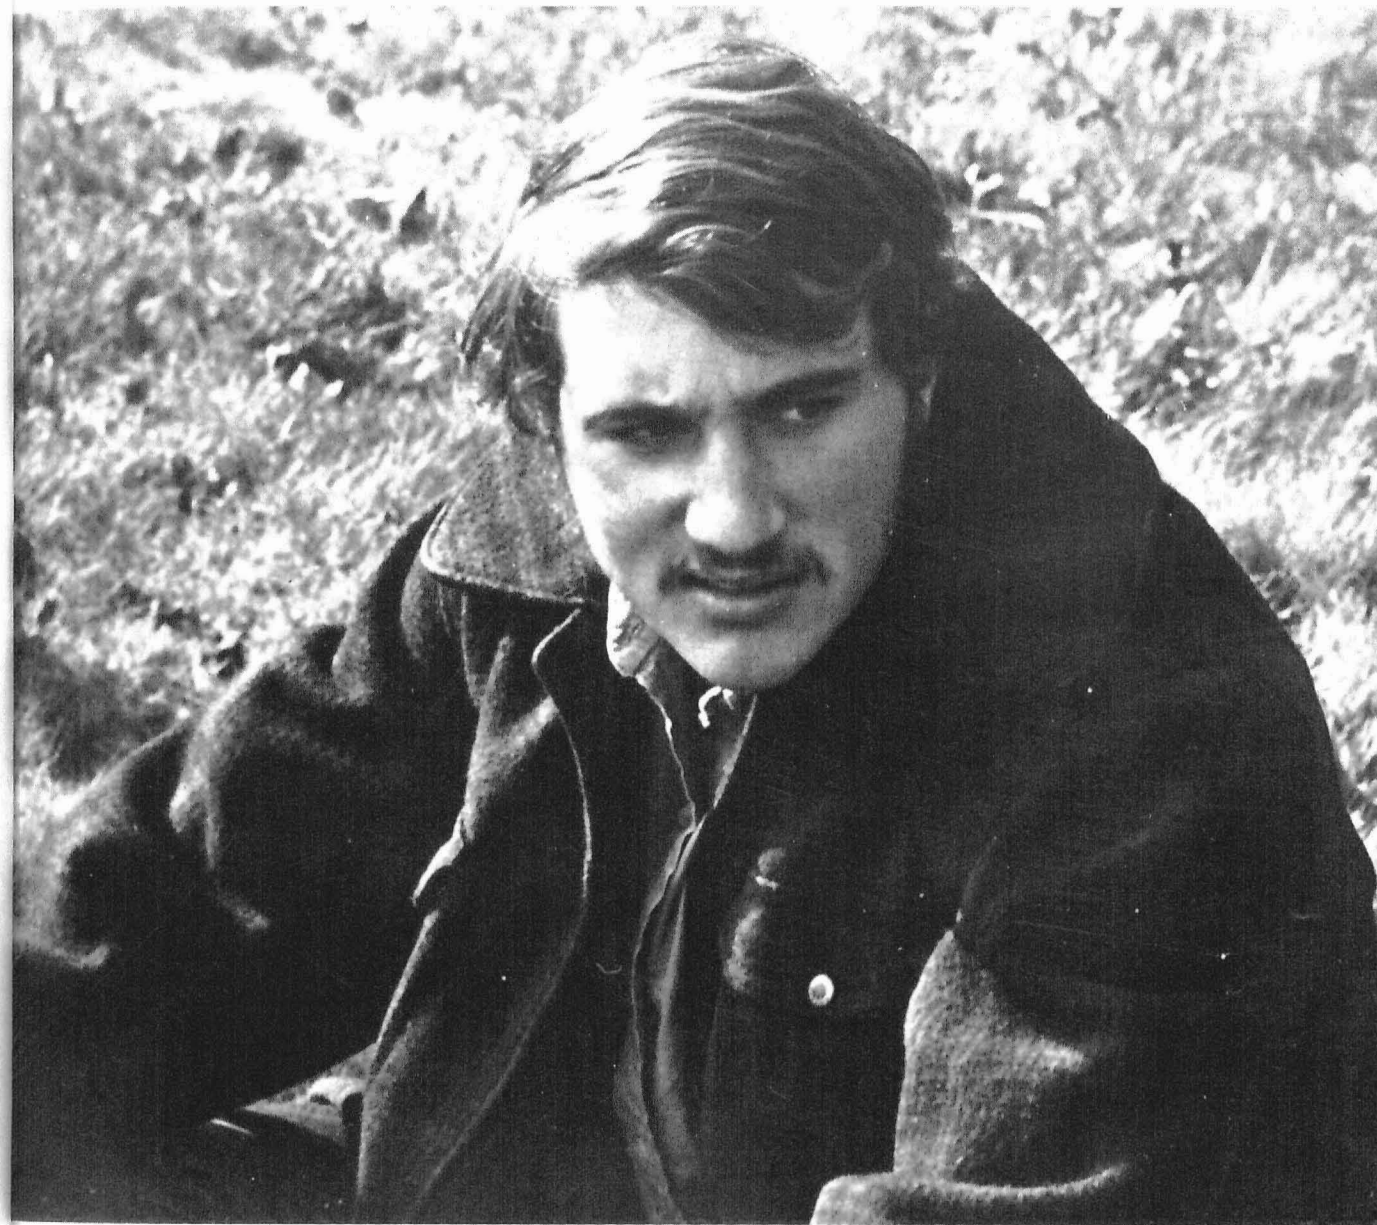

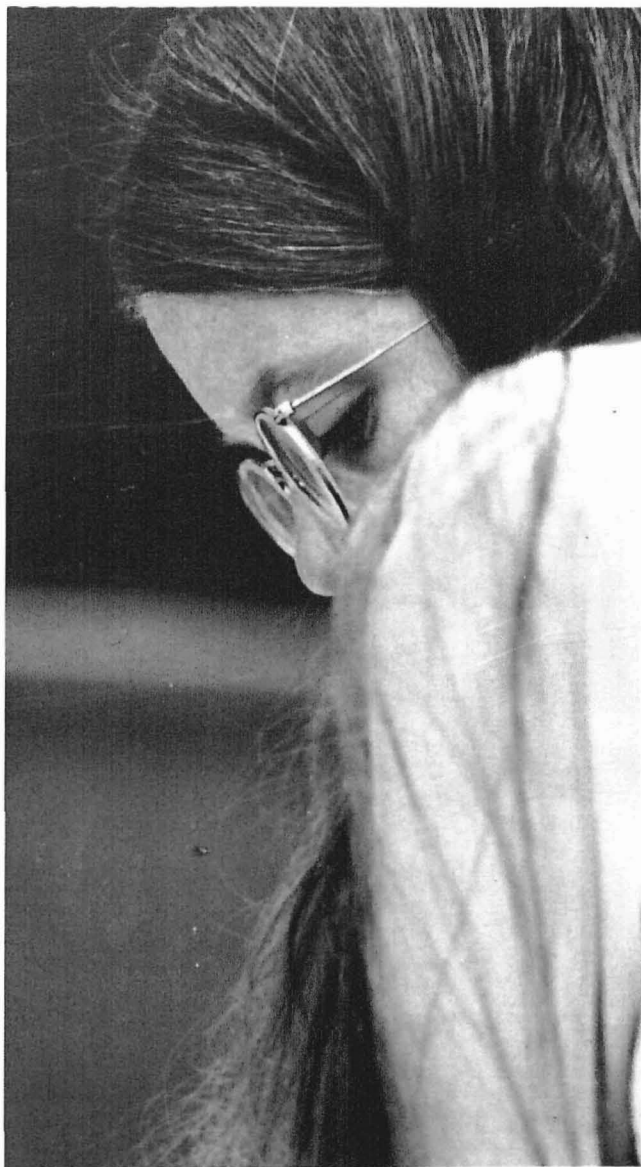

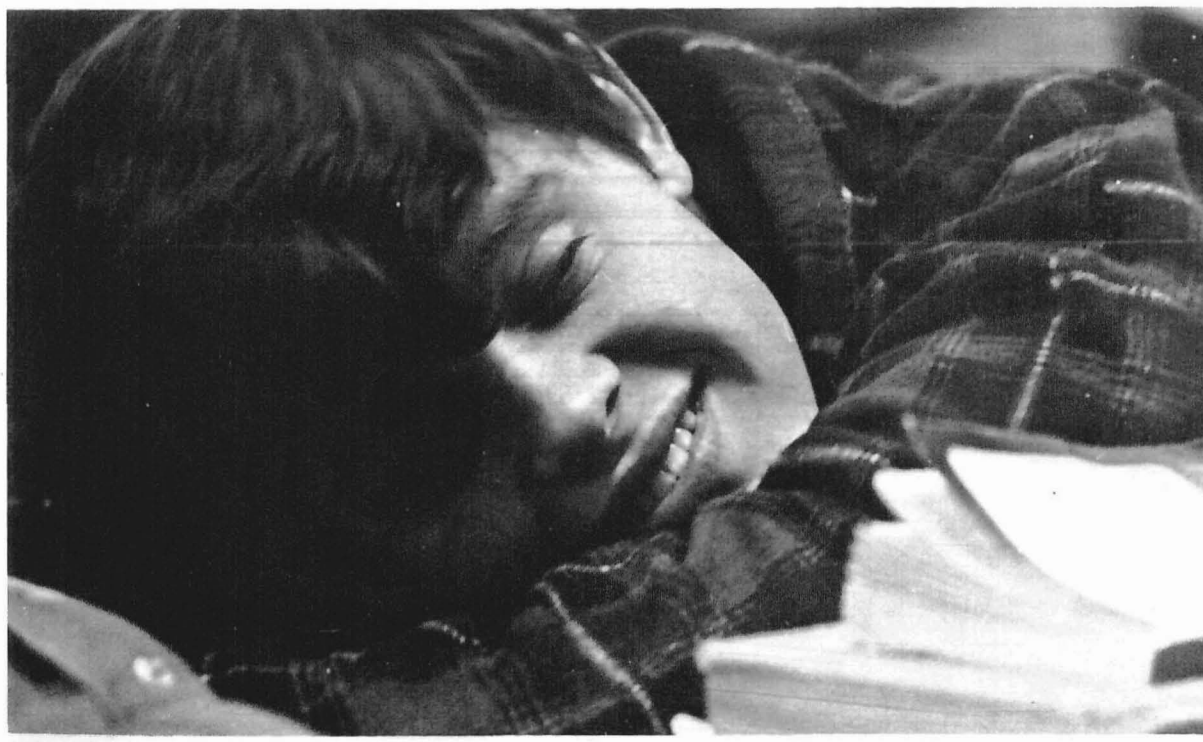

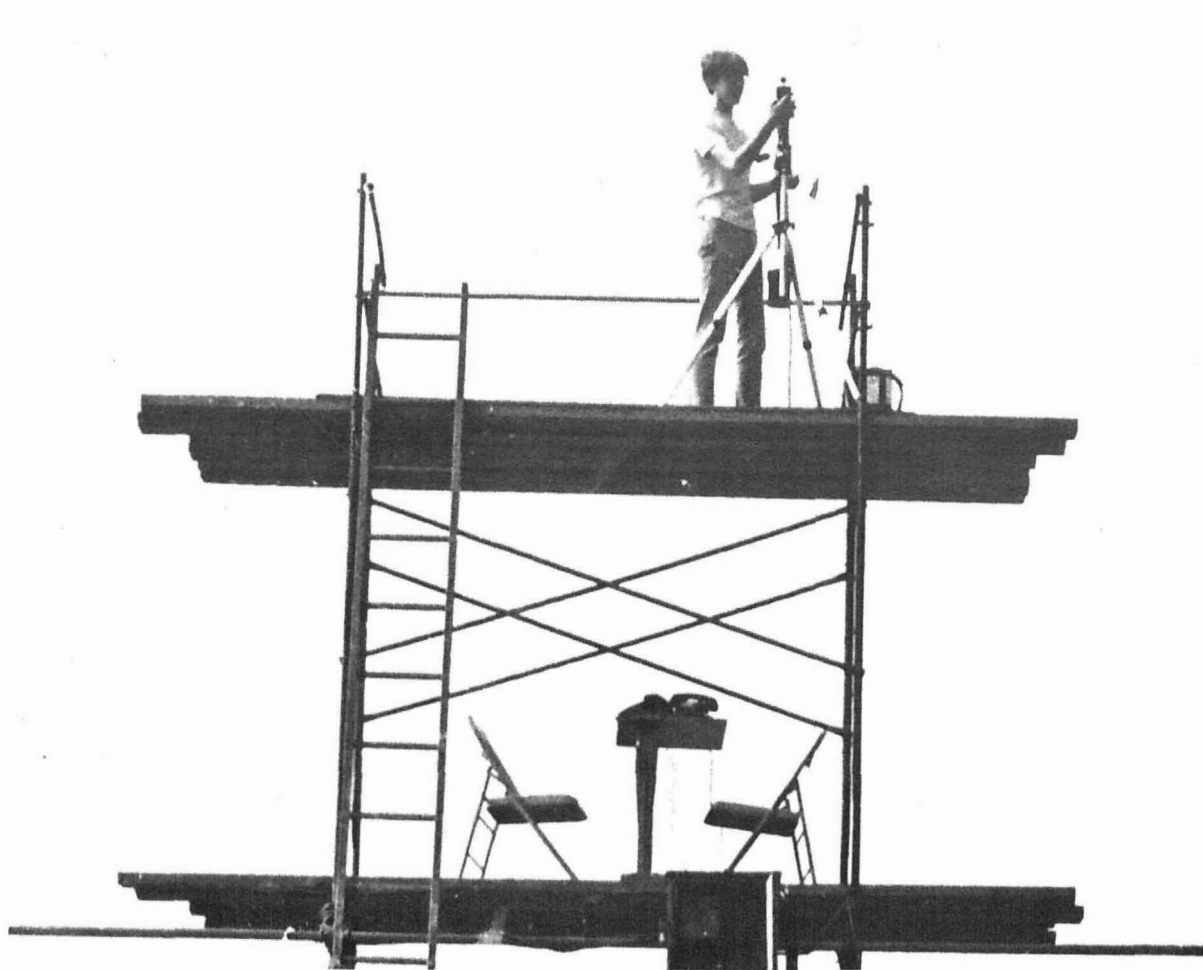

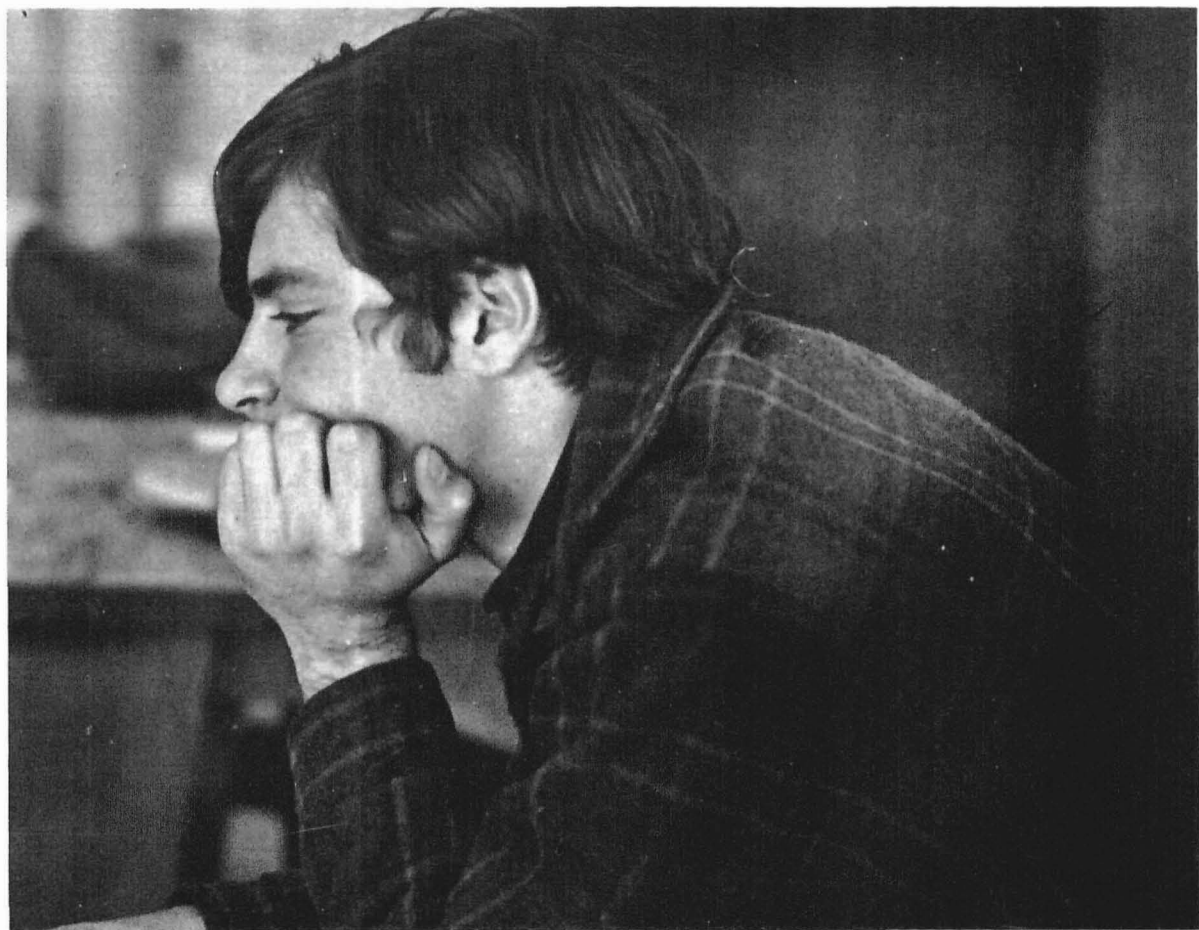

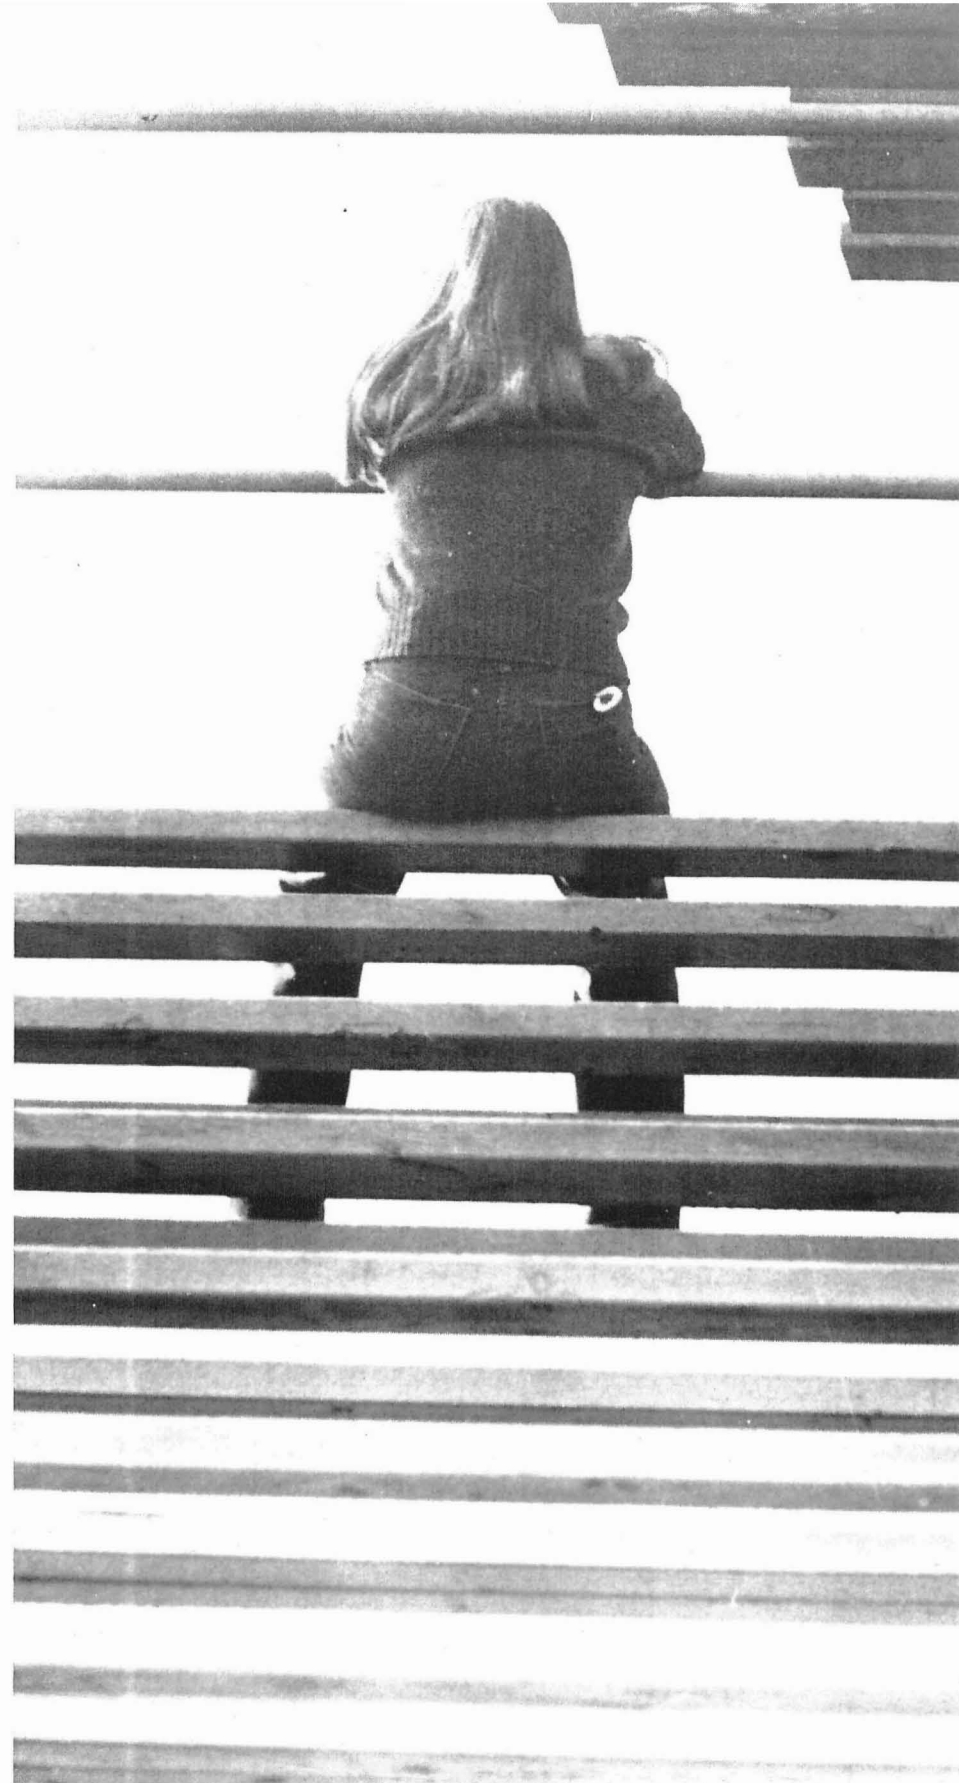

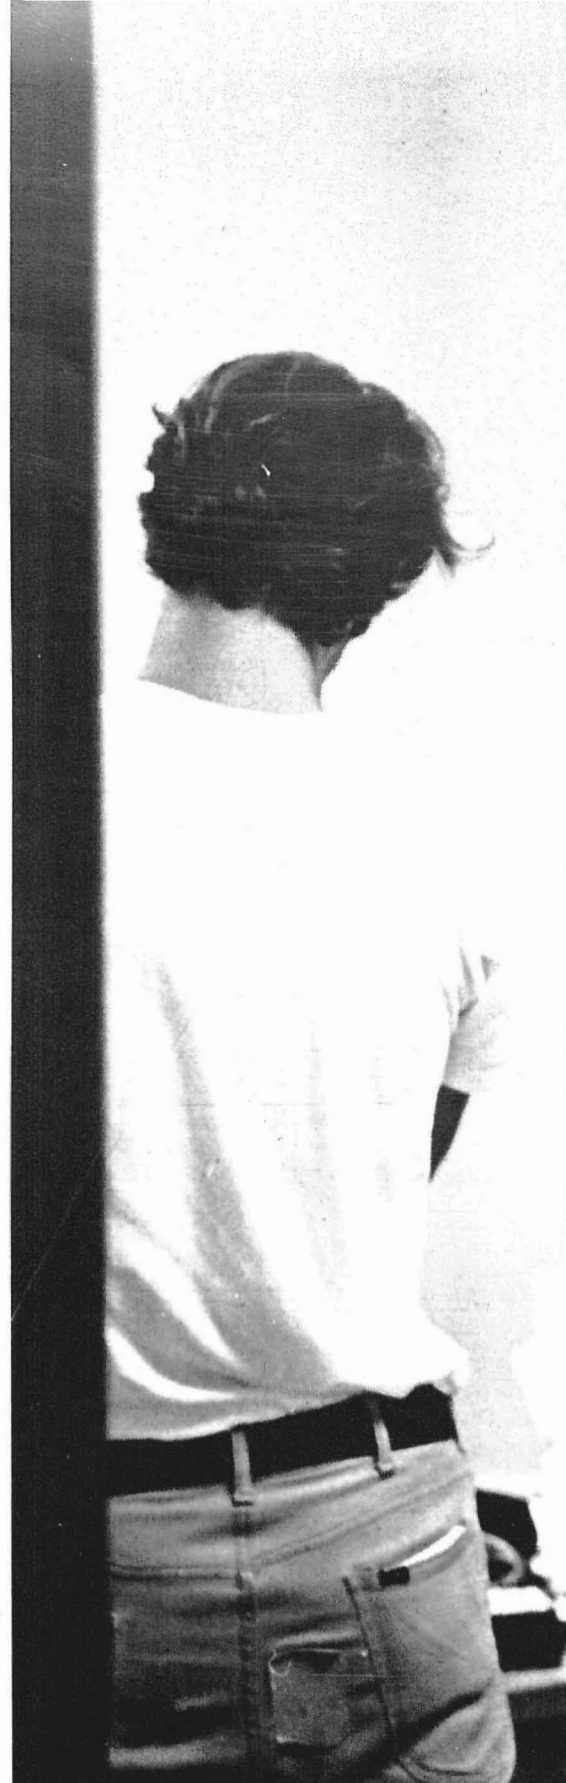

don't pass me by.
the nearer you approach me, the blinder I strike back.
I fight the very thing I cry out for.
you alone can remove my mask.

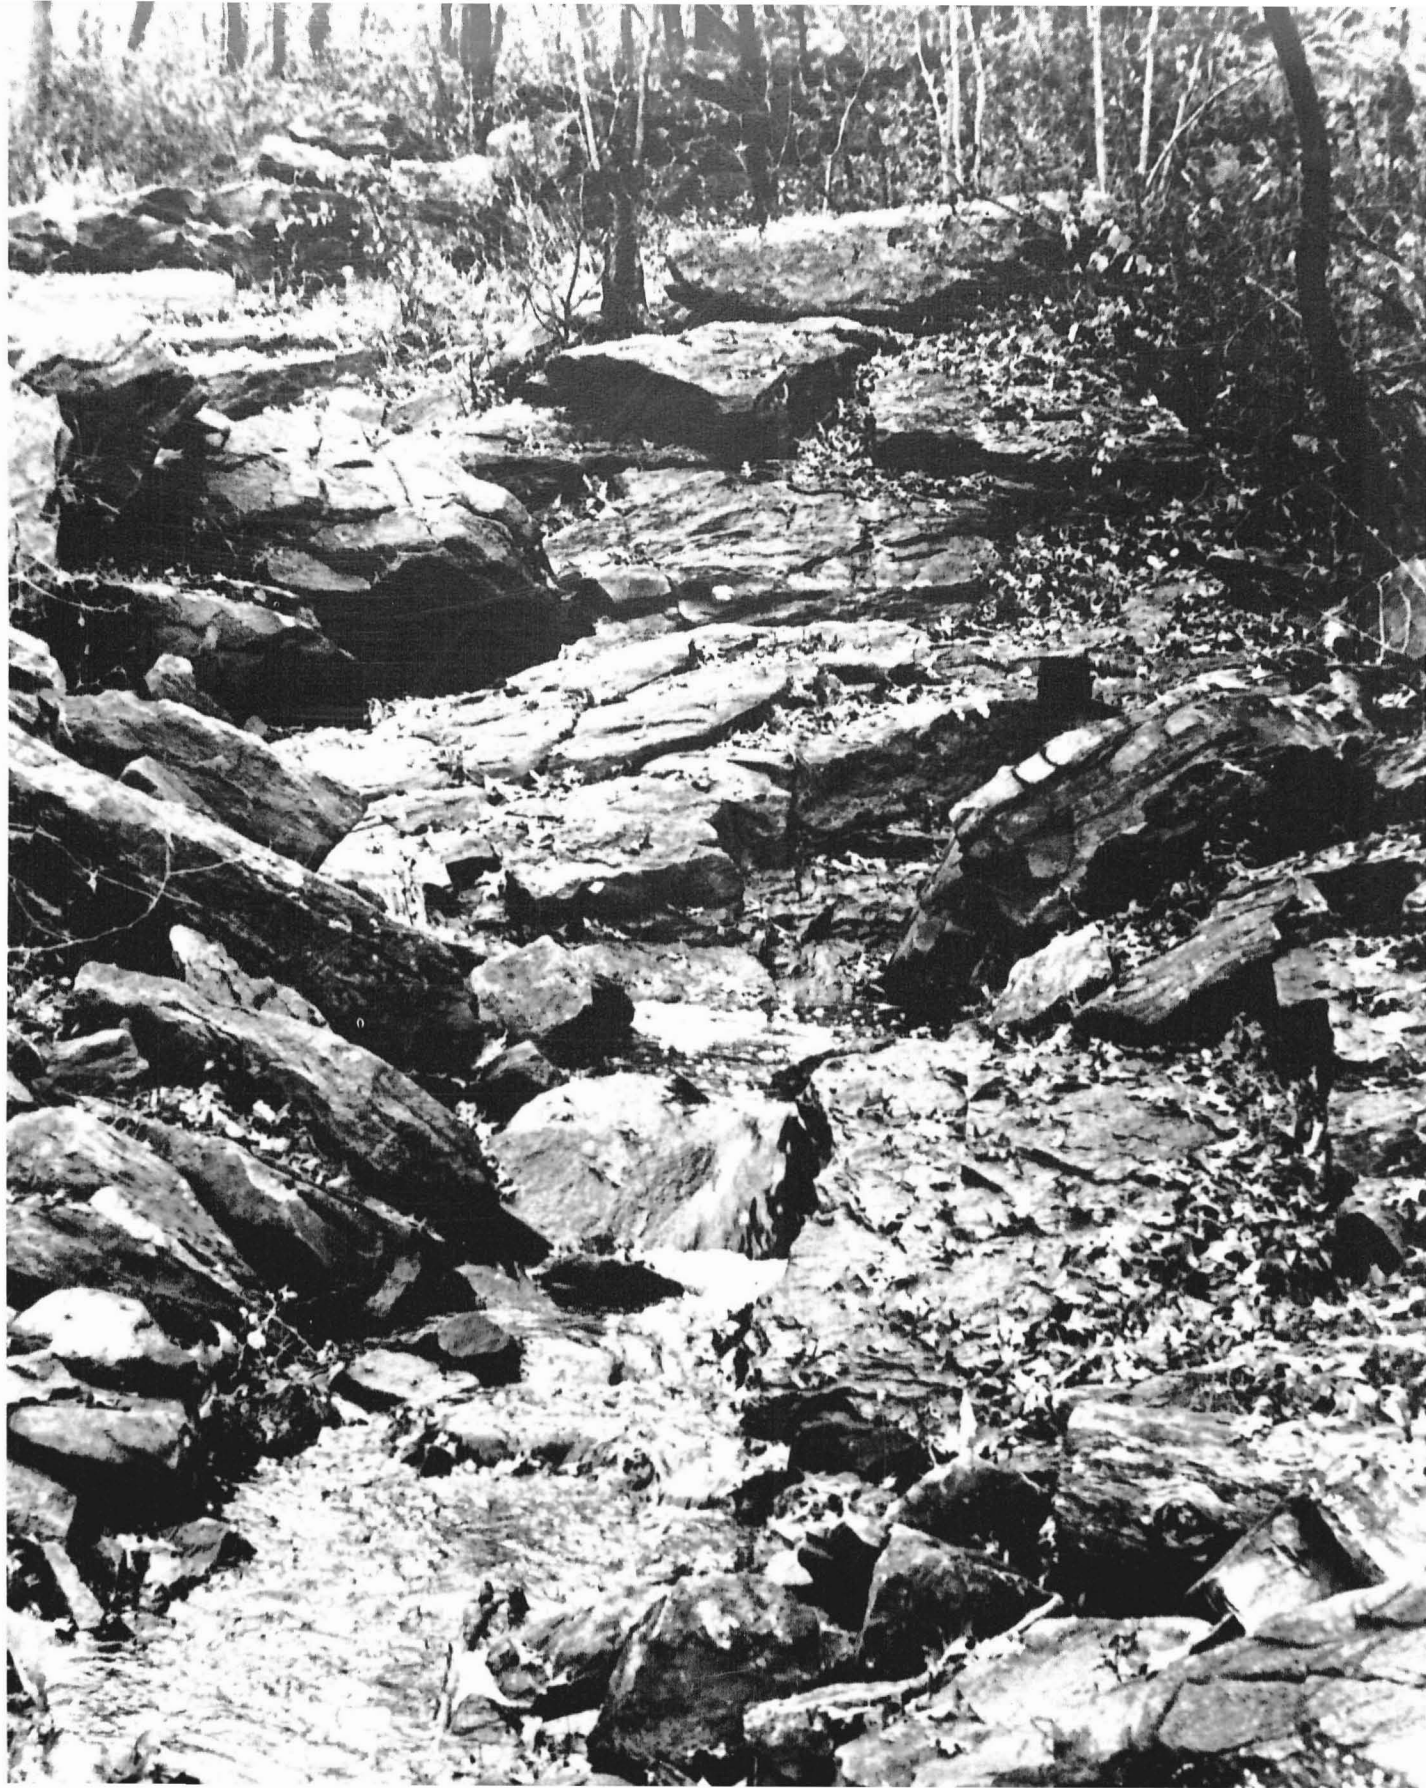

who am I you may wonder. I am someone you know very well.
for I am every man you meet and I am every woman you meet.
I am you.
